The Architecture of Jens Fredrick Larson Rod Miller, 2024-08-19 After serving with the Canadian Artillery and becoming an ace with the Royal Flying Corps American Jens Fredrick Larson settled into architecture At age 28 he began work at Dartmouth As his reputation grew he would go on to work with myriad clients and more than thirty five colleges and universities in America and elsewhere including Colby College Bucknell College Wake Forest University the City University of Paris the University of New Brunswick and the Institute for Advanced Study Princeton This text explores the history of Larson and his career with a look at his major projects and the challenges faced late in his career when a nascent Modernism denigrated and misunderstood the meaning and value of the Georgian style

Architecture in Texas Jay C. Henry, 1993 Written in an accessible style Henry's work places Texas architecture in the wider context of American architectural history by tracing the development of building in the state from late Victorian styles and the rise of neoclassicism to the advent of the International Style His work provides a welter of new facts both about the era's buildings and the architects who designed them and he has catalogued and described most of the important landmarks of the period Southwestern Historical Quarterly a significant contribution to the study of Texas architecture Drury Blakeley Alexander author of Texas Homes of the Nineteenth Century Texas architecture of the twentieth century encompasses a wide range of building styles from an internationally inspired modernism to the Spanish Colonial Revival that recalls Texas earliest European heritage This book is the first comprehensive survey of Texas architecture of the first half of the twentieth century More than just a catalog of buildings and styles the book is a social history of Texas architecture Jay C Henry discusses and illustrates buildings from around the state drawing a majority of his examples from the ten to twelve largest cities and from the work of major architects and firms including C H Page and Brother Trost and Trost Lang and Witchell Sanguinet and Staats Atlee B and Robert M Ayres David Williams and O Neil Ford The majority of buildings he considers are public ones but a separate chapter traces the evolution of private housing from late Victorian styles through the regional and international modernism of the 1930s Nearly 400 black and white photographs complement the text Written to be accessible to general readers interested in architecture as well as to architectural professionals this work shows how Texas both participated in and differed from prevailing American architectural traditions American Architecture Leland M. Architecture and the Arts and Crafts Movement in Boston Maureen Meister, 2003 H Langford Warren 1857 1917 was an important link in the chain of individuals who contributed to the architectural practice theories of design and the teaching of architectural history in the United States at the turn of the twentieth century Best known in the Boston area Warren first worked under the renowned architect Henry Hobson Richardson before establishing his own practice Friends and colleagues during this period included Charles Eliot Norton the noted art historian and Harvard s Charles Herbert Moore a leading Ruskinian painter Hired by Harvard University in 1893 Warren developed its architectural curriculum In 1897 he helped found Boston s Society of Arts and Crafts At the time of his death in 1917 Warren was Dean of the School of Architecture at Harvard and President of the Society of Arts and Crafts At the turn of the century Warren s philosophical vision offered a conservative and ethnocentric perspective attractive to many Bostonians and to a significant segment of Americans nationwide According to this view English culture was the basis of American culture Through his work at Harvard and in the Arts and Crafts movement he articulated and promoted an aesthetic guided by an attachment to the past and he encouraged his students at Harvard to revive and reinterpret English and Anglo American models Another characteristic of Warren s aesthetic was restraint a quality generally attributed to the region s Puritan settlers Restraint also meant a rejection of both the lavish ornamentation of the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris and the more original styles such as Art Nouveau that were emerging at the turn of the century Following the ideals of John Ruskin William Morris and later leaders of the English Arts and Crafts movement Warren and his architect colleagues promoted a close collaboration with the craftsmen who enhanced their buildings The resulting building designs represent a significant contribution to the development of American Arts and Crafts architecture complementing the proto modern work of designers such as Frank Lloyd Wright In fact Arts and Crafts architecture in North America was extremely diverse Meister examines the greater complexity of this architecture by exploring the eclectic historicism of Warren a key figure in the movement that was centered in Boston

Dolkart,2001-03-15 Few aspects of American military history have been as vigorously debated as Harry Truman's decision to use atomic bombs against Japan. In this carefully crafted volume Michael Kort describes the wartime circumstances and thinking that form the context for the decision to use these weapons, surveys the major debates related to that decision, and provides a comprehensive collection of key primary source documents that illuminate the behavior of the United States and Japan during the closing days of World War II. Kort opens with a summary of the debate over Hiroshima as it has evolved since 1945. He then provides a historical overview of the events in question, beginning with the decision and program to build the atomic bomb. Detailing the sequence of events leading to Japan's surrender, he revisits the decisive battles of the Pacific War and the motivations of American and Japanese leaders. Finally, Kort examines ten key issues in the discussion of Hiroshima and guides readers to relevant primary source documents, scholarly books, and articles.

Arts and Crafts

Architecture Maureen Meister,2014-11-04 This book offers the first full scale examination of the architecture associated with the Arts and Crafts movement that spread throughout New England at the turn of the twentieth century. Although interest in the Arts and Crafts movement has grown since the 1970s, the literature on New England has focused on craft production. Meister traces the history of the movement from its origins in mid nineteenth century England to its arrival in the United States and describes how Boston architects including H. H. Richardson embraced its tenets in the 1870s and 1880s. She then turns to the next generation of designers, examining buildings by twelve of the region's most prominent architects: eleven men and a woman who assumed leadership roles in the Society of Arts and Crafts founded in Boston in 1897. Among them are Ralph Adams Cram, Lois Lilley Howe, Charles Maginnis, and H. Langford Warren. They promoted designs based on historical precedent and the region's heritage while encouraging well executed ornament. Meister also discusses revered cultural personalities who influenced the architects, notably Ralph Waldo Emerson and art historian Charles Eliot Norton, as well as contemporaries who shared their concerns, such as Louis Brandeis. Conservative though the architects were in the styles they favored, they also were forward looking, blending Arts and Crafts values with Progressive Era idealism. Open to new materials and building types, they made lasting contributions with many of their designs now landmarks honored in cities and towns across New England.
