Technicians of the Sacred, Third Edition Jerome Rothenberg, 2017 Hailed by Robert Creeley as both a deeply useful book and an unequivocal delight and by the LA Times Book Review as one of the hundred most recommended American books of the late 20th century Jerome Rothenberg's landmark anthology Technicians of the Sacred has educated and inspired generations of poets artists musicians and other readers exposing them to the multiple possibilities of poetry throughout the world Juxtaposing primitive and archaic works of art from many cultures with each other and with avant garde and experimental poetry Jerome Rothenberg contends that literature extends beyond specific temporal and geographic boundaries while acting as a retort to those who would call that larger humanity into question A half century since its original publication this revised and expanded third edition provides readers with a wealth of newly gathered and translated texts from recently reinvigorated indigenous cultures bringing the volume into the present and further extending the range and depth of what we recognize and read as poetry

Literary History and Avant-Garde Poetics in the Antipodes A. J. Carruthers, 2024-03-05 Avant garde poetry in the Antipodes causes all sorts of trouble for literary history It is an avant garde that seems to arrive too late and yet right on time In 1897 Christopher Brennan made his own version of Un Coup de Dés the same year Mallarmé published it in Cosmopolis In the 1940s the same period avant gardism was declared dead or fatally injured due to the Ern Malley affair Harry Hooton began writing a significant body of experimental poetry From the 1950s to the 1970s Australian Dada emerged belatedly through figures like Jas H Duke Tristan Tzara had previously sung Aboriginal songs at the Cabaret Voltaire in 1916 First Nations and Migrant poets then began reinventing avant garde poetry in the twentieth and early twenty first centuries This book maintains that such a confounding literary history poses a distinct challenge to the theories of the avant gardes we have become accustomed to and changes our perspective of avant garde time

Opposing Poetries Hank Lazer, 1996-08-12 Begins a series presenting collections of survey articles pivoting around the notion of computation The inaugural topics include generalized rational approximation subject to linear constraints matrix exponential approximations in the numerical solution of differential equations unbounded fan in circuits and fixpoint semantics for a Petri net model of definite clause logic programs Each article is self contained and all assume a high sophistication in mathematics Future volumes may focus on a special subfield such as computational graph theory approximation or computability
