The Other Side Of The Mountain Part:

The Cinema of Isolation Martin F. Norden, 1994 Filmmakers have often encouraged us to regard people with physical disabilities in terms of pity awe humor or fear as Others who somehow deserve to be isolated from the rest of society In this first history of the portrayal of physical disability in the movies Martin Norden examines hundreds of Hollywood movies and notable international ones finds their place within mainstream society and uncovers the movie industry's practices for maintaining the status quo keeping people with disabilities dependent and in their place Norden offers a dazzling array of physically disabled characters who embody or break out of the stereotypes that have both influenced and been symptomatic of society's fluctuating relationship with its physically disabled minority He shows us sweet innocents like Tiny Tim obsessive avengers like Quasimodo variations on the disabled veteran and many others He observes the arrival of a new set of stereotypes tied to the growth of science and technology in the 1970s and 1980s and underscores movies like My Left Foot and The Waterdance that display a newfound sensitivity Nordens in depth knowledge of disability history makes for a particularly intelligent and sensitive approach to this long overlooked issue in media studies

Pilgrimage to Jerusalem and the Holy Land, 1187-1291 Denys Pringle, 2016-04-08 This book presents new translations of a selection of Latin and French pilgrimage texts and two in Greek relating to Jerusalem and the Holy Land between the fall of Jerusalem to Saladin in 1187 and the loss of Acre to the Mamluks in 1291 It therefore complements and extends existing studies which deal with the period from Late Antiquity to Saladin's conquest Such texts provide a wealth of information not only about the business of pilgrimage itself but also on church history topography architecture and the social and economic conditions prevailing in Palestine in this period Pilgrimage texts of the 13th century have not previously been studied as a group in this way and because the existing editions of them are scattered across a variety of rather obscure publications they tend to be underutilized by historians despite their considerable interest For instance they are often more original than the texts of the 12th century representing first-hand accounts of travellers rather than simple reworkings of older texts Taken together they document the changes that occurred in the pattern of pilgrimage after the fall of Jerusalem in 1187 during its brief reoccupation by the Franks between 1229 and 1244 and during the period from 1260 onwards when the Mamluks gradually took military control of the whole country In the 1250s 60s for example because of the difficulties faced by pilgrims in reaching Jerusalem itself there developed an alternative set of holy sites offering indulgences in Acre The bringing of Transjordan southern Palestine and Sinai under Ayyubid and later Mamluk control also encouraged the development of the pilgrimage to St Catherine's monastery on Mount Sinai in this period The translations are accompanied by explanatory footnotes and preceded by an introduction which discusses the development of Holy Land pilgrimage in this period and the context dating and composition of the texts themselves The book concludes with a comprehensive list of sources and a detailed index

History of the War in the Peninsular and the South of France from the Year 1807 to the Year 1814 Vol. 1 William Francis Patrick Napier,2022-07-15 Excerpt For six years the Peninsula was devastated by the war of independence The blood of France Germany England Portugal and Spain was shed in the contest and in each of those countries authors desirous of recording the sufferings or celebrating the valour of their countrymen have written largely touching that fierce struggle It may therefore happen that some will demand why I should again relate a thrice told tale I answer that two men observing the same object will describe it diversely following the point of view from which either beholds it That which in the eyes of one is a fair prospect to the other shall appear a barren waste and yet neither may see aright Wherefore truth being the legitimate object of history I hold it better that she should be sought for by many than by few lest for want of seekers amongst the mists of prejudice and the false lights of interest she be lost altogether
