Social Zooarchaeology Nerissa Russell, 2011-11-14 This is the first book to provide a systematic overview of social zooarchaeology which takes a holistic view of human animal relations in the past Until recently archaeological analysis of faunal evidence has primarily focused on the role of animals in the human diet and subsistence economy This book however argues that animals have always played many more roles in human societies as wealth companions spirit helpers sacrificial victims totems centerpieces of feasts objects of taboos and more These social factors are as significant as taphonomic processes in shaping animal bone assemblages Nerissa Russell uses evidence derived from not only zooarchaeology but also ethnography history and classical studies to suggest the range of human animal relationships and to examine their importance in human society Through exploring the significance of animals to ancient humans this book provides a richer picture of past societies

Zooarchaeology Elizabeth J. Reitz, Elizabeth S. Wing, 1999-02-04 Zooarchaeology is a detailed reference manual for students and professional archaeologists interested in identifying and analysing animal remains from archaeological sites Drawing on material from all over the world and covering a time span from the Pleistocene to the nineteenth century AD the emphasis is on animals whose remains inform us about many aspects of the relationships between humans and their natural and social environments especially site formation processes subsistence strategies and paleoenvironments The authors discuss suitable methods and theories for all vertebrate classes and molluscs and include hypothetical examples to demonstrate these There are extensive references and illustrations to help in the process of identification

Aridity, change and conflict in Africa Michael Bollig, Olaf Bubenzer, Ralf Vogelsang, Hans-Peter Wotzka, 2007-01-01

Appendices: Persistent Traditions Luc W.S.W. Amkreutz, 2013-12-19 The adoption of agriculture is one of the major developments in human history Archaeological studies have demonstrated that the trajectories of Neolithisation in Northwest Europe were diverse This book presents a study into the archaeology of the communities involved in the process of Neolithisation in the Lower Rhine Area 5500 2500 cal BC It elucidates the role played by the indigenous communities in relation to their environmental context and in view of the changes that becoming Neolithic brought about This volume contains the appendices to the thesis Persistent traditions A long term perspective on communities in the process of Neolithisation in the Lower Rhine Area 5500 2500 cal BC These constitute a comprehensive inventory of 159 mostly excavated archaeological sites in the Lower Rhine Area for which general characteristics were recorded Their analysis shows that the succession of Late Mesolithic Swifterbant culture Hazendonk group and Vlaardingen culture societies represents a continuous long term tradition of inhabitation of the wetlands and wetland margins of this area forming a culturally continuous record of communities in the transition to agriculture The site catalogue forms both an overview of and detailed introduction into the site based archaeology of this time frame After demonstrating the diversity of the Mesolithic the subsequent developments regarding Neolithisation are studied from an indigenous perspective

Foregrounding the relationship between local communities and the dynamic wetland landscape the archaeological evidence regarding its regional inhabitation points to long term flexible behaviour and pragmatic decisions being made For the interpretation of Neolithisation this study offers a complementary approach to existing research Instead of arguing for a short transition based on the economic importance of domesticates and cultigens at sites the emphasis is placed on the persistent traditions of the communities involved New elements instead of bringing about radical changes are shown to be attuned to existing hunter gatherer practices By documenting indications of the mentalit of the inhabitants of the wetlands it is demonstrated that their mindset remained essentially Mesolithic for millennia

Case Studies in Environmental Archaeology Elizabeth Jean Reitz, Lee A. Newsom, Sylvia J. Scudder, 1996 This volume contains case studies in environmental archaeology that apply data obtained from various disciplines including zooarchaeology archaeobotany human biology and geoarchaeology to explore important anthropological issues Studies include geological and biological data from sites located in North America the Caribbean basin and South America Rather than critiquing or advocating specific environmental techniques each study demonstrates how and why the information obtained from their use is important to anthropologists and archaeologists

