Alexander, Michael Goodrum, Philip Smith, 2022-01-04 Contributions by Lawrence Abrams Dorian L. Alexander Max Bledstein Peter Cullen Bryan Stephen Connor Matthew J Costello Martin Flanagan Michael Fuchs Michael Goodrum Bridget Keown Kaleb Knoblach Christina M Knopf Martin Lund Jordan Newton Stefan Rabitsch Maryanne Rhett and Philip Smith History has always been a matter of arranging evidence into a narrative but the public debate over the meanings we attach to a given history can seem particularly acute in our current age Like all artistic mediums comics possess the power to mold history into shapes that serve its prospective audience and creator both It makes sense then that history no stranger to the creation of hagiographies particularly in the service of nationalism and other political ideologies is so easily summoned to the panelled page Comics like statues museums and other vehicles for historical narrative make both monsters and heroes of men while fueling combative beliefs in personal versions of United States history Drawing the Past Volume 1 Comics and the Historical Imagination in the United States the first book in a two volume series provides a map of current approaches to comics and their engagement with historical representation The first section of the book on history and form explores the existence shape and influence of comics as a medium The second section concerns the question of trauma understood both as individual traumas that can shape the relationship between the narrator and object and historical

traumas that invite a reassessment of existing social economic and cultural assumptions The final section on mythic histories delves into ways in which comics add to the mythology of the US Together both volumes bring together a range of different approaches to diverse material and feature remarkable scholars from all over the world Bitterroot Patricia Tyson Stroud, 2018-02-23 In America's early national period Meriwether Lewis was a towering figure Selected by Thomas Jefferson to lead the expedition to explore the Louisiana Purchase he was later rewarded by Jefferson with the governorship of the entire Louisiana Territory Yet within three years plagued by controversy over administrative expenses Lewis found his reputation and career in tatters En route to Washington to clear his name he died mysteriously in a crude cabin on the Natchez Trace in Tennessee Was he a suicide felled by his own alcoholism and mental instability Most historians have agreed Patricia Tyson Stroud reads the evidence to posit another even darker ending for Lewis Stroud uses Lewis's find the bitterroot flower with its nauseously pungent root as a symbol for his reputation as a purported suicide It was this reputation that Thomas Jefferson promulgated in the memoir he wrote prefacing the short account of Lewis's historic expedition published five years after his death Without investigation of any kind Jefferson Lewis's mentor from boyhood reiterated undocumented assertions of Lewis's serious depression and alcoholism That Lewis was the courageous leader of the first expedition to explore the continent from the Mississippi River to the Pacific Ocean has been overshadowed by presuppositions about the nature of his death Stroud peels away the layers of misinformation and gossip that have obscured Lewis's rightful reputation Through a retelling of his life from his resourceful youth to the brilliance of his leadership and accomplishments as a man Bitterroot shows that Jefferson's mystifying assertion about the death of his protégé is the long held bitter root of the Meriwether Lewis story Library Journal, 2004 Includes beginning Sept 15 1954 and on the 15th of each month Sept-May a special section School library journal ISSN 0000-0035 called Junior libraries 1954 May 1961 Also issued separately The Journals of the Lewis and Clark Expedition: June 10-September 26, 1806 Meriwether Lewis, William Clark, Gary E. Yankton Sioux they had met on the way out and encounter traders and trappers going upriver They arrive back in St Louis to a triumphal welcome on September 23

Framing First Contact Kate Elliott,2020-10-29 Representations of first contact the first meetings of European explorers and Native Americans have always had a central place in our nation s historical and visual record They have also had a key role in shaping and interpreting that record In Framing First Contact author Kate Elliott looks at paintings by artists from George Catlin to Charles M Russell and explores what first contact images tell us about the process of constructing national myths and how those myths acquired different meanings at different points in our nation s history First contact images with their focus on beginnings rather than conclusive action or determined outcomes might depict historical events in a variety of ways Elliott argues that nineteenth century artists responding to the ambiguity and indeterminacy of the subject used the visualized space between cultures meeting for the first time to address critical contemporary questions and anxieties Taking works from the 1840s through the 1910s as case studies paintings by Robert W Weir Thomas Moran and Albert Bierstadt along with Catlin and Russell Elliott shows how many first contact representations especially those commissioned and conceived as official history speak blatantly of conquest racial superiority and imperialism Yet others communicate more nuanced messages that might surprise contemporary viewers Elliott suggests it was the very openness of the subject of first contact that allowed artists consciously or not to speak of contemporary issues beyond imperialism and conquest Uncovering those issues Framing First Contact forces us to think about why we tell the stories we do and why those stories matter
