Skeritt, Nevada Museum of Art, 2019 Traditionally used in Aboriginal funeral ceremonies memorial poles have been transformed into compelling contemporary artworks The memorial pole is made from the trunk of the Eucalyptus tetradonta hollowed naturally by termites When the bones of the deceased were placed inside it signified the moment when the spirit had finally returned home when they had left the outside world and become one with the inside world of the ancestral realm Today these works of art have become a powerful symbol of Aboriginal culture's significance around the globe The artists featured in the book including John Mawurndjul Djambawa Marawili and Nyapanyapa Yunupingu are some of Australia's most acclaimed contemporary artists Taking their inspiration from ancient clan insignia the designs on these poles are transformed in new and personal ways that offer a powerful reminder of the resilience and beauty of Aboriginal culture This book features dazzling color images and impeccable scholarship and includes essays from some of the leading scholars in the field of Aboriginal art Le Mémorial Musée Olympique (Lausanne, Switzerland), 1999 Catalogue d'exposition The Aboriginal Memorial Sheila A.
