Retirement Migration and Precarity in Later Life Marion Repetti, Toni Calasanti, 2025-01-21 The last few decades have seen an increase in the migration of ageing people from richer Northern and Western countries to poorer Southern and Eastern countries This book seeks to understand the motivation behind retirement migration and how precarity in later life contributes to this trend Drawing on accounts of retirees from different nations the book examines how welfare policies in their home country and their country of migration interact to shape their experiences of migration It shows how ageism impacts social precarity across different social classes and across economic social and health dimensions It also evaluates how local and global systems of inequalities influence retirement migrants experience providing both opportunities and constraints that differ across countries

Retirement Migration Caroline Oliver, 2012-08-06 The book is the first ethnographic study of international retirement migration and offers a sometimes surprising picture of the potentials seductions and limitations of the lifestyles People envision retirement as freedom from responsibilities through shedding the restrictive shackles of their former selves in a time of life dedicated to fun friendship healthy activity and individual fulfillment However as Oliver documents a number of contradictions underpin the pursuits of such a lifestyle She shows how retirees must balance time use to achieve both freedoms and busy social schedules their activities their relationships and their cultural identities to balance both the security of nationality with the discovery of the new Retirement Migration gives a critical insight into the new ways aging identities are experienced by a growing number of older people in Western societies today

Europe after Empire Elizabeth Buettner, 2016-03-24 Europe after Empire is a pioneering comparative history of European decolonization from the formal ending of empires to the postcolonial European present Elizabeth Buettner charts the long term development of post war decolonization processes as well as the histories of inward and return migration from former empires which followed She shows that not only were former colonies remade as a result of the path to decolonization so too was Western Europe with imperial traces scattered throughout popular and elite cultures consumer goods religious life political formations and ideological terrains People were also inwardly mobile including not simply Europeans returning home but Asians Africans West Indians and others who made their way to Europe to forge new lives The result is a Europe fundamentally transformed by multicultural diversity and cultural hybridity and by the destabilization of assumptions about race culture and the meanings of place and where imperial legacies and memories live on committed to redistributive politics Transnational Migration and Home in Older Age Katie Walsh, Lena Näre, 2016-03-10

This book examines the transformations in home lives arising in later life and resulting from global migrations. It provides insight into the ways in which contemporary demographic processes of aging and migration shape the meaning, experience and making of home for those in older age. Chapters explore how home is negotiated in relation to possibilities for return to the homeland, family networks, aging and health care, cultures and belonging. The book deliberately crosses emerging sub-fields in transnationalism studies by offering case studies on aging labour migrants, retirement migrants and return migrants, as well as older people affected by the movement of others, including family members and migrant care workers. The diversity of people's experiences of home in later life is fully explored, and the impact of social class, gender and nationality, as well as the corporeal dimensions of older age, are all in evidence. Ageing, Diversity and Equality Sue Westwood, 2018-10-31

Current understandings of ageing and diversity are impoverished in three main ways. Firstly, with regards to thinking about what inequalities operate in later life, there has been an excessive preoccupation with economic resources. On the other hand, less attention has been paid to cultural norms and values, other resources, wider social processes, political participation and community engagement. Secondly, in terms of thinking about the who of inequality, this has so far been limited to a very narrow range of minority populations. Finally, when considering the how of inequality, social gerontology's theoretical analyses remain underdeveloped. The overall effect of these issues is that social gerontology remains deeply embedded in normative assumptions which serve to exclude a wide range of older people. Ageing, Diversity and Equality aims to challenge and provoke the above-described normativity and offer an alternative approach which highlights the heterogeneity and diversity of ageing-associated inequalities and their intersections. This book focuses on the diverse interrelationships between aging and transnationality. It argues that the lives of older people are increasingly entangled in transnational contexts on the social as well as the cultural, economic and political levels. Within these contexts, older people both actively contribute to and are affected by border-crossing processes. In addition, while some may voluntarily opt for adding a transnational dimension to their lives, others may have less choice in the matter. Transnational aging therefore provides a critical lens on how older people shape, organize and cope with life in contexts that are no longer bound to the frame of a single nation-state. Accordingly, the book emphasizes the agency of older people as well as the personal and structural constraints of their situations. The chapters in this book reveal these aspects by approaching transnational aging from different methodological angles, such as ethnographic research, comparative studies, quantitative data and policy and discourse analysis. Geographically, the chapters cover a wide range of countries in Africa, Asia, Europe, North and South America, such as Namibia, Thailand, Russia, Germany, the United States and Ecuador. Immigration, Integration and

