The Packard 1942 1962:

The Packard: 1942-1962 Nathaniel T. Dawes, 1975      Packard Dennis Adler, Jay Leno, 2004-06 Foreword by Jay Leno
The author delivers the complete history of this magnificent marque from Packard's first Model A horseless carriage of 1899 to the company's final days in 1958. Archival black and white photographs, stunning new color photos, and a thorough and well-researched text guide you through Packard's stylish lineup.      "Ask the Man Who Owns One" Arthur W. Einstein, Jr., 2014-01-10 A major force in the American automobile scene through the 1950s, Packard made a mark on American advertising as well. The cars themselves seemed built for promotion: the red hexagon in the hubcap, the yoke grille, and the half-arrow belt line molding acted as a logo of sorts, setting a new standard in visual continuity and branding. The company's image became so firmly established in fact that Packard eventually ran advertisements which pictured the cars but purposely omitted the name, instead asking readers to guess what name it bears. This book traces Packard's advertising history from 1900 through 1958, based on original research that includes several first-hand interviews with the people who made it happen. Filled with reproductions of Packard ads, some in color, the book looks beyond the surface to examine how the advertisements reflect and interpret the company's management and business convictions, how they were influenced by business conditions and competitive pressure, and how they changed with the times.      Systemic Structure Behind Human Organizations Yi Lin, Bailey Forrest, 2011-12-15 Systemic Structure behind Human Organizations: From Civilizations to Individuals shows how the systemic yoyo model can be successfully employed to study human organizations at three different levels: civilizations, business enterprises, and individuals. This monograph tackles managerial problems from an holistic perspective, such as how a business entity grows and dies, and how a CEO can manipulate the choices of long and short-term projects in order to gain more control over the board of directors. By creating a uniform language and logic of reasoning, the book provides examples and convincing results. Additionally, the book shows how the same model thinking logic and methodology of the systems research can be equally applied to analyze problems and situations considered in natural sciences, social sciences, and humanity areas. Therefore, it offers knowledge of a brand-new tool to attack organizational problems. By concentrating on difficult, unsettled issues in these varying areas, this monograph thoroughly explains how some laws of nature can be established for the common study of natural and social sciences.      *Catalog of Copyright Entries. Our goal was to make information accessible to current and future historians as well as casual readers. The bibliography lists 321 books, both fiction and nonfiction; 1,784 magazine articles; and 2,768 newspaper articles. All are related to the Studebaker Corporation, its founders, officers, employees, dealers, subsidiaries, or vehicles, and nearly all of it is available free or inexpensively from your local library's interlibrary loan.
