Sari Hanhinen & Jukka Törrönen (eds.): Journalists, administrators and business people on social problems. A study around the Baltic Sea. NAD publication No. 35, Helsinki 1998, 259 pp.

Jacek Moskalewicz & Christoffer Tigerstedt (eds.): Public Opinion on Social Problems. A survey around the Baltic Sea. NAD publication No. 36, Helsinki 1998, 227 pp.

The two books above represent numbers three and four in a series of publications released by the Baltica project. The Baltica project, initiated by the Nordic Council for Alcohol and Drug Research, examines changes in the prevalence and perceptions of social problems in the countries around the Baltic Rim from a variety of angles. The first book from the project, published in 1992, contained a general discussion of social problems and the research of such problems in the countries bordering the Baltic Sea, with a focus on alcohol problems in particular (Simpura & Tigerstedt 1992). The second book from the project contained an analysis of how social problems are represented in the newspapers of most of those same countries (Lagerstedt 1994). Of these present books, while the former considers how influential people – represented by journalists, administrators and business people – view social problems, the latter presents results from a survey on citizens' opinions of social problems.

Both of these studies share a common theoretical foundation, namely, contextual constructivism. Furthermore, both studies are concerned with the collective processes in which social problems are constructed. By providing context, they also seek to present some of the objective realities which act as limitations on the process of social construction. In addition, both of the studies are comparative, as they consist of a number of country studies in which each country's uniqueness is underlined by contrasting it to the other countries.

The book on journalists', administrators' and business people's perceptions of social problems uses a triangular model as the theoretical framework of the study. This triangle consists of the state, the market and civil society. The study proceeds to examine how influential people construct social problems, and with what kind of cultural frames they determine the responsibilities between the state, markets and civil society in preventing and treating social problems. Focus group interviews were arranged with influential persons in Estonia, Finland, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, and the city of St. Petersburg. The triangle was partitioned in such a way that while the administrators were thought to represent the state and the business people to represent the market, the journalists were selected as the societal mediators of citizens' relations to both the state and the markets. As such, the journalists were conceived of as being well informed on citizens' overall sentiments.

As themes for the group discussions, the researchers selected social problems, in general, and alcohol problems, in particular. In some of the country studies, environmental issues were also included. In each country a country team or person was responsible for the interviews. In the editors' estimations, the validity of the comparisons of the data had been guaranteed (my italics) by arranging joint working

Social Problems Around The Baltic Sea:

Trames, 1998      Social Problems Around the Baltic Sea Jussi Simpura, Christoffer Tigerstedt, 1992      The Baltic World 1772-1993 David Kirby, 2014-07-15 This eagerly awaited sequel shares the characteristics of its distinguished predecessor wide geographical and chronological span expert mingling of political social and economic history and Dr Kirby's ability to keep the separate national threads of his account from tangling as he weaves them into the broad regional picture that is his main concern Here he tackles the contrasting experiences of Europe's northern periphery affluence and democracy in the north stagnation and authoritarianism in the south from the French Revolution to the collapse of the USSR and beyond This is a masterly study of a region that is far from peripheral politically to the post Soviet world      Two Worlds of Drug Consumption in Late Modern Societies Jacek Moskalewicz, 2017-10-24 Two Worlds of Drug Consumption in Late Modern Societies reports the findings of an empirical study of drug users in London Amsterdam Turin Prague Vienna and Warsaw European cities representative of a wide range of drug problems and public policies The innovative study reconceives the standard distinctions between hard core and recreational drug users in terms of their social position The authors argue that this is closely related to consumption patterns rather than drug choice and reveals that 2 relatively homogenous drug worlds exist within each of the study sites This leads to the development of diverging drug markets a friendly market for the integrated consumer and a highly commercialized one for the marginalized customer where low quality goods are sold at a higher price These findings have significant implications for academics and professionals working in health psychology and urban studies      Cultural Policy in Estonia Council of Europe. European Programme of National Cultural Policy Reviews, Council of Europe. Council for Cultural Co-operation, Estonia. Kultuuri- ja Haridusministeerium, 1997-01-01 On cover European Programme of National Cultural Policy Reviews Culture      Alcohol and the Media Marjatta Montonen, 1996 This text discusses alcohol problems the images presented in the media It suggests that whilst alcohol advertising is not a negligible influence on the abuse of alcohol it would be wrong to assume that restricting it would reduce the level of alcohol consumption or alcohol related problems      Cultural Formations of Post-Communism Michael D. Kennedy, 2002      Water in Social Imagination, 2017-01-05 Water in Social Imagination considers how human communities have known imagined and shaped water and how water has shaped both material culture and the imagination Essays from diverse perspectives offer histories of water at different scales from community water wells and sacred springs to Siberian rivers and the regulated space of the Baltic Sea From early modernization through Soviet style technological optimism to contemporary environmentalism water's ideological uses are multiple With sustained attention not just to state policy and the technologies of high modernity but to creative resistance to utilitarian imaginations these essays insist on fluidities of meaning ambiguities that derive both from water's physical mutability and from its dual nature as life necessity and agent of destruction      Community Prevention of Alcohol Problems Marja Holmila, 1997-08-18 This book is an action research study of a community at work The community prevention project set the system in motion revealing its character and internal dynamics This process and its context are analyzed from a sociological point of view It is shown that the type of community prevention that really works and creates sustainable changes is neither value neutral nor given from above it adheres to reason rituals and emotions alike and requires subjective involvement of the people in the community Civil Society in the Baltic Sea Region Norbert Götz,2017-11-01 This title was first published in 2003 The Baltic Sea region offers exceptionally rich material for the discussion of civil society This is because it has witnessed the erosion of communist regimes the crisis of the welfare state the increasing importance of new social movements and the shift from a centralist paradigm to one oriented towards networks This engaging book focuses on the phenomena and prospects for civil society in north eastern Europe which have had a major impact on political and scholarly debates since 1989 Nineteen experts from the region provide a comprehensive and comparative account of the history the present state and the perspectives of civil society in the Baltic Sea area The reader will learn that civil society should not only be seen in opposition to the state and that it has a major impact on current developments of European integration Social Changes, Crime and Police Louise Shelley,József Vigh,2023-03-31 Originally published in 1995 Social Changes Crime and the Police studies the relationship of social change and crime the role of the police amidst changing social conditions and the reaction of society and the state to the criminal problem It examines the essential differences and challenges which confronted countries in Western and Eastern Europe after the collapse of the socialist system In recent years many areas of Europe had experienced a period of rapid technological development which had changed economic and cultural structures creating temporary instability Within a relatively short period of time traditional values and beliefs had been undermined National boundaries and geographical differences had gradually lost their significance and the opening of frontiers had created easier conditions for crime The nature of crime itself had been transformed by the increasingly close relationships between countries While many Eastern European countries sought to undo the authoritarian legacies of the socialist period Western Europe faced new challenges to its urban order The editors and the contributors also examine the kinds of new policing concepts which may be formulated and the new practices which may develop during the next few decades Governments must determine the role of the police and the law in accordance with public demands for powerful policing combined with consideration of the individual s rights thus maintaining the vital balance between personal freedom and social peace Trames ,1998 Beyond the Soviet Union Max Beloff,2018-12-14 First published in 1997 this book explores the upheavals within the Soviet Union that ended the Cold War balance of terror and forced an attempt to create market economies and democratic policies in the Western ideological mould The 10 chapters of this book reprints of Conflict Studies between 1989 and 1994 deal with particular internal issues within the former Soviet Union and its successor states with their relations with each other and with their neighbours in Europe They include changes between civil and military authorities especially in Russia and the Ukraine and to implications for nuclear and conventional disarmament as well for foreign policy in general      The Challenges Facing European Society with the Approach of the Year 2000 European Conference of Ministers Responsible for Regional Planning, Council of Europe, 1993-01-01      Concepts of Addictive Substances and Behaviours across Time and Place Matilda