The Psychology of the Human-Animal Bond Christopher Blazina, Güler Boyraz, David Shen-Miller, 2011-06-22 There have been dramatic increases in the financial emotional and psychological investment in pets over the past four decades The increasing importance of animal companions in people s lives has resulted in growing emphasis on the human animal bond within academic literature This book introduces practicing and emerging professionals to vital subject matter concerning this growing specialty area by providing an essential framework and information through which to consider the unique contextual backdrop of the human animal bond Such contexts include a wide array of themes including issues of attachment and loss success and frustration with making and sustaining connections world views regarding animal ethics familial history of neglect or abuse and cultural dynamics that speak to the order of things between mankind and nature Adopting a contextual stance will aid mental health professionals in appreciating why and how this connection has become a significant part of everyday life for many As with any other important clinical dynamic training and preparation are needed to gain competence for professional practice and research To this end an ensemble of international experts across the fields of psychology and mental health explore topics that will help both new and established clinicians increase and understanding of the various ways the human animal bond manifests itself Perspectives from beyond the scope of psychology and mental health such as anthropology philosophy literature religion and history are included to provide a sampling of the significant contexts in which the human animal bond is established What brings these divergent topics together in a meaningful way is their relevance and centrality to the contextual bonds that underlie the human animal connection This text will be a valuable resource that provides opportunities to deepen one s expertise in understanding the psychology of the human animal bond

research in archaeozoology archaeology and molecular biology Animals as Domesticates traces the history of the domestication of animals around the world From the llamas of South America and the turkeys of North America to the cattle of India and the Australian dingo this fascinating book explores the history of the complex relationships between humans and their domestic animals With expert insight into the biological and cultural processes of domestication Clutton Brock suggests how the human instinct for nurturing may have transformed relationships between predator and prey and she explains how animals have become companions livestock and laborers The changing face of domestication is traced from the spread of the earliest livestock around the Neolithic Old World through ancient Egypt the Greek and Roman empires South East Asia and up to the modern industrial age

European Societies in the Bronze Age A. F. Harding, 2000-05-18 The Bronze Age roughly 2500 to 750 BC was the last fully prehistoric period in Europe and a crucial element in the formation of the Europe that emerged into history in the later first millennium BC This book focuses on the material culture remains of the period and through them provides an interpretation of the main trends in human development that occurred during this timespan It pays particular attention to the discoveries and theoretical advances of the last twenty years that have necessitated a major revision of received opinions about many aspects of the Bronze Age Arranged thematically it reviews the evidence for a range of topics in cross cultural fashion defining which major characteristics of the period were universal and which culture and area specific The result is a comprehensive study that will be of value to specialists and students while remaining accessible to the non specialist

The Story of Garum Sally Grainger, 2020-12-30 The Story of Garum recounts the convoluted journey of that notorious Roman fish sauce known as garum from a smelly Greek fish paste to an expensive luxury at the heart of Roman cuisine and back to obscurity as the Roman empire declines This book is a unique attempt to meld the very disparate disciplines of ancient history classical literature archaeology zooarchaeology experimental archaeology ethnographic studies and modern sciences to illuminate this little understood commodity Currently Roman fish sauce has many identities depending on which discipline engages with it in what era and at what level These identities are often contradictory and confused and as yet no one has attempted a holistic approach where fish sauce has been given centre stage Roman fish sauce along with oil and wine formed a triad of commodities which dominated Mediterranean trade and while oil and wine can be understood fish sauce was until now a mystery Students and specialists in the archaeology of ancient Mediterranean trade whether through amphora studies shipwrecks or zooarchaeology will find this invaluable Scholars of ancient history and classics wishing to understand the nuances of Roman dining literature and the wider food history discipline will also benefit from this volume

