Social Innovations for Development C. G. Hedén,A. S. King,2016-07-29 Social Innovations for Development focuses on the need for the advancement of social innovations relative to the progress of science and technology The selection is composed of works of authors who have conducted research on the need to enhance social innovations and cope with the advancement of science and technology particularly how these areas affect institutions social and government structures and humankind as a whole The book stresses world trends that require institutional change and the need to institute innovation in the structures and procedures of government The text also offers a discussion on the history of social change Along with this discussion are remarks and suggestions on how to transform social innovations from theory to action As the world develops the need to put up social inventions to facilitate the adoption of technical inventions is stressed With this pointed out the work of international foundation for social innovation is highlighted In the research to establish the connection between technological and social innovation the role of international prizes is of great value Thus specific areas for awards and incentives are discussed The book is a vital source of information for those interested in establishing the relationship of social innovations with the advancement of science and technology

Strategies and Best Practices in Social Innovation

Marta Peris-Ortiz,Jaime Alonso Gómez,Patricia Marquez,2018-05-31 This book examines the different ways companies can develop and design social innovation Combining technological and social perspectives the contributors present emerging research on social innovation from different sectors such as entrepreneurship education and energy Collectively the authors demonstrate the ways in which social innovation can drive sustainability and development in regions around the world All societies are characterized by their political economic and social institutions as well as by how they utilize technology The social innovations with the highest importance are those which modify existing institutions or create new ones and based on their magnitude they can be considered as radical or incremental For example when Joseph Chamberlain encouraged workers to organize in order to achieve universal male suffrage in Great Britain in 1885 this was a considered a radical innovation for British society which in turn changed its political framework Social innovations may be based on intelligence and commitment on technology or on social entrepreneurship in its most open forms In addition social innovations can be classified into those which correspond to an entire country or region a field e g education or a sector e g entrepreneurship technology social reform Featuring contributions on topics such as agro food smart cities higher education gender equality and sports this book is ideal for academics students scholars professionals and policy makers in the areas of innovation entrepreneurship sustainability and regional development

Social Innovation and Territorial Development Diana MacCallum,2009 This volume presents a broad ranging and insightful exploration of social innovation and how it can affect life society and economy especially within local communities It addresses key questions about the nature of social innovation as a process and a strategy and explores what opportunities may exist or may be generated for social innovation to nourish human development Citizen Science and Social Innovation: Mutual Relations, Barriers, Needs, and Development Factors Andrzej Klimczuk, 2022-03-21 Abstract Social innovations are usually understood as new ideas initiatives or solutions that make it possible to meet the challenges of societies in fields such as social security education employment culture health environment housing and economic development On the one hand many citizen science activities serve to achieve scientific as well as social and educational goals Thus these actions are opening an arena for introducing social innovations On the other hand some social innovations are further developed adapted or altered after the involvement of scientist supervised citizens laypeople or volunteers in research and with the use of the citizen science tools and methods such as action research crowdsourcing and community based participatory research Such approaches are increasingly recognized as crucial for gathering data addressing community needs and creating engagement and cooperation between citizens and professional scientists However there are also vari Social Innovation and Territorial Development ,2009 Universities, Inclusive Development and Social Innovation Claes Brundenius, Bo Göransson, José Manoel Carvalho de Mello, 2016-10-25 This book examines the ways in which universities can play a crucial role in inclusive development social innovation and social entrepreneurship It aims to prove the importance of inclusive development and inclusive innovation on economic growth and demonstrate the ways in which universities can be pioneers in this area through initiatives in social responsibility and social innovation For example providing access to a university education without discrimination of race gender income status or other factors would help to diminish the increasing income differentials currently being experienced in many countries especially in the developing world The research and studies included in this book provide insight into possible actions that can be taken by universities and public and private shareholders in inclusive development social innovation social entrepreneurship and overall regional economic and social development Innovation is currently considered to be the most important and dynamic factor explaining growth and development At the same time the traditional view considering innovation as having to be commercialized at any price is being challenged Lately there has been growing interest in innovation in the public sector particularly with respect to social innovations designed to reduce income inequality To address these concepts constant exchange of ideas and information between research groups became necessary UniDev Universities in Development the Evolving Role of Academic Institutions in Innovation Systems and Development is an international research group with researchers in twelve countries interested in the role of universities in development This book features the results of research performed by eleven research groups from UniDev country communities presenting in depth and comparative case studies from universities around the world including Latin America Northern and Eastern Europe and sub Saharan Africa This title will be of interest to students academics researchers and policy makers interested in the role of universities in development social innovation and social entrepreneurship Social Innovation and Territorial Development Diana MacCallum, Serena Vicari Haddock, 2016-04-01 The concept of social innovation offers an alternative perspective on development and territorial transformation one which foregrounds innovation in social relations This volume presents a broad ranging and insightful exploration of social innovation and how it can affect life society and economy especially within local communities It addresses key questions about the nature of social innovation as a process and a strategy and explores what opportunities may exist or may be generated for social innovation to nourish human development It puts forward alternative development options which variously highlight solidarity co operation cultural artistic endeavour and diversity In doing so this book offers a provocative response to the predominant neoliberal economic vision of spatial economic and social change

