Gilman,1993 There is no category of supposed human beings that comes closer to the orangutan than does a Polish Jew said a Bavarian writer reflecting the eighteenth century view that Jews were profoundly flawed The Jewish body popular opinion held was malformed from feet to nose and predisposed to a host of illnesses ranging from the plague to hysteria The Jewish soul had a peculiar stench The Jewish libido had a tendency toward incest The Jewish gaze was pathological and precluded the possibility of unbiased observation By the close of the nineteenth century these ideas had found their way into European medical journals and the medical establishment was convinced that Jews were both diseased and perverted It was an interesting time to be a Jewish physician In The Case of Sigmund Freud Sander Gilman traces the medicalization of Jewishness in the science and medicine of turn of the century Vienna and the ways in which Jewish physicians responded to the effort to incorporate this racist biological literature into medical practice Focusing on the new science of psychoanalysis Gilman looks at the strategic devices Sigmund Freud employed to detach himself from the stigma of being Jewish and shows how Freud s work in psychoanalysis evolved in response to the biological discourse of the time In order to circumvent the prevailing debates about race Gilman argues Freud carefully formulated the particular biological charges against the Jew into a universal definition of a human being As a consequence his early psychoanalytic theories transcended the controversies about biological determinism and yet remained framed by them BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved The Patterson Index of Plastic Surgery, 1864 A.
