Habinek,2005-07-27 In this bold work Thomas Habinek offers an entirely new theoretical perspective on Roman cultural history Although English words such as literature and religion have their origins in Latin the Romans had no such specific concepts Rather much of the sense of these words was captured in the Latin word carmen usually translated into English as song Habinek argues that for the Romans song encompassed a wide range of ritualized speech including elements of poetry storytelling and even the casting of spells Habinek begins with the fraternal societies or sodalitates which predated the Republic and endured into the Imperial era and whose rites although adapted over time to different deities and cults were from the beginning centered on song perhaps most notably in the ancient Carmen Saliare He goes on to show how this early use of song became a paradigm for cultural reproduction throughout Roman history Ritual mastery of the chaos of everyday life embodied and enacted in song produced and transmitted the beliefs on which Roman culture was founded and by which Roman communities were sustained By the emergence of the Empire song in all of its senses served in particular to reproduce the power of the state organizing relations of power at every level of society Johns Hopkins University Press Old Jewish Folk Music Mark Slobin, 2000-10-01 Here translated into English for the first time is a cultural record of the folk music of Eastern Europe This volume consists of some of Ethnomusicologist Moshe Beregovski's responses to Jewish folk music in its living context during the 1930s including essays on Ukrainian musical influences klezmer music and characteristic scale patterns Also included are Beregovski's anthologies of hundreds of folk songs with full Yiddish and English song texts Each song is carefully notated exactly as it was sung and is accompanied by Beregovski's notes on origins and variants The Musical Monitor, 1920 Working with Children in the Early Years Carrie Cable, Linda Miller, Gill Goodliff, 2012-11-12 Working with Children in the Early Years is an accessible introduction to early years theories policy and practice offering practitioners in a diverse range of settings the opportunity to develop their knowledge understanding and skills for working with young children This fully updated second edition builds on new government agendas and interests in supporting quality provision for young children and their families Bringing together current research and thinking in a broad range of areas it covers the diversity of practitioner roles and multi agency working working with families listening to children observing and assessing developing professional roles health and well being curriculum and pedagogy the importance of play and learning in the early years All contributions are strongly practical and underpinned by relevant theory and will support students and practitioners studying in the field of early years and early childhood studies as well as those aiming to achieve Early Years Professional Status The book will also appeal to training providers equipping them with a valuable and unique source to support a range of early years courses