Mobility Adrian Favell, 2015-05-08 A compilation of Adrian Favell's innovative and agenda setting essays which since the late 1990s have charted the emergence of new migration patterns and politics in Europe Tackling in turn issues of multiculturalism immigrant integration free movement high skilled mobilities new East West migrations and regional integration the collection offers a comprehensive introduction to the dynamic field of international migration studies At the same time it poses a sharp challenge to current complacencies challenging researchers to escape methodological nationalism and the unreflective reproduction of concepts and assumptions in the field as well as embracing new methodologies and theoretical resources Moving fluidly across intellectual boundaries as much as national borders Favell points the way forward to new thinking in this burgeoning and rapidly evolving interdisciplinary field

Migration, Risk and Uncertainty Allan M. Williams, Vladimír Baláž, 2014-08-07 Migration is one of the driving forces of economic and social change in the modern world It is both informed by risk and a generator of risk whether for individuals households communities or societies Although the relationship between migration and risk is widely acknowledged it has long been neglected in academic research with a few exceptions such as household diversification strategies Instead risk is assumed to be implicit in economic or social models rather than being explicitly theorised or analysed This book represents the first major review of these key relationships It draws on a wide range of theories from economics psychology sociology anthropology and geography and an equally broad range of empirical material to provide a highly original overview Tourism Enclaves Jarkko Saarinen, Sandra Wall-Reinius, 2021-04-12 Exclusively planned tourism destinations have increased substantially over the last decades As a result gated leisure communities all inclusive resorts private cruise liner owned island and other tourism enclaves are rather common features in tourism especially in the peripheries and low and middle income countries Tourism enclaves can have varied characteristics and scales of operations but typically they involve standardized non local themes or appeal in their design activities and economies Typically such tourism spaces contain all or a vast majority of facilities and services needed for tourists who have limited possibilities or desires to leave the enclave At the same time the locals access to these spaces is often limited or otherwise regulated Thus enclave tourism spaces are controlled and separated from surrounding communities Tourism Enclaves Geographies of Exclusive Spaces in Tourism focuses on tourism enclaves in different theoretical and geographical contexts The chapters of the book aim to contribute to our understanding of how these exclusive spaces are created and transformed and how they shape places and place identities The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal Tourism Geographies Moving People and Knowledge Louise Ackers, Bryony Gill, 2009-01-01 The book can be seen as a welcomed contribution to this field of study it raises some important questions and problems of scientific mobility H gni Kals Hansen Papers in Regional Science This is a very timely book looking at East West migration which has recently become a hot political issue in various West European countries It does an excellent job in laying out the intricacies of mobility that affect different groups particularly knowledge migrants The book successfully shows that knowledge migrants follow different motivational routes than other groups of migrants in their choice of mobility between institutes and nations It makes a valuable contribution to a growing body of research that seeks to change established thinking and rhetoric about migration and to shift it from a dualistic thinking of migration in terms of economic vs non economic migrants What this book shows is that the professional identity of people often supersedes their nationalities in relation to why and where they move Sami Mahroum NESTA UK Based on excellent empirical research on migrating scientists from Poland and Bulgaria to the UK and Germany this book follows an innovative agenda which is crucial to the world today the movement of people and the movement of knowledge It achieves this by a creative blend of analysing personal stories embedded in their professional and family networks on the one hand and macro scale discussions of brain drain brain gain and national and European policy implications on the other Russell King University of Sussex UK This book makes a timely contribution to understanding the circulation of scientific knowledge via international mobility It skillfully combines an analysis of structural and institutional changes with a focus on individual circumstances life courses and motivations The outcome is a compelling account of the role of international migration in the transfer of knowledge across borders and in shaping the careers of individual scientists This places people and human mobility at the heart of the debate about how the knowledge economy is produced and reproduced Allan Williams London Metropolitan University UK Moving People and Knowledge provides a fresh examination of the processes of highly skilled science migration Focusing on intra European mobility and in particular on the new dynamics of East West migration the authors investigate the movement of Polish and Bulgarian researchers to and from the UK and Germany Key questions include who is moving how long for and why In addressing the motivations and experiences of mobile scientists and their families insights into professional and personal motivations are provided demonstrating how relationships networks and infrastructures shape decision making This book provides a useful perspective on the implications of increasing researcher mobility for both sending and receiving regions and the individuals concerned which is necessary for the construction of future policies on sustainable scientific development This empirical account provides a nuanced analysis of the duration and flow of scientific mobility showing the prevalence of repeat and shuttle moves in science careers It will be of particular interest to researchers in European social policy migration studies and EU law as well as policymakers in the field of highly skilled migration especially those working on the free movement of persons provisions and the European Research Area and European Area of Higher Education
