Re-inventing the Ship Don

Leggett, 2016-04-08 Ships have histories that are interwoven with the human fabric of the maritime world In the long nineteenth century these histories revolved around the re invention of these once familiar objects in a period in which Britain became a major maritime power This multi disciplinary volume deploys different historical geographical cultural and literary perspectives to examine this transformation and to offer a series of interconnected considerations of maritime technology and culture in a period of significant and lasting change Its ten authors reveal the processes involved through the eyes and hands of a range of actors including naval architects dockyard workers commercial shipowners and Navy officers By locating the ship s re invention within the contexts of builders owners and users they illustrate the ways in which material elements as well as scientific artisan and seafaring ideas and practices were bound together in the construction of ships complex identities
