Writers in Hollywood 1915-1951 Ian Hamilton, 2011-11-17 Legend has it that Hollywood lures gifted writers into its service with sunshine and money only to treat them as glorified typists and plot mechanics peripheral to the main business of moviemaking This is what Ian Hamilton describes as the writer in chains saga that emerges from any study of Hollywood during its so called golden years the period I have marked as running from 1915 1951 But in this superb account of what befell the likes of Faulkner Fitzgerald Chandler and Huxley by working for the Dream Factory Hamilton argues that these writers were in the movies by choice they earned far more money than their colleagues who did not write for films and in several cases they applied themselves conscientiously to the not unimportant task at hand And they had a lot of laughs Fascinating and enjoyable New Statesman Abounds in marvelous stories apocryphal fabulous funny and even true Observer Faber Finds is devoted to restoring to readers a wealth of lost or neglected classics and authors of distinction The range embraces fiction non fiction the arts and children s books For a full list of available titles visit www.faberfinds.co.uk To join the dialogue with fellow book lovers please see our blog www.faberfindsblog.co.uk

Southern by the Grace of God Megan Hunt, 2024-11 Like the media coverage of the civil rights era itself Hollywood dramas have reinforced regional stereotypes of race class and gender to cleanse and redeem the wider nation from the implications of systemic racism As Southern by the Grace of God reveals however Hollywood manipulates southern religion in particular to further enhance this pattern of difference and regional exceptionalism consistently displacing broader American racism through a representation of the poor white southerner who is as religious as he and it is always a he is racist By foregrounding the role of religion in these characterizations Megan Hunt illuminates the pernicious intersections between Hollywood and southern exceptionalism a long standing U S nationalist discourse that has assigned racial problems to the errant South alone enabling white supremacy to not only endure but reproduce throughout the nation Southern by the Grace of God examines the presentation and functions of Protestant Christianity in cinematic depictions of the American South Hunt argues that religion is an understudied signifier of the South on film used with varying degrees of sophistication to define the region's presumed exceptionalism for regional national and international audiences. Rooted in close textual analysis and primary research into the production and reception of more than twenty Hollywood films that engage with the civil rights movement and/or its legacy, this book provides detailed case studies of films that use southern religiosity to negotiate American anxieties around race, class, and gender. Religion Hunt contends that the religious hunt is an integral trope of the South in popular culture and especially crucial to the divisions essential to Hollywood storytelling.

In Defense of Lost Causes Slavoj Žižek, 2009-10-19 No Marketing Blurb The IRA on Film and Television Mark Connelly, 2014-01-10 The Irish Republican Army (IRA) has for decades pursued the goal of unifying its homeland into a single sovereign nation, ending British rule in Northern Ireland. Over the years, the IRA has been dramatized in motion pictures directed by John Ford (The Informer), Carol Reed (Odd Man Out), David Lean (Ryan's Daughter), Neil Jordan (Michael Collins), and many others. Such international film stars as Liam Neeson, James Cagney, Richard Gere, James Mason, and Anthony Hopkins have portrayed IRA members alternately as heroic patriots, psychotic terrorists, and tormented rebels. This work analyzes celluloid depictions of the IRA from the 1916 Easter Rising to the peace process of the 1990s. Topics include America's role in creating both the IRA and its cinematic image; the organization's brief association with the Nazis; and critical reception of IRA films in Ireland, Britain, and the United States.

In Defense of Lost Causes Slavoj Žižek, 2009-10-19 The renowned philosophical sharpshooter looks for the kernel of truth in the fascist politics of the past, offering an adrenaline-fueled manifesto for universal values. Is global emancipation a lost cause? Are universal values outdated relics of an earlier age? In fear of the horrors of totalitarianism, should we submit ourselves to a miserable third way of economic liberalism and government administration? In this combative major work, philosophical sharpshooter Slavoj Žižek takes on the reigning ideology with a plea that we should reappropriate several lost causes and look for the kernel of truth in the totalitarian politics of the past. Examining Heidegger's seduction by fascism and Foucault's flirtation with the Iranian Revolution, he suggests that these were the right steps in the wrong direction. He argues that while the revolutionary terror of Robespierre, Mao, and the Bolsheviks ended in historic failure and monstrosity, this is not the whole story. There is, in fact, a redemptive moment that gets lost in the outright liberal democratic rejection of revolutionary authoritarianism and the valorization of soft, consensual, decentralized politics. Žižek claims that, particularly in light of the forthcoming ecological crisis, we should reinvent revolutionary terror and the dictatorship of the proletariat in the struggle for universal emancipation We need to courageously accept the return to this Cause even if we court the risk of a catastrophic disaster In the words of Samuel Beckett Try again Fail again Fail better The Flat Earth Trilogy Book of Secrets II Gregory Lessing Garrett, 2019-04-18
