It happened because entire societies abdicated responsibility for their own problems, and instead blamed them on the people who represented—have always represented, since they first introduced the idea of commandedness to the world—the thing they were most afraid of: responsibility’ (p. 191).

Unfortunately, Horn, like most western Jews, has missed the fact that matters are no better in the Islamic world where people also love dead Jews—the dead Jews of an imagined cultural symbiosis of Jews and Muslims, and the dead Jews who have already been killed or expelled from Islamic lands, and the Jews who will be dead when the ‘disappearance’ of the State of Israel is accomplished.

Doing this will involve both the re-discovery of and the creation of new ‘scenes of instruction’ for Christian teaching—neglected or overlooked spaces where we can (re-) discover the transformative power of Christian teaching.

In Jordan’s telling, theology made a pact for inclusion in the university by becoming a Wissenschaft, a body of knowledge fit for inclusion in the
