Speaking From Intention To Articulation Acl Mit Series In Natural Language Processing:

Speaking Willem J. M. Levelt, 1993-08-26 In Speaking Willem Pim Levelt Director of the Max Planck Institut für Psycholinguistik accomplishes the formidable task of covering the entire process of speech production from constraints on conversational appropriateness to articulation and self monitoring of speech Speaking is unique in its balanced coverage of all major aspects of the production of speech in the completeness of its treatment of the entire speech process and in its strategy of exemplifying rather than formalizing theoretical issues The Logical Approach to Syntax Edward P. Stabler, 1992 By formalizing recent syntactic theories for natural languages Stabler shows how their complexity can be handled without guesswork or oversimplification By formalizing recent syntactic theories for natural languages in the tradition of Chomsky's Barriers Stabler shows how their complexity can be handled without guesswork or oversimplification He introduces logical representations of these theories together with special deductive techniques for exploring their consequences that will provide linguists with a valuable tool for deriving and testing theoretical predictions and for experimenting with alternative formulations of grammatical principles Stabler's novel approach allows results to be deduced with straightforward calculations and provides a systematic framework for tackling the problem of how speakers can infer the properties of an utterance from principles of the grammar The special treatment of equality induction principles and inclusion of a general method for collecting structures from proofs means that sophisticated linguistic arguments can be carried out in detail giving a rich perspective to issues in linguistic theory and parsing Computational Morphology Graeme D. Ritchie, 1992 Previous work on morphology has largely tended either to avoid precise computational details or to ignore linguistic generality Computational Morphology is the first book to present an integrated set of techniques for the rigorous description of morphological phenomena in English and similar languages By taking account of all facets of morphological analysis it provides a linguistically general and computationally practical dictionary system for use within an English parsing program The authors cover morphographemic variations in spelling as words are built from their component morphemes morphotactics the ways that different classes of morphemes can combine and the types of words that result and lexical redundancy patterns of similarity and regularity among the lexical entries for words They propose a precise rule notation for each of these areas of linguistic description and present the algorithms for using these rules computationally to manipulate dictionary information These mechanisms have been implemented in practical and publicly available software which is described in detail and appendixes contain a large number of computer tested sets of rules and lexical entries for English Graeme D Ritchie is a Senior Lecturer in the Department of Artificial Intelligence at the University of Edinburgh where Alan W Black is currently a research student Graham J Russell is a Research Fellow at ISSCO Institut Dalle Molle pour les études sémantiques et cognitives in Geneva and Stephen G Pulman is a Lecturer in the University of Cambridge Computer Laboratory and Director of SRI International's Cambridge Computer Science Research Centre Cognitive

Models of Speech Processing Gerry T. M. Altmann, 1995 Cognitive Models of Speech Processing presents extensive reviews of current thinking on psycholinguistic and computational topics in speech recognition and natural language processing along with a substantial body of new experimental data and computational simulations Topics range from lexical access and the recognition of words in continuous speech to syntactic processing and the relationship between syntactic and intonational structure A Bradford Book ACL MIT Press Series in Natural Language Processing

Mutual Intelligibility between Closely Related Languages Charlotte Gooskens, 2024-10-21 This book provides a detailed overview of research on mutual intelligibility between closely related languages The book is organized around three sections which explore different facets of mutual intelligibility research The first section outlines how to measure levels of intelligibility and its linguistic and extra linguistic determinants The second part grapples with questions and issues which arise once the measuring tools are established A final section reflects on the practical and theoretical value of studying mutual intelligibility including issues related to language planning and policy such as cultural communicative educational and economical matters

Engaging with Australasia: Comparative Research on ELT and English Teacher Education Raqib Chowdhury, Huynh Anh Tuan, 2024-10-21 The book showcases collaborative intercultural research into English language teaching and English language teacher education across Australasia covering a broad range of topics from English education policies curricular reform and practices teacher professional development and teacher and student identities Together the selected studies showcase how in the shadow of the Pandemic newer configurations in developing Asian and South East Asian countries have complicated collaboration in teaching and research and how these contrast with practices in Australia In particular the studies highlight the need for both cultural and pedagogical adaptations in practitioners engagement with both policy and pedagogy The book finds interested readership among emerging educators including graduate and doctoral researchers as well as educators and policymakers

Human Computer Interaction in Healthcare Andre W. Kushniruk, David R. Kaufman, Thomas G. Kannampallil, Vimla L. Patel, 2024-11-13 This thoroughly updated edition reports on the current state of human computer interaction HCI in biomedicine and healthcare focusing on the cognitive underpinnings of human interactions with people and technology With health information technologies becoming increasingly vital tools for the practice of clinical medicine this book draws from key theories models and evaluation frameworks and their application in biomedical contexts to apply this to current research in HCI However numerous challenges remain in order to fully realize their potential as instruments for advancing clinical care and enhancing patient safety There is a general consensus that health IT has not realized its potential as a tool to facilitate clinical decision making the coordination of care and improvements in patient safety Embracing sound principles of iterative design can yield significant dividends It can also enhance practitioner s abilities to meet meaningful use requirements The purpose of the book is two fold to address key gaps on the applicability of theories models and evaluation frameworks of HCI and human factors for research in biomedical informatics It highlights the state of the art drawing from the current research in HCI It also serves as a graduate level textbook highlighting key topics in HCI relevant for biomedical informatics computer science and social science students working in the healthcare domain Cognitive Informatics for Biomedicine Human Computer Interaction in Healthcare is indispensable to those who want to ensure that the systems they build and the interactive environments that they promote will reflect the rigor and dedication to human computer interaction principles that will ultimately enhance both the user s experience and the quality and safety of the care that is offered to patients It is an essential reference to all who are interested in the application of these new techniques within healthcare from students of informatics through to clinicians informatics researchers and developers of health IT looking to incorporate them into their day to day workflow The Core Language Engine Hiyam Alshawhi,1992
