Oil Trade Journal ,1920 The Civil engineer & [and] architect's journal ,1851 Predicting the Winner Ira Chinoy,2024-05 Winner of the Ray Hiebert History of Journalism Published Work Award The history of American elections changed profoundly on the night of November 4 1952 An outside the box approach to predicting winners from early returns with new tools computers was launched live and untested on the newest medium for news television Like exhibits in a freak show computers were referred to as electronic brains and mechanical monsters Yet this innovation would help fuel an obsession with numbers as a way of understanding and shaping politics It would engender controversy down to our own time And it would herald a future in which the public square would go digital The gamble was fueled by a crisis of credibility stemming from faulty election night forecasts four years earlier in 1948 combined with a lackluster presentation of returns What transpired in 1952 is a complex tale of responses to innovation which Ira Chinoy makes understandable via a surprising history of election nights as venues for rolling out new technologies refining methods of prediction and providing opportunities for news organizations to shine In Predicting the Winner Chinoy tells in detail for the first time the story of the 1952 election night a night with continuing implications for the way forward from the dramatic events of 2020 21 and for
