Suicide In Prisons:

Suicide Behind Bars David Lester, Bruce L. Danto, 1993 Suicide and Self-Harm in Prisons and Jails Christine Tartaro, David Lester, 2010-07-12 Police and corrections personnel must always be mindful of the possibility that those in their custody may attempt suicide or commit an act of self mutilation Persons housed in prisons jails and police lockups tend to be at a higher risk for such destructive behavior than members of the general population Reasons for this can be found by examining the mental health substance abuse and physical sexual abuse histories of inmates in addition to deficits in their coping skills and the stress and uncertainty generated by incarceration This book explores several topics pertaining to suicide and deliberate self harm in the corrections setting including who tends to commit these acts where when and how these incidents occur screening mechanisms the role of environmental stimuli in facilitating or preventing acts of self harm interpersonal relations among inmates and between inmates and staff and the role of the courts in setting and ruling on suicide prevention policies The authors discuss the role of prevention techniques that offer a balance between strict opportunity reduction and softer motivation reduction strategies The book also includes suggestions for diversion programs that can keep mentally ill inmates out of prisons and jails and transition planning programs to better prepare outgoing inmates for their re entry into the community Suicide and Self-Harm in Prisons and Jails Christine Tartaro, David Lester, 2010-07-12 Police and corrections personnel must always be mindful of the possibility that those in their custody may attempt suicide or commit an act of self mutilation Persons housed in prisons jails and police lockups tend to be at a higher risk for such destructive behavior than members of the general population Reasons for this can be found by examining the mental health substance abuse and physical sexual abuse histories of inmates in addition to deficits in their coping skills and the stress and uncertainty generated by incarceration This book explores several topics pertaining to suicide and deliberate self harm in the corrections setting including who tends to commit these acts where when and how these incidents occur screening mechanisms the role of environmental stimuli in facilitating or preventing acts of self harm interpersonal relations among inmates and between inmates and staff and the role of the courts in setting and ruling on suicide prevention policies The authors discuss the role of prevention techniques that offer a balance between strict opportunity reduction and softer motivation reduction strategies The book also includes suggestions for diversion programs that can keep mentally ill inmates out of prisons and jails and transition planning programs to better prepare outgoing inmates for their re entry into the community Suicides in Prison Alison Liebling, 2002-09-11 First published in 1992 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Suicide in Prisons Graham Towl, David Crighton, 2017-05-03 The definitive guide from two leading authors central to developments in the field An invaluable book which covers everything from theoretical and community research to precisely what is known about prisoners and the risk of their completing suicide Covers the Harris Review and Government Response to it as well as the stance of politicians reform groups and other leading experts on what in 2017 is an escalating problem for UK prisons Contains analysis and data from over 30 years bringing together key knowledge and information at a critical time of concern and attention Prison Suicide Lindsay M. Hayes,1998-12 Until recently it has been assumed that suicide although a problem for jail inmates as they face the initial crisis of incarceration is not a significant problem for inmates who advance to prison to serve out their sentences This monograph was produced to fill a critical void in the knowledge base about prison suicide In addition to a through review of the literature and of national and state standards for prevention it offers the most recent national data on the incidence and rate of prison suicide effective prevention programs and discussion of liability issues References appendices and tables Suicide and Self-harm in Prisons and Jails Christine Tartaro,David Lester,2009-01-01 Police and corrections personnel must always be mindful of the possibility that those in their custody may attempt suicide or commit an act of self mutilation Persons housed in prisons jails and police lockups tend to be at a higher risk for such destructive behavior than members of the general population Reasons for this can be found by examining the mental health substance abuse and physical sexual abuse histories of inmates in addition to deficits in their coping skills and the stress and uncertainty generated by incarceration This book explores several topics pertaining to suicide and deliberate self harm in the corrections setting including who tends to commit these acts where when and how these incidents occur screening mechanisms the role of environmental stimuli in facilitating or preventing acts of self harm interpersonal relations among inmates and between inmates and staff and the role of the courts in setting and ruling on suicide prevention policies The authors discuss the role of prevention techniques that offer a balance between strict opportunity reduction and softer motivation reduction strategies The book also includes suggestions for diversion programs that can keep mentally ill inmates out of prisons and jails and transition planning programs to better prepare outgoing inmates for their re entry into the community The Prevention of Suicide in Prison Daniel Pratt,2015-08-27 Suicide is considered to be the leading cause of preventable death in prisons While there is increasingly expansive literature examining the various risk factors associated with a likelihood of eventual prison suicide so far this has struggled to lead to successful prevention programmes An alternative approach is needed that seeks to understand at the individual level what leads a prisoner to contemplate ending their own life This book describes how the authors developed and delivered evidence based psychological interventions for suicide prevention in prison The authors present a compelling argument for a psychological approach to the prevention of prison suicide drawing upon a cognitive behavioural perspective with chapters investigating two novel psychological therapies Cognitive Behavioural Suicide Prevention and Problem Solving Training The methodology behind each study is presented alongside preliminary findings emerging from the evaluations and detailed case studies are included as exemplars of the process and content of the therapies as well as the individual and contextual challenges to be overcome The book provides timely research into the development of a better understanding of why prisoners engage in suicide behaviour and the preventive interventions showing the most promise for future

