The Ever Present Past:

Mass Dictatorship and Memory as Ever Present Past Jie-Hyun Lim, Barbara Walker, Peter Lambert, 2014-01-28 This volume explores the politics of memory involved in coming to terms with the past of mass dictatorship on a global scale Considering how a growing sense of global connectivity and global human rights politics changed the memory landscape the essays explore entangled pasts of dictatorships

History, Abolition, and the Ever-Present Now in Antebellum American Writing Jeffrey Insko, 2018-12-06 History and the Ever Present Now in Antebellum American Writing examines the meaning and possibilities of the present and its relationship to history and historicity in a number of literary texts specifically the writings of several figures in antebellum US literary history some but not all of whom associated with the period's romantic movement Focusing on nineteenth century writers who were impatient for social change like those advocating for the immediate emancipation of slaves as opposed to those planning for a gradual end to slavery the book recovers some of the political force of romanticism Through close readings of texts by Washington Irving John Neal Catharine Sedgwick Frederick Douglass Ralph Waldo Emerson and Herman Melville the book argues that these writers practiced forms of literary historiography that treat the past as neither a reflection of present interests nor as an irretrievably distant other but as a complex and open ended interaction between the two In place of a fixed and linear past these writers imagine history as an experience rooted in a fluid dynamic and ever changing present The political philosophical and aesthetic disposition Insko calls romantic presentism insists upon the present as the fundamental sphere of human action and experience and hence of ethics and democratic possibility

American Classicist Victoria Houseman, 2026-02-10 Edith Hamilton 1867 1963 famed popularizer of the classics whose books include Mythology and The Greek Way introduced millions literally millions of general readers and young adults to the myths and culture of the Greco Roman world In the middle of the 20th century she was arguably the most visible and widely read person on classics and mythology A graduate of Bryn Mawr College and then a successful teacher and administrator at the Bryn Mawr School in Baltimore Hamilton became well known to the public only when she was in her sixties Her writings written with a middle American audience in mind were intended to introduce general readers to a world of antiquity previously thought to be only the purview of those with knowledge of ancient languages Her most successful book Mythology remains the most popular book of its kind and like The Greek Way and The Roman Way has never gone out of print Houseman recounts Hamilton's life of ninety five years beginning with her childhood introduction to the study of Latin and Greek under her father's tutelage Houseman explores the intellectual influences upon her emphasizing in particular the nineteenth century British thinkers whose work she encountered during her years as a student at Bryn Mawr including Matthew Arnold and Edward Caird It also tells the story of the two romantic relationships that shaped her life The first was with Lucy Martin Donnelly an English professor whose intellectual and aesthetic tastes made a profound impact upon Hamilton The second and more enduring was with Doris Fielding Reid with whom Hamilton lived for over forty years and with whom she raised a family composed of Reid's nephews and nieces. The biography also describes Hamilton's friendships with writers such as Gertrude Stein and Ezra Pound as well as with Senator Ralph E. Flanders who led the movement in the Senate to censure Joseph McCarthy and inspired Hamilton's depiction of Demosthenes in her final book The Echo of Greece. Houseman also situates Edith Hamilton's writing in relation to contemporary events such as the Great Depression, the rise of fascism, American involvement in the Second World War, the dropping of the atomic bombs, and American foreign policy during the Cold War among others. She argues that Hamilton's writing and themes were often a response to these events. Even Mythology intended as a modern version of Bulfinch's Mythology was partly written during the fascist Italian invasion of Greece and makes many arguments for the special claims of Greece in Western history. Her work has influenced generations of readers as well and was even said to have been a favorite of Robert Kennedy's who drew on The Greek Way for inspiration in drafting speeches. The book is intended to be the definitive biography of a fascinating and daring woman who arguably helped to save the classics in America. This will be the first biography of Hamilton apart from one written by her partner Doris Fielding which was a mix of memoir and biography. This will also be the first to draw on Hamilton's letters and other primary sources.

