Thinking Historically Stephane Levesque,2009-10-17 Two simple but profound questions have preoccupied scholars since the establishment of history education over a century ago what is historical thinking and how do educators go about teaching it In Thinking Historically Stephen Levine examines these questions focusing on what it means to think critically about the past As students engage in a new century already characterized by global instability uncertainty and rivalry over claims about the past present and future this study revisits enduring questions and aims to offer new and relevant answers Drawing on a rich collection of personal national and international studies in history education Levine offers a coherent and innovative way of looking at how historical expertise in the domain intersects with the pedagogy of history education Thinking Historically provides teacher educators and all those working in the field of history education ways of rethinking their practice by presenting some of the benchmarks in terms of procedural concepts of what students ought to learn and do to become more critical historical actors and citizens As questions regarding history education compel educators with greater force than ever this study explores different ways of approaching and engaging with the discipline in the twenty first century

Heritopia Jes Wienberg, 2021-03-09 This electronic version has been made available under a Creative Commons BY NC ND open access license Heritopia investigates the meanings of the past in the present focusing on Abu Simbel in Egypt and other World Heritage sites It explores and resolves a number of paradoxes the past is impossible to preserve for eternity all preservation implies change preservation of one site normally means destruction of others threats are important in the creation of heritage but at the same time heritage may become a threat and threats can become heritage themselves heritage stands in contrast to modernity and is at the same time part of it both the increase and the decrease of modernity create heritage and finally heritage may be global and local at the same time Heritopia will appeal to students and professionals in heritage studies and related subjects such as archaeology history ethnology and museology

Identity and Religion Amalendu Misra, 2004-08-30 A sensitive and intelligent account of the Indian nationalist thought and the difficulties it faced in doing justice to India's Islamic inheritance Lord Parekh Fellow of the British Academy A thoughtful well researched and original analysis of the nationalist conceptualisation of the Muslim presence in India Professor Noel O Sullivan University of Hull Amalendu Misra shows that while some eminent nationalist leaders were implacably hostile to Muslims even wholly secular ones were uneasy with India's Muslim past and had a generally unfavourable disposition towards both Muslims and Islam The book explicates this by focusing on the writings of Vivekananda Gandhi Nehru and Savarkar supported by a wealth of examples from a wide range of contexts It argues that the views of these four prominent individuals were heavily shaped by British historiography as well as their respective visions of independent India The author goes on to suggest how modern India needs to redefine itself to flourish as a genuinely secular democracy Theology in Japan Nelson J.