Dogs and People in Social, Working, Economic or Symbolic Interaction L. Snyder, 2016-07-29 This the final title to be published from the sessions of the 2002 ICAZ conference focuses on the role of man's best friend As worker or companion the dog has enjoyed a unique relationship with its human master and the depth and variety of the papers in this fascinating collection is a testament to the interest that this symbiotic arrangement holds for many scholars working in archaeology today The book covers an eclectic range of subjects such as considering dogs as animals of sacrifice and animal components of ancient and modern religious ritual and practice dogs as human companions subject to loving care visual symbolic representation deliberate or accidental breed manipulation as working dogs and finally as co inhabitants of human dwelling paces and co consumers of human food resources While many of the papers in this volume have a predominant focus they also demonstrate that the relationships between humans and dogs are rarely if ever singular or simple Instead these relationships are complex often combining the practical the ideological and the symbolic Persistent Traditions Luc W.S.W. Amkreutz,2013-12-19 The adoption of agriculture is one of the major developments in human history Archaeological studies have demonstrated that the trajectories of Neolithisation in Northwest Europe were diverse This book presents a study into the archaeology of the communities involved in the process of Neolithisation in the Lower Rhine Area 5500 2500 cal BC It elucidates the role played by the indigenous communities in relation to their environmental context and in view of the changes that becoming Neolithic brought about This work brings together a comprehensive array of excavated archaeological sites in the Lower Rhine Area Their analysis shows that the succession of Late Mesolithic Swifterbant culture Hazendonk group and Vlaardingeng culture societies represents a continuous long term tradition of inhabitation of the wetlands and wetland margins of this area forming a culturally continuous record of communities in the transition to agriculture After demonstrating the diversity of the Mesolithic the subsequent developments regarding Neolithisation are studied from an indigenous perspective Foregrounding the relationship between local communities and the dynamic wetland landscape the study shows that the archaeological evidence of regional inhabitation points to long term flexible behaviour and pragmatic decisions being made concerning livelihood food economy and mobility This disposition also influenced how the novel elements of Neolithisation were incorporated Animal husbandry crop cultivation and sedentism were an addition to the existing broad spectrum economy but were incorporated within a set of integrative strategies For the interpretation of Neolithisation this study offers a complementary approach to existing research Instead of arguing for a short transition based on the economic importance of domesticates and cultigens at sites this study emphasises the persistent traditions of the communities involved New elements instead of bringing about radical changes are shown to be attuned to existing hunter gatherer practices By documenting indications of the mentalit of the inhabitants of the wetlands it is demonstrated that their mindset remained essentially Mesolithic for millennia This book is accompanied by a separate 422 page volume containing the appendices These constitute a comprehensive inventory of 159 mostly excavated archaeological sites in the Lower Rhine Area The ^ACaribbean before Columbus William F. Keegan,Corinne L. Hofman,2017-01-03 The Caribbean before Columbus is a new synthesis of the region s insular history based on the authors 55 years of research in the Bahamas Lesser and Greater Antilles The presentation operates on multiple scales and individual sites highlight specific issues For the first time complete histories are elucidated through an emphasis on cultural diversity Skeletons in Her Cupboard A. Beyond Foraging and Collecting Ben Fitzhugh, Junko Habu, 2012-12-06 LEWIS R BINFORD AND AMBER L JOHNSON The organizers of this volume have brought together authors who have worked on local sequences much as traditional archaeologists tended to do however with the modern goal of addressing evolutionary change in hunter gatherer systems over long time spans Given this ambitious goal they wisely chose to ask the authors to build their treatments around a focal question the utility of the forager collector continuum Binford 1980 for research on archaeological sequences Needless to say Binford was flattered by their choice and understandably read the papers with a great deal of interest When he was asked to write the foreword to this provocative book he expected to learn new things and in this he has not been disappointed The common organizing questions addressed among the contributors to this volume are simply how useful is the forager collector continuum for explanatory research on sequences and what else might we need to know to explain evolutionary change in hunter gatherer adaptations Most sequences document systems change in some sense Though we don't necessarily know how much synchronous systemic variability there might have been relative to the documented sequence most authors have tried to address the problem of within systems variability In this sense most are operating with sophistication not seen among traditional culture historians The primary problem for archaeologists of the generation prior to Binford was how to date archaeological materials died in a Mediterranean fish trap sparking Karen Pinchin's riveting investigation into the marvel's struggles and prehistoric legacy of this remarkable species. Over his fishing career, Al marked more than sixty thousand fish with plastic tags, an obsession that made him nearly as many enemies as it did friends. His quest landed him in the crossfire of an ongoing fight between a booming bluefin tuna industry and desperate conservation efforts, a conflict that is once again heating up as overfishing and climate change threaten the fish's fate. Kings of Their Own Ocean is an urgent investigation that combines science, business, crime, and environmental justice. As Pinchin writes, as a global community we are collectively only ever a few terrible choices away from wiping out any ocean species. Through her exclusive access and interdisciplinary, mesmerizing lens, readers will join her on boats and docks as she visits tuna hot spots and scientists from Portugal to Japan, New Jersey to Nova Scotia, and glimpse as the author does rays of dazzling hope for the future of our oceans. Atlas of Mammal