Danto,1973 Suicides in Prison Alison Liebling,2002-09-11 The suicide rate in prisons in England and Wales is 40 per 100 000 four times that of the general population How can this be explained Recent prison suicides have aroused much public concern and media attention yet there has been very little research examining their true cause or nature Previous studies have tended to rely exclusively on official statistics and prison records and have had little effect in practice Suicides in Prison is the first major study in this area to draw directly on the experiences of both prisoners and staff The interviews conducted by the author help to cast new light on the circumstances which can lead to suicide or attempted suicide The author provides further evidence to support the growing recognition that suicide is not an exclusively psychiatric problem The coping mechanisms and social support given to the people involved can have a crucial role to play Alison Liebling also shows how serious difficulties in the management of prisoners at risk of suicide may be exacerbated by problems of communication between departments and that prison officers may lack the necessary training to play a potentially major role in suicide prevention Most importantly if staff perceptions and attitudes are not addressed any attempt to improve procedures may well be ineffective Suicides in Prison traces the recent history of the problem and provides the first major theoretical discussion of the nature and causes of suicide in prison

Preventing Self-injury and Suicide in Women's Prisons Tammi Walker, Graham Towl, 2016-02-10 In 2015 the landmark suicide of the 100th woman to kill herself in prison custody passed largely unnoticed This book by two experts sets out to redress the balance by examining all aspects of the history present practices causes and prevention prospects connected to this tragic chain of events A long overdue analysis of a subject that is at last beginning to receive enhanced scrutiny Focuses on both women and adolescent girls in custody Looks at psychological demographic environmental and clinical factors The first book of its kind Reviews Walker and Towl's new book is a really welcome addition to the suicide and self injury literature It covers considerable ground in a concise and accessible way Not only does it provide great coverage of the key issues around suicide and self injury in women's prisons it provides really helpful tips on supporting women on staff training and on managing the aftermath of a suicide I highly recommend this book Professor Rory O Connor University of Glasgow Very helpful in identifying the strengths and weaknesses of current practice and understanding why reductions in the prison population and a holistic approach to care are vital in saving lives Dr Jo Borrill University of Westminster The question that arises from this book is How can we as a society heap any more punishment on people who are already punishing themselves Mark Johnson MBE author of Wasted Sphere 2008 founder of CanDo Coffee and the charity User Voice The authors bring an often neglected subject into sharp relief and refreshingly they are not afraid to make some strong evidence based assertions about the direction of penal policy and gaps in our understanding Anita Dockley Research Director Howard League for Penal Reform
