Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office,1970 The Man with Six Typewriters Steve Doughty,2015-03-23 In this collection of non fiction narratives Steve Doughty offers an evocative exploration of contemporary spiritual seeking The figures in these stories are as varied as a Muslim woman and Christian couple meeting at a peace vigil a minister dazzled by photos from the Hubble telescope a Native American stone carver a miner receiving his last communion and two attorneys risking their lives to defend victims of political violence in Colombia A number of the main figures live on society s margins They contend with issues of life and faith in arenas ranging from social justice to science prayer mental illness sexuality interfaith encounter and the humdrum of daily life The author notes that the main characters have attracted him as a pastor and seeker because they offer images to ponder Images of real people Images of the wonderings and affirmations that take shape within our deepest selves And finally images of the living God at work within us among us and through us As with all such images these challenge us at least as much as they comfort and reassure An appendix offers questions for personal reflection group study and retreats An Andrew Marvell Companion (Routledge Revivals) Robert H. Ray,2014-05-01 First published in 1998 this title provides for the reader of the renowned metaphysical poet and politician a valuable reference and resource volume It is a compendium of useful information for any reader of Andrew Marvell including crucial biographical material historical contextualisation and details about his life s work The intention throughout is to enhance understanding and appreciation without being exhaustive The major portion of the volume in both importance and size is A Marvell Dictionary Its entries are arranged alphabetically they identify describe and explain the most influential persons in Marvell s life and works as well as places characters allusions ideas concepts individual words phrases and literary terms that are relevant to a rounded appreciation of his poetry and prose An Andrew Marvell Companion will prove invaluable for all students of English poetry and seventeenth century political history A Reference Guide for English Studies Michael J. Marcuse,2023-11-15 Metaphors of Confinement Monika Fludernik,2019-08-13 Metaphors of Confinement The Prison in Fact Fiction and Fantasy offers a historical survey of imaginings of the prison as expressed in carceral metaphors in a range of texts about imprisonment from Antiquity to the present as well as non penal situations described as confining or restrictive These imaginings coalesce into a carceral imaginary that determines the way we think about prisons just as social debates about punishment and criminals feed into the way carceral imaginary develops over time Examining not only English language prose fiction but also poetry and drama from the Middle Ages to postcolonial particularly African literature the book juxtaposes literary and non literary contexts and contrasts fictional and nonfictional representations of imprisonment and discussions about the prison as institution and experiential reality It comments on present day trends of punitivity and foregrounds the ethical dimensions of penal punishment The main argument concerns the continuity of carceral metaphors through the centuries despite historical developments that included major shifts in policy such as the invention of the penitentiary The study looks at selected carceral metaphors often from two complementary perspectives such as the home as prison or the prison as home or the factory as prison and the prison as factory The case studies present particularly relevant genres and texts that employ these metaphors often from a historical perspective that analyses development through different periods

The Nature of the Page Joshua Calhoun, 2020-01-24 An innovative study of books and reading that focuses on papermaking in the Renaissance In The Nature of the Page Joshua Calhoun tells the story of handmade paper in Renaissance England and beyond For most of the history of printing paper was made primarily from recycled rags so this is a story about using old clothes to tell new stories about plants used to make clothes and about plants that frustrated papermakers best attempts to replace scarce natural resources with abundant ones Because plants like humans are susceptible to the ravages of time it is also a story of corruption and the hope that we can preserve the things we love from decay Combining environmental and bibliographical research with deft literary analysis Calhoun reveals how much we have left to discover in familiar texts He describes the transformation of plant material into a sheet of paper details how ecological availability or scarcity influenced literary output in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries and examines the impact of the various colors and qualities of paper on early modern reading practices Through a discussion of sizing the mixture used to coat the surface of paper so that ink would not blot into its fibers he reveals a surprising textual interaction between animals and readers He shows how we might read an indistinct stain on the page of an early modern book to better understand the mixed media surfaces on which readers writers and printers recorded and revised history Lastly Calhoun considers how early modern writers imagined paper decay and how modern scholars grapple with biodeterioration today Exploring the poetic interplay between human ideas and the plant animal and mineral forms through which they are mediated The Nature of the Page prompts readers to reconsider the role of the natural world in everything from old books to new smartphones
