Social Systems And Learning Systems:

Social Systems and Learning Systems A.F.G. Hanken, H.A. Reuver, 2012-12-06 In today's social and behavioral sciences the complexity of many problems requires the development of a number of highly specialized disciplines. However, the cost of such development is the obscuring of the relationships between these disciplines. This dilemma calls for a mixed strategy that combines the advantages of specialization with those of a unified viewpoint. The purpose of this book is to provide the connective tissue that is needed to obtain an overall view. The principles of general system theory naturally lead to a framework that includes many known models and content areas. Our intention is to strike a balance between generality and plain usefulness. The first part of this book introduces a social system as a network of interacting decision makers. This general framework allows a classification of a number of more specific structures which include autocratic and democratic systems, systems with collective and individual decision making and systems with and without coalitions. In the second part various psychological schools are seen as specific instances of a general paradigm which is consequently a point of departure for a taxonomy of learning systems. For a full understanding of this matter we recommend a careful study of the first four chapters as an introduction to the concepts elaborated in the second part of the book. ix PREFACE x Though the subject matter has a formal background it does not require a mathematical knowledge in depth. Familiarity with elementary probability theory and linear algebra is enough.

Social Learning Systems and Communities of Practice Chris Blackmore, 2010-06-01 Social Learning Systems and Communities of Practice is a collection of classical and contemporary writing associated with learning and systemic change in contexts ranging from cities to rural development to education to nursing to water management to public policy. It is likely to be of interest to anyone trying to understand how to think systemically and to act and interact effectively in situations experienced as complex, messy and changing. While mainly concerned with professional praxis where theory and practice inform each other, there is much here that can apply at a personal level. This book offers conceptual tools and suggestions for new ways of being and acting in the world in relation to each other that arise from both old and new understandings of communities, learning and systems. Starting with twentieth century insights into social learning, learning systems and appreciative systems from Donald Schön and Sir Geoffrey Vickers, the book goes on to consider the contemporary traditions of critical social learning systems and communities of practice pioneered by Richard Bawden and Etienne Wenger and their colleagues. A synthesis of the ideas raised, written by the editor, concludes this reader. The theory and practice of social learning systems and communities of practice appear to have much to offer in influencing and managing systemic change for a better world.

Social Systems and Design Gary S. Metcalf, 2014-07-08 We live in the worlds that we help to create every day. Every activity either supports an existing system or effects some change, however small. But is it possible to consciously create the worlds in which we want to live? This volume brings together systems theorists and practitioners who have worked on that question for decades. It explores connections between design and systems ideas to explain why some efforts have been more successful than others and what is needed if we are to move forward It offers reflections on early and large scale attempts at impacting societal systems as well as proposals for taking those ideas into the future Examples date back to the Club of Rome in the 1960s and look forward to the creation of ecologically sustainable systems in the future They address the need for collaboration and inclusion in settings from communities to corporations And while theories are presented as support for the examples they are explained in practical ways meant to be accessible both to students and to general readers

Building a Social Democracy Robert Danisch, 2015-11-06 Building a Social Democracy offers an alternative intellectual history of American pragmatism one that tries to reclaim the middle of the twentieth century in order to push neo pragmatism beyond its philosophical limitations Danisch argues that the major entailment of the invention of American pragmatism at the beginning of the twentieth century is that rhetorical practices are the rightful object of study and means of improving democratic life Pragmatism entails a commitment to rhetoric Rhetorical pragmatism is intended to be more faithful to the project of first generation pragmatism to offer insight into the ways in which rhetoric operates in contemporary democratic cultures to recommend practices methods and modes of action for improving contemporary democratic cultures and to subordinate philosophy to rhetoric by reimagining appropriate ways for pragmatist scholarship and social research to advance

Reigeluth, Bela H. Banathy, J.R. Olson, 2012-12-06 Educational technology in the broadest sense is knowledge and competence for improving the educational process for using hardware equipment software methods and underware underlying organizational structures This volume in the Special Programme on Advanced Educational Technology presents the results of a NATO Advanced Research Workshop on educational systems design as a new educational technology. The objective of the workshop was to advance our knowledge about the comprehensive systems design approach for improving educational systems. The workshop was organized for the transdisciplinary interaction of three scientific groups representing design science, organizational systems science, and educational technology. Participants were selected based on their scholarship as members of one or more of these three groups. The book opens with the framing papers sent by the editors to participants prior to the workshop, then presents five sets of thematic contributions: the conceptual and empirical contexts of comprehensive systems design; the systems design focus; a systems view of designing educational systems; the educational context of systems design; and high technology focus in systems design.

Community Informatics Design Applied to Digital Social Systems Pierre-Léonard Harvey, 2017-12-05

This book introduces a Digital Social System Praxis Framework (DSSPF) integrating Computational Media, Evolutionary Systems Thinking, and Design Thinking approaches to E transformation practice, also called Community Informatics Design (CID). The DSSPF framework is intended to create communication spaces dedicated to knowledge production and sharing for social and organizational change. It allows social systems researchers and practitioners to recognize their synergistic roles in the praxis process to shape their future through social innovation projects. This transdisciplinary text provides potential students and practitioners with fundamental concepts and tools for such design. It offers resources from the Pragmatic and Systemic philosophy of science for the co-construction of social architectures and infrastructures and multi-aspectual design methodologies by which government organizations and civil society can learn to ethically co-design common ground. This approach provides complementary and common patterns from known methods, models, and theories of social systems interventions that could support a generic framing of large-scale sociotechnical systems: digital social innovation ecosystem, living Labs, Fab Labs, enterprise collaborative networks. There will be a particular focus on understanding and addressing the dimensions that make people from different communities of practice able to communicate and collaborate through multiple digital media design platforms, worldviews, and modeling approaches.

Changing European farming systems for a better future Hans Langeveld, Niels Röling, 2023-08-28

Changes in market organisation, climatic conditions, and societal demands on food quality, animal welfare, and environmental quality have created new conditions for farming families as well as for researchers and policy makers. Contributions are made from those involved in crop and animal production worldwide, offering sections on natural resources management, development of sustainable rural systems, future perspectives for farming families, knowledge systems in transition, and learning processes in multi-stakeholder processes. This unique collection of contributions presenting insights
