Taiwan's National Security Alexander C. Tan, 2017 This title was first published in 2001 Clearly structured and very accessible this book rigorously examines the key issues affecting Taiwan's increasingly precarious position as an independent nation An impressive supplementary resource text for Asian politics and international relations courses Provided by publisher

Taiwan, Humanitarianism and Global Governance Alain Guilloux, 2009 Guilloux explores the complexities and dilemmas of providing humanitarian aid to people in need and distress especially underlined by Taiwan's unclear status in the global arena and how in its efforts Taiwan faces both international isolation and opposition from the People's Republic of China at multiple levels

Taiwan John F Copper, 2003-01-23 In the fourth edition of Taiwan Nation State or Province Professor Copper examines Taiwan's geography and history its society and culture its economy its political system and its foreign and security policies in the context of Taiwan's uncertain political status whether a sovereign nation or a province of the People's Republic of China Copper argues that Taiwan's very rapid and successful democratization while leaders in Beijing oppose democratic change suggests Taiwan should be independent and separate from China increasingly important economic links between Taiwan and China says the opposite Professor Copper argues that exacerbating this problem Washington and Beijing espouse opposing policies regarding resolution of the Taiwan issue and that has made the Taiwan Strait the world's number one flashpoint place where major powers collide and where war using weapons of mass destruction may be used This matter has been recently been given further salience by the shift of political power to Chen Shui bian who was elected president in 2000 and the victory of his opposition party which has long advocated an independent Taiwan in the 2001 legislative election and by America's growing perception of a China danger and concern about Beijing's military expansion that is in large part aimed at Taiwan Taiwan Nation State or Province is unlike other books of this genre pursues the theme of Taiwan's unique status and seeks to gauge its future as one of the world's vortex political entities reducing its military spending even as its sole adversary the People's Republic of China modernizes its military and significantly increases its defense budget Michael Chase examines the key factors that have shaped Taiwan's security policy over a span of three decades Chase explores both the role of US security assurances in formulating Taiwan's defense policy and the profound influence that domestic politics has played He also considers the context of cross Strait relations and the implications of Taiwan's security choices for potential instability and conflict in the region and beyond Relying on extensive Chinese language sources and interviews he offers the most definitive treatment of Taiwan's security policy to date abstract Strengthening a country's defences should neither alarm its neighbours nor lead to an arms race Despite this theoretical cognition of political sciences the People's Republic of China sees Ballistic Missile Defence as a threat to its national security The aim of this essay is to explain why the BMD systems of the USA are threatening China's national security I will show that it is mainly a psychological discourse Although or precisely therefore it is very important for the understanding of China's position and assumptions We will understand that China faces a security dilemma which is threatening the national security and ultimately lead to an arms race I will show that the technical aspects here are not as important as the psychological implications Missile Defence hints at the psychological side of international politics The US's BMD systems may not work well enough to be technically a real threat to any country but the development and instalment causes China's threat perceptions. BM is used as a saber rattling show of force for intimidation in order to reach a political goal or simply as deterrence against a perceived outside threat or imminent attack. For the People's Republic of China there are two main issues: First a period of strategic transition between the United States of America and the People's Republic of China and second the US transfer of advanced PAC-3 Systems to Taiwan. The negative impact of missile defense deployments on Sino-US relations could potentially be reduced by offsetting them with political and economic measures to reassure China. China's concerns about missile defence focus mainly on political questions. Thoughts, fears and perception. National Security Proposal 2008-2012, 2008. Perspectives on Sino-American Strategic Nuclear Issues Christopher P. Twomey, 2008-06-15. Sino-American nuclear relations are critical given ongoing modernization efforts on both sides and an increasingly complex regional and global nuclear environment. This volume pairs Chinese and American authors together to offer national perspectives on contemporary nuclear issues including perceptions of strategic context, national security priorities, doctrines, perceptions of regional threats and strategies to address these dangers. Peace Research Abstracts Journal, 2001. International Bibliography of Book Reviews of Scholarly Literature Chiefly in the Fields of Arts and Humanities and the Social Sciences, 2002. Northeast Asian Regional Security Order and Strategic Calculus on the Taiwan Straits, 2003.