Social Innovation, the Social Economy and World Economic Development Denis Harrisson, Reynald Bourque, György Széll, 2009 The world of work and labour is in a permanent transformation affecting the various social groups in the different parts of the world quite unequally Social innovations related to the idea of economic progress and well being tackle the problems of employment leading to social exclusion and poverty as a consequence of the extreme positioning in favour of economic performance An alternative economy complements the deficiency of both the market and the State This volume presents contributions from scholars coming from different continents about Social Economy Labour Rights corporate Social Responsibility Social Regulations and Public Policies Social innovations have huge impacts on national and regional economies as their sources come from the citizen Many initiatives presented in this volume are a social response by civil society to poverty precarious employment job losses long term unemployment delocalisation and de industrialisation

Social Innovations in Post-Soviet Countries Bakhrom Radjabov, 2022-06-01 This book evaluates the evolution of social innovation in post Soviet Central Asia Eastern Europe and Caucasus Following the dissolution of the USSR organisations such as the UNDP have encouraged local communities and governments to innovate in order to find solutions to existing social problems This book demonstrates that progress with social innovations has varied with countries with low government support such as Uzbekistan struggling whereas countries with better government support and a more active civil society such as Armenia and Ukraine have seen more positive results Covering the period 2012 2020 and a broad range of countries including Kazakhstan Kyrgyzstan Tajikistan and Uzbekistan Moldova Ukraine Azerbaijan Armenia and Georgia this book provides an impressively broad ranging critical analysis of post Soviet social innovation Including social innovations emerging as a result of the Covid 19 outbreak this will be an important comparative study for researchers and practitioners working on social innovation and to those with an interest in post Soviet development

Social Innovation, Entrepreneurship, and Sport for Development and Peace Mitchell McSweeney, Per Svensson, Lyndsay Hayhurst, Parissa Safai, 2022-08-12 This book examines the ways in which sport for development and peace SDP offers an opportunity for entrepreneurship to take place through and within sport and how innovation in the context of SDP contributes to social and economic value for underrepresented and marginalised groups and individuals Written by a team of leading international SDP researchers and featuring the voices of active SDP practitioners the book examines the ways in which entrepreneurs seek to use sport and or social innovation in and through sport to achieve their goals of social and economic development It explores the strategies that SDP organizations and practitioners are utilizing in the current neoliberal moment to not only survive during economic hardship particularly during the COVID 19 crisis but also to thrive drawing on important concepts such as innovation risk taking proactiveness and opportunity seeking It also considers how nongovernmental organizations companies governments and communities are working to tackle development issues in SDP using non traditional forms of organization and management such as social enterprise models Combining cutting edge research with reflections on best practice in the field this book is important reading for any advanced student researcher or practitioner with an interest in the sociology of sport sport for development sport management development studies social enterprise or innovation

People-Centered Social Innovation Swati Banerjee, Stephen Carney, Lars Hulgard, 2019-07-10 Social Innovation is emerging as an alternate interdisciplinary development pathway of knowledge and practice that aims to understand and address contemporary complexities and multi dimensional social realities BEPA 2011 defines social innovation as innovations that are social in both their ends and means However though Social Innovation is a widely used term its conceptual understanding and the specific relation to social change remains under explored People Centered Social Innovation Global perspectives on an Emerging Paradigm attempts to revisit and extend the existing understanding of Social Innovation in practice by focusing upon the lived realities of marginalized groups and communities The emerging field of people centered development is placed in dialogue with theory and concepts from the more established field of social innovation to create a new approach one that adopts a global perspective engaging with very different experiences of marginality across the global north and south Theoretically People Centered Social Innovation Global Perspectives on an Emerging Paradigm draws upon northern understandings of change and improvement as well as southern theory concerns for epistemological diversity and meaning making The result is an experiment aimed at reimagining research and practice that seriously needs to center the actor in processes of social transformation

What to Make of Social Innovation? Towards a Framework for Policy Development Carlo Borzaga, Riccardo Bodini, 2012 Over the past few years there has been a growing interest on the part of the scientific community and more recently of policy makers in the concept of social innovation The notion of social innovation is particularly appealing in light of the difficulties facing traditional welfare systems and more broadly a development model essentially based on only two actors the market and the state that is finding it increasingly difficult to meet the growing and diversified needs of society However the uses and definitions of the concept are so disparate that it is becoming increasingly difficult to assess whether social innovation is in fact a helpful construct or just another fad that will soon be forgotten This paper focuses in particular on the usefulness of the concept of social innovation for the purposes of policy development Therefore the goal is not to find the true definition of social innovation Rather it is to search for a useful framework on which to build sound policies that could tackle the complex social issues that have caused scholars and practitioners to pay attention to social innovation in the first place Building on a review of the literature and in particular on a paper by Eduardo Pol and Simon Ville we propose an approach that recognizes a degree of overlap between social innovation and business innovation and argue that social innovation policy should focus on the subset of social innovation that does not overlap with business innovation This is due to the fact that social innovations that overlap with business innovations tend to be profitable and as such the market is amply equipped to supply them perhaps with the support of existing business innovation policies Pure social innovations on the other hand are not driven by a profit motive and thus need either to be subsidized or to be developed by enterprise types that are not motivated by profit maximization Indeed by focusing on the characteristics of different enterprise types we find that not for profit enterprises with an explicit social mission are ideally suited to develop pure social innovation even in the absence of public sector intervention The paper then concludes that targeted policies should be more mindful of the role of different types of enterprise in generating social innovation and more broadly that the debate on social innovation should be more closely aligned with the debate on the pluralism of enterprise forms
