The Passion In Mark Studies On Mark 14 16:

The Passion in Mark Werner H. Kelber, 1976

The Disciples according to Mark C. Clifton Black, 2012-12-13

Redaction criticism attempts to identify biblical authors' theological interests by examining their adaptation of sources. Focusing on representative studies of Jesus' disciples in the Gospel of Mark, this pioneering book by C. Clifton Black has become the standard evaluation of that method's exegetical reliability. Comprehensively reviewing recent scholarship, Black identifies three distinctive types of redaction criticism in Markan interpretation. He demonstrates that diverse redaction critical interpretations of the disciples in Mark have bolstered rather than controlled scholarly presuppositions to a degree that impugns the method's reliability for interpreting Mark. The book concludes by assessing redaction criticism's usefulness and offering a more balanced approach to Mark's interpretation. This second edition includes a substantial detailed afterword that revisits the book's primary issues, converses with its critics, and provides an update of Markan scholarship over the past twenty-five years.

Jesus Christ as the Son of David in the Gospel of Mark Max Botner, 2019-05-30. Addresses the issue of the precarious nature of Davidic sonship in the Gospel of Mark.

Faith as a Theme in Mark's Narrative Christopher D. Marshall, 1994-12-08. Mark's gospel has attracted an enormous amount of scholarly attention over recent decades. The major themes of the gospel have been studied exhaustively and from a variety of critical perspectives. But at least one important theme in Mark has been comparatively neglected in recent study: the theme of faith. This critically acclaimed book redresses such neglect through a thorough exegetical and literary study of all the references to faith in Mark's composition.

The Theological Role of Paradox in the Gospel of Mark Laura C. Sweat, 2013-08-15. Scholarship on the Gospel of Mark has long been convinced of the paradoxical description of two of its primary themes: christology and discipleship. This book argues that paradoxical language pervades the entire narrative and that it serves a theological purpose in describing God's activity. Part One focuses on divine action present in Mark 4:10-12. In the first paradox, Mark portrays God's revelatory acts as consistently accompanied by concealment. The second paradox is shown in the various ways in which divine action confirms yet counters scripture. Finally, Mark describes God's actions in ways that indicate both wastefulness and goodness: deeds that are further illuminated by the ongoing yet defeated presence of evil. Part Two demonstrates that this paradoxical language is widely attested across Mark's passion narrative as he continues to depict God's activity with the use of the three paradoxes observed in Mark 4. Through paradoxical narrative, Mark emphasizes God's transcendence and presence, showing that even though Jesus has brought revelation, a complete understanding of God remains tantalizingly out of their grasp until the eschaton (4:22).

The Psalms of

Lament in Mark's Passion Stephen P. Ahearne-Kroll, 2007-10-18 Ahearne Kroll examines the literary interaction between Mark's passion narrative and four Psalms of Individual Lament

The Gospel of Mark John R. Donahue, Daniel J. Harrington, 2005 In The Gospel of Mark Fathers Donahue and Harrington use an approach that can be expressed by two terms currently used in literary criticism intratextuality and intertextuality This intratextual and intertextual reading of Mark's Gospel helps us to appreciate the literary character its setting in life and its distinctive approaches to the Old Testament Jesus and early Christian theology Intratextuality means we read Mark as Mark and by Mark Such a reading expresses interest in the final form of the Gospel not its source or literary history and in its words and images literary devices literary forms structures characterization and plot Reading Mark by Mark gives particular attention to the distinctive vocabulary and themes that run throughout the Gospel and serve to hold it together as a unified literary production Intertextuality comprises the relation between texts and a textual tradition and also referring to contextual materials not usually classified as texts e.g. archaeological data Intertextuality is used to note the links of the text of Mark's Gospel to other texts especially the Old Testament and to the life of the Markan community and of the Christian community today

The Gospel according to Mark Camille Focant, 2012-07-06 The world to which the Gospel of Mark introduces its reader is a world of conflicts and suspense enigmas and secrets questions and overturning of evidence irony and surprise Its principal actor Jesus is perplexing in the extreme He is evidently so for the religious authorities who oppose him but also for his disciples who shift from incomprehension to opposition and flight Questions of meaning life and death good and evil are continually broached This narrative is a subtle invitation to enter into a new world that of the coming Reign of God in which the first are last and whoever wants to save his life must lose it This commentary on the Gospel of Mark has been enthusiastically reviewed in the French edition as one of the best current commentaries on Mark As a narrative critical commentary it favors an interpretation of the Gospel that tries to grasp the dynamic of the text taken as a whole Even if the technical vocabulary of narrative analysis is not used and the main results of the historical critical criticism particularly those of redaction criticism are not neglected as the notes will reveal it is narrative criticism that guides the proceedings

The Birth and Death of the PreMarkan Passion Narrative Brandon Massey, 2024-07-26 The existence of a source behind the Markan passion narrative was considered one of the assured results of twentieth century scholarship Brandon Massey traces the origins and assumptions underlying the existence of this source and shows that it cannot be sustained outside of a form critical paradigm
