Teaching Multicultural Children's Literature in a Diverse Society AnnMarie Alberton Gunn, Susan, V. Bennett, 2023-03-28

This textbook is a comprehensive resource for teaching multicultural children's literature. Providing foundational information on how and why to integrate diverse children's literature into the classroom, this book presents a necessary historical perspective on cultural groups in the United States and context for how to teach children's literature in a way that reflects and sustains students' rich cultural backgrounds. The historical insights and context on diverse cultural groups at the heart of the book allow readers to deepen their understanding of why teaching about cultural diversity is necessary for effective and inclusive education. Part I offers foundational information on how to teach children's literature in a diverse society, and Part II overviews pedagogy, resources, and guidance for teaching specific culturally and linguistically marginalized groups. Each chapter contains book recommendations, discussion questions, and additional resources for teachers. With authentic strategies and crucial background knowledge embedded in each chapter, this text is essential reading for pre-service and in-service teachers and is ideal for courses in children's literature, literacy methods, instruction, and multicultural education.

Children's Literature and the Fin de Siècle Roderick McGillis, 2003-11-30. The close of a century invites both retrospection and prognostication. As a period of transition, it also brings a sense of uncertainty, finality, and apocalypticism. These feelings stem from various events such as political turmoil, scientific advancements, and social change. As might be expected, literature reflects such changes and the feelings they engender. But perhaps more surprisingly, children's literature is especially sensitive to such matters, and fiction for children often struggles with dark and unpleasant issues. This book examines fin de siècle tensions in 19th and 20th-century children's literature from around the world. Each chapter is written by an expert contributor, and the volume ranges over a disparate variety of topics. These include poetry, series books, pacifist fiction, gender issues, religion, and literature, eco-criticism, minority experiences, humor, and the Holocaust, fantasy, and science fiction, and computer culture. In exploring these issues in relation to children's literature, the contributors reveal the shifting nature of our values and the world in which we live. Global in nature, the chapters look at children's literature from such places as Germany, Holland, the United Kingdom, Australia, and the United States.

Children's Literature & Story-telling Ernest Emenyonu, Patricia Thornton Emenyonu, Jane Bryce, Maureen N. Eke, Stephanie Newell, Charles E. Nnolim, Alphonse Kwawisi Tekpetey, Iniobong I. Uko, Obi Nwakanma, Chimalum Moses Nwankwo, 2015. Contributors analyse the theories behind children's literature, its functions, and cultural significance, and suggest the new directions this literature is taking in terms of its craft, themes, and intentions. Africa's encounter with the West and its implications and consequences remain far-reaching and enduring in the craft and thrust of its creative writers. The contributors to ALT 33 analyse the connections between traditional stories and myths that have been told to children, as well as the work of contemporary creative writers who are writing for children in order that they understand this complex history. Some of these writers are developing traditional myths folk tales and legends and are writing them in new forms while others focus on the encounter with the West that has dominated much modern African literature for adults The previous neglect of the cultural significance study criticism and teaching of children s literature is addressed in this volume How can the successes and or failures of stories and story telling for children in Africa be measured Are there models to be followed and what makes them models What is the relationship between the text and the illustration of children s books What should guide the reader or critic of children s literature coming out of Africa globalism transculturality or internal regionalism What problems confront teachers students publishers and promoters of children s books in Africa Ernest Emenyonu is Professor of Africana Studies at the University of Michigan Flint USA the editorial board is composed of scholars from US UK and African universities Reviews Editor Obi Nwakanma HEBN Nigeria

Poetics of Children's Literature Zohar Shavit, 2009-11-01 Since its emergence in the seventeenth century as a distinctive cultural system children's literature has had a culturally inferior status resulting from its existence in a netherworld between the literary system and the educational system In addition to its official readership children it has to be approved of by adults Writers for children explains Zohar Shavit are constrained to respond to these multiple systems of often mutually contradictory demands Most writers do not try to bypass these constraints but accept them as a framework for their work In the most extreme cases an author may ignore one segment of the readership If the adult reader is ignored the writer risks rejection as is the case of popular literature If the writer utilizes the child as a pseudo addressee in order to appeal to an adult audience the result can be what Shavit terms an ambivalent work Shavit analyzes the conventions and the moral aims that have structured children's literature from the fairy tales collected and reworked by Charles Perrault and the Brothers Grimm in particular Little Red Riding Hood through the complex manipulations of Lewis Carroll in Alice's Adventures in Wonderland to the subversion of the genre's canonical requirements in the chapbooks of the eighteenth century and in the formulaic Nancy Drew books of the twentieth century Throughout her study Shavit explores not only how society has shaped children's literature but also how society has been reflected in the literary works it produces for its children

The Family in English Children's Literature Ann Alston, 2008-06-03 From the trials of families experiencing divorce as in Anne Fine s Madame Doubtfire to the childcare problems highlighted in Jacqueline Wilson s Tracy Beaker it might seem that the traditional family and the ideals that accompany it have long vanished However in The Family in English Children s Literature Ann Alston argues that this is far from the case She suggests that despite the tales of family woe portrayed in children s literature the desire for the happy contented nuclear family remains inherent within the ideological subtexts of children s literature Using 1818 as a starting point Alston investigates families in children s literature at their most intimate focusing on how they share their spaces their ideals of home and even on what they eat for dinner What emerges from Alston s study are not so much the contrasts that exist between periods but rather the startling similarities of the ideology of family intrinsic to children s literature The Family in English Children s Literature sheds light on who maintains control who behaves and how significant children s literature is in shaping our ideas about what makes a family good
