The Seine River Basin

Nicolas Flipo, Pierre Labadie, Laurence Lestel, 2021-01-30 This open access book reviews the water agro food and socio eco system of the Seine River basin 76 000 km<sup>2</sup> and offers a historical perspective on the river's long term contamination The Seine basin is inhabited by circa 17 million people and is impacted by intensive agricultural practices and industrial activities These pressures have gradually affected its hydrological chemical and ecological functioning leading to a maximum chemical degradation between the 1960s and the 1990s Over the last three decades while major water quality improvements have been observed new issues e.g. endocrine disruptors microplastics have also emerged The state of the Seine River network from the headwaters to estuary is increasingly controlled by the balance between pressures and social responses This socio ecosystem provides a unique example of the functioning of a territory under heavy anthropogenic pressure during the Anthropocene era The achievements made were possible due to the long term PIREN Seine research program established in 1989 and today part of the French socio ecological research network Zones Ateliers itself part of the international Long term Socio economic and Ecological Research Network LTSER Written by experts in the field the book provides an introduction to the water budget and the territorial metabolism of the Seine basin and studies the trajectories and impact of various pollutants in the Seine River It offers insights into the ecological functioning the integration of agricultural practices the analysis of aquatic organic matter and the evolution of fish assemblages in the Seine basin and also presents research perspectives and approaches to improve the water quality of the Seine River Given its scope it will appeal to environmental managers scientists and policymakers interested in the long term contamination of the Seine River

Waiting for the End of the World? Christopher M. Gerrard, Paolo Forlin, Peter J. Brown, 2020-09-07 Waiting for the End of the World addresses the archaeological architectural historical and geological evidence for natural disasters in the Middle Ages between the 11th and 16th centuries This volume adopts a fresh interdisciplinary approach to explore the many ways in which environmental hazards affected European populations and in turn how medieval communities coped and responded to short and long term consequences Three sections which focus on geotectonic hazards Part I severe storms and hydrological hazards Part II and biophysical hazards Part III draw together 18 papers of the latest research while additional detail is provided in a catalogue of the 20 most significant disasters to have affected Europe during the period These include earthquakes landslides tsunamis storms floods and outbreaks of infectious diseases Spanning Europe from the British Isles to Italy and from the Canary Islands to Cyprus these contributions will be of interest to earth scientists geographers historians sociologists anthropologists and climatologists but are also relevant to students and non specialist readers interested in medieval archaeology and history as well as those studying human geography and disaster studies Despite a different set of beliefs relating to the natural world and protection against environmental hazards the evidence suggests that medieval communities frequently adopted a surprisingly modern well informed and practically minded outlook