On Trauma and Traumatic Memory Bootheina Majoul, 2017-06-23

On Trauma and Traumatic Memory focuses on the role of writing to preserve memories, to excavate traumas, and to heal the ever-present scars of the past. The first part of the book focuses on trauma recalled through films, fiction, and documentaries. The second chapter is devoted to analysing trauma in fiction, while the third deals with trauma in poetry. The topic of trauma is of interest to scholars across the globe, both students and professors, and is taught in almost all universities. This volume gathers research papers from different universities around the world, including India, Italy, Tunisia, and the USA.

Evolution and the Doctrine of the Trinity Stewart A. McDowall, 2015-06-12

Excerpt from Evolution and the Doctrine of the Trinity. It is occasionally possible to disarm a critic by anticipating his criticisms. There is a frank ingenuousness about the proceeding that is somewhat disconcerting. That fact, however, is not my main reason for using this Preface to draw attention to two characteristics of the pages that follow, which may very likely and perhaps justly be selected for adverse comment. Anyone who tries to think honestly can only be grateful when his theories are subjected to criticism. There comes a stage when he can no longer act as his own critic. Then he must get the help he needs from others. In those conditions he is justly entitled as it seems to me to explain why he has set out his theories in the particular form in which they are submitted to the critics, and it is only this liberty I claim. There is unquestionably full room at present for a restatement of the Doctrine of the Holy Trinity in terms that are consonant with modern thought. Indeed, it is not too much to say that there is urgent need of such a restatement. A vague pantheism is the characteristic product of the religious speculation of to-day, and Christian doctrine, if not Christian ethics, is in danger of losing its hold on the minds of the most able among the younger men and women of England. Pantheism, with its emphasis on ultimate Unity, is not impressed by the tritheistic expression of Christian belief.

Natives, Europeans, and Africans in Sixteenth-Century Santiago de Guatemala Robinson A. Herrera,2010-01-01 The first century of Spanish colonization in Latin America witnessed the birth of cities that while secondary to great metropolitan centers such as Mexico City and Lima became important hubs for regional commerce Santiago de Guatemala the colonial capital of Central America was one of these A multiethnic and multicultural city from its beginning Santiago grew into a vigorous trading center for agrarian goods such as cacao and cattle hides With the wealth this commerce generated Spaniards natives and African slaves built a city that any European of the period would have found familiar This book provides a more complete picture of society culture and economy in sixteenth century Santiago de Guatemala than has ever before been drawn Robinson Herrera uses previously unstudied primary sources including testaments promissory notes and work contracts to recreate the lives and economic activities of the non elite sectors of society including natives African slaves economically marginal Europeans and people of mixed descent His focus on these groups sheds light on the functioning of the economy at the lower levels and reveals how people of different ethnic groups formed alliances to create a vibrant local and regional economy based on credit This portrait of Santiago also increases our understanding of how secondary Spanish American cities contributed vitally to the growth of the colonies

Internalising the Historical Past Elaine Arnold,Bernadette Hawkes,2009-03-26 The Separation and the Reunion Forum has as its aim the raising of awareness on the sometimes traumatic effects of broken attachments separation and loss on families This book is a compilation of some of the papers from their Sixth Annual Conference which addresses the history of the deliberate separation of families through slavery from Africa to the Americas and the Caribbean and the lack of attention to the affective issues on the enslaved It is set in the context of attachment theory and aims to discuss the remnants of the psychological trauma of slavery on the descendants of those who had been enslaved The papers explore the migrants relationships with the past as they struggle to cope with their lives in the present and the need to consider plans for their future in a society which in some aspects retains attitudes and practices regrettably unchanged since emancipation The book aims to inform about the background of African Caribbean people now living in Britain It also aims to promote discussion among those who have experienced separation and loss among teachers social workers probation officers and officers of Youth Offending teams and those who work with individuals of African Caribbean backgrounds It gives information on the concepts of Attachment Theory and gives examples of how counsellors and therapists may utilise these in working with individuals whose present behaviour may indicate the adverse effects of suffered broken attachments separation and loss
