The African State

Tatah Mentan

The African State:

The Modern African State Godfrey Mwakikagile, 2001 This book examines the modern African State as a fragile institution because of its structural flaws. It focuses on a number of African countries whose combined analyses provide a focal point for looking at the whole continent as one giant place with crumbling state institutions whose fragility threatens the very existence of several African countries. Even in rich African countries, peace and stability is threatened and rampant corruption and dictatorship. Nothing better demonstrates the weakness and cruelty of the modern African State than its willingness to instigate tribal violence in a number of African countries and its inability to contain such hostilities in many others. In an attempt to put such weakness in proper perspective, the author focuses on analyses of case studies as the context for a better understanding of the modern African State as the most dominant institution on the African continent. The State in Africa Tatah Mentan, 2025-09-28 This book critically analyzes the complex relationship between the African state and capitalist globalization. It describes in great detail the significant effects of the various historical trajectories of global capitalist expansion on the nature and functions of the African state while focusing on the present triumph of globalized neo liberalism on the African continent. The history of the state in Africa has been misread and misinterpreted through the Eurocentric convictions of European African scholars alike. The State in Africa has since its colonial inception served as the best possible political shell for capitalism, enabling it to penetrate again, possession and establish itself firmly and securely regardless of institutional and leadership instability at the helm. The glaring artificiality of the state in Africa coupled with the failure of the local ruling classes to rise above the limitations of their provenance is to blame for the myriad crises of one party authoritarianism, violent coups and military dictatorship. It is also to blame for the progressive alienation of the African people and the prevailing crises of identity and citizenship. Independence does not seem to have changed much as the state is still controlled by the most powerful foreign economically dominant class which has appropriated political power as well to further compound the subjection and exploitation of the oppressed Africans. Today the continent continues to grapple with underdevelopment, civil wars, intra state conflicts, political instability, state failure and outright collapse, thus calling into question the viability and survivability of the Westphalian state model in Africa. The African State in Transition Zaki Ergas, 1987-10-20 In the first twenty five years of African independence, the behaviour of the African state elites has not been with a few notable exceptions conducive to self sustained development. What are the reasons for this sorry state of affairs? What can be done to reverse that unfortunate trend? These are the two overarching questions with which this book attempts to grapple. States and Power in Africa Jeffrey Herbst, 2014-12-21 Originally published 2000. With new preface and revised chapter nine by the author. A New Paradigm of the African State M. Muiu, G. Martin, 2009-01-05 Offers a historical multidisciplinary perspective on African political systems and institutions ranging from Antiquity (Egypt, Kush and Axum) to the present with particular focus on their destruction through successive exogenous processes including the Atlantic slave trade imperialism colonialism and neo colonialism or globalization Restructuring the African State and Quest for Regional Integration Godfrey Mwakikagile, 2014-07-21 The author looks at different approaches towards regional and continental unity and the need to restructure the African state He contends that reconfiguration of the African state is necessary after the institutions inherited at independence especially centralisation of power have failed to serve the people He calls for decentralisation of power in order to enable the people different groups to set their own agenda for sustainable development Power should be in the hands of the people at the grassroots level using local institutions to formulate development plans control and allocate resources in their own areas Reconfiguration of the African state will also help to accommodate different ethnic groups on equal basis and enable marginalised groups especially smaller and weaker groups to fully participate in the political process and get a fair share of the nation s resources without being dominated and exploited by others especially dominant groups Restructuring the state will also enable all groups to play an equal role in achieving unity stability and development The work is also an examination of the transition African countries have gone through since independence and the problems they have faced and continue to face in terms of nation building and trying to achieve and maintain peace and stability without which prosperity is impossible It is a call for rebuilding Africa through a combination of innovative approaches The African State in a Changing Global Context István Tarrósy, Loránd Szabó, Göran Hydén, 2011 During the first 25 years of independence the African state was largely driven from within by the ambition to establish political order in a world where national sovereignty over issues of development was not in question The theme of this book is that more is at stake today than in the past The African State at a Critical Juncture Leonardo Alfonso Villalón, Phillip A. Huxtable, 1998-01 Corruption, Good Governance, and the African State Ganahl, Joseph Patrick, 2014-02-18 African states are often called corrupt indicating that the political system in Africa differs from the one prevalent in economically advanced democracies This however does not give us any insight into what makes corruption the dominant norm of African statehood Thus we must turn to the overly neglected theoretical work on the political economy of Africa in order to determine how the poverty of governance in Africa is firmly anchored both in Africa s domestic socioeconomic reality as well as in the region s role in the international economic order Instead of focusing on increased monitoring enforcement and formal democratic procedures this book combines economic analysis with political theory in order to arrive at a better understanding of the political economic roots of corruption in Sub Saharan Africa The African State and the AIDS Crisis Amy S. Patterson, 2018-01-18 This edited volume analyzes African state responses to the AIDS epidemic Institutionally weak limited in resources and lacking power in the international system the African state has been characterized as inefficient corrupt and illegitimate The volume questions how aspects of the African state have affected policy responses to AIDS It highlights how African states must initiate develop and or implement the long term policy solutions necessary to combat AIDS It employs empirical studies from the international and national arena to illustrate why some African states have been able and willing to address AIDS while others have not Contributions analyze how international actors civil society organizations state ideology patriarchy and state capacity have influenced policies to fight AIDS Examining AIDS policies through the prism of African state development and linkages to domestic and international actors this book provides a nuanced understanding of the variety of responses to AIDS in Africa
