The Peasants of Marlhes James R. Lehning,1980 The Peasants of Marlhes James R Lehning,1980-01-01

Peasants and Protest Laura Levine Frader,2023-04-28 In the first decade of the twentieth century the sleepy vineyard towns of the Aude department of southern France exploded with strikes and protests Agricultural workers joined labor unions the Socialist party established a base among peasant vinegrowers and the largest peasant uprising of twentieth century France the great vinegrowers revolt of 1907 shook the entire south with massive demonstrations In this study Laura Levine Frader explains how left wing politics and labor radicalism in the Aude emerged from the economic and social transformation of rural society between 1850 and 1914 She describes the formation of an agricultural wage earning class and discusses how socialism and a revolutionary syndicalist labor movement together forged working class identity Frader s focus on the making of the rural proletariat takes the study of class formation out of the towns and cities and into the countryside Frader emphasizes the complexity of social structure and political life in the Aude describing the interaction of productive relations the gender division of labor community solidarities and class alliances Her analysis raises questions about the applicability of an urban industrial model of class formation to rural society This study will be of interest to French social historians agricultural historians and those interested in the relationship between capitalism class formation and labor militancy In the first decade of the twentieth century the sleepy vineyard towns of the Aude department of southern France exploded with strikes and protests Agricultural workers joined labor unions the Socialist party established a base among peasant vinegrower

Peasant and French James R. Lehning,1995-04-28 Describes the negotiation of French national identity during the nineteenth century in terms of the relationship between the French and their rural cultures Voices of the People in Nineteenth-Century France David Hopkin,2012-04-26 An innovative study revealing that folklore collections can shed new light on the lives of the socially marginalized In a New Light Abigail Harrison Moore,R.W.

Sandwell,2021-07-15 In the early 1970s a German study estimated that women expended as many calories cleaning their coal mining husbands work clothes as their husbands did working below ground arguably making the home as much a site of industrialized work as factories and mines But while energy studies are beginning to acknowledge the importance of social and historical contexts and to produce more inclusive histories of the unprecedented energy transitions that powered industrialization women have remained notably absent from these accounts In a New Light explores the vital place of women in the shift to fossil fuels that spurred the Industrial Revolution illuminating the variety of ways in which gender and energy intersected in women s lives in nineteenth and twentieth century Europe and North America From their labour in the home where they managed the adoption of new energy sources to their work as educators in electrical housecraft and their protests against the effects of industrialization women took on active roles to influence energy decisions Together these essays deepen our understanding of the significance of gender in the history of energy and of energy transitions in the history of women and gender By foregrounding women s energetic labours and concerns the authors shed new light on energy use in the past and provide important insights as societies move towards a carbon neutral future The Spinners and Weavers of Auffy Gay L. Gullickson,2002-08-08 This 1987 book broadens our understanding of the proto industrial era and the history of women Migrants in Modern France Philip E. Ogden,Paul White,2002-09-11 A discussion of the structure and role of migration flows affecting France from 1850 to the present day It covers both internal and international movements and consideration is given both to broad macro scale analysis and more detailed micro scale investigations

Early Modern Capitalism Maarten Prak,2005-06-28 This volume takes stock of recent research on economic growth as well as the development of capital and labour markets during the centuries that preceded the Industrial Revolution The book underlines the diversity in the economic experiences of early modern Europeans and suggests how this variety might be the foundation of a new conception of economic and social change Sibling Relations and the Transformations of European Kinship, 1300-1900 Christopher H. Johnson,David Warren Sabean,2011-03-01 Recently considerable interest has developed about the degree to which anthropological approaches to kinship can be used for the study of the long term development of European history From the late middle ages to the dawn of the twentieth century kinship rather than declining as is often assumed was twice reconfigured in dramatic ways and became increasingly significant as a force in historical change with remarkable similarities across European society Applying interdisciplinary approaches from social and cultural history and literature and focusing on sibling relationships this volume takes up the challenge of examining the systemic and structural development of kinship over the long term by looking at the close inner familial dynamics of ruling families the Hohenzollerns cultural leaders the Mendelssohns business and professional classes and political figures the Gladstones in France Italy Germany and England It offers insight into the current issues in kinship studies and draws from a wide range of personal documents letters autobiographies testaments memoirs as well as genealogies and works of art Routledge Revivals: French Cities in the Nineteenth Century (1981) John Merriman,2018-02-01 Originally published in 1981 French Cities in the Nineteenth Century analyses large scale processes of social change and looks at how this affected the growth of towns and cities of nineteenth century France The book addresses how this change affected the politics of life in France during the nineteenth century as well as how the city was organised Urbanization created new uses of space and new concerns for the people that lived among them and the book looks at how social change was a collective experience for the people of France and how this transformed the societies in which they lived Family, Political Economy, and Demographic Change David I. Kertzer,Dennis P. Hogan,1989 Family Political Economy and Demographic Change represents an unprecedented interdisciplinary effort to discover how changes in family life and demographic behavior actually occurred in this crucial period and how people s lives were affected The book takes issue with a number of the most influential demographic and sociological theories dealing with the evolution of the Western family and the factors responsible for fertility decline As in so many other parts of Europe the northern Italian community of Casalecchio experienced massive social and economic changes in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Characterized by sharecropping agriculture and large complex family households the community faced the effects of industrialization urbanization and dramatic political change Making use of unusually rich archival sources to reconstruct the lives of 19 000 people who lived in Casalecchio during this period Kertzer and Hogan challenge many current generalizations regarding the emergence of modern European society Children of the Revolution Robert Gildea, 2008-07-31 Nineteenth century France was one of the world's great cultural beacons renowned for its dazzling literature philosophy art poetry and technology Yet this was also a tumultuous century of political anarchy and bloodshed where each generation of the French Revolution's children would experience their own wars revolutions and terrors From soldiers to priests from peasants to Communards from feminists to literary figures such as Victor Hugo and Honoré de Balzac Robert Gildea's brilliant new history explores every aspect of these rapidly changing times and the people who lived through them Markets and Manufacture in Early Industrial Europe (Routledge Revivals) MAXINE Berg, 2014-06-17 This edited collection first published in 1991 focuses on the commercial relations marketing structures and development of consumption that accompanied early industrial expansion The papers examine aspects of industrial structure and work organisation including women's work and highlight the conflict and compromise between work traditions and the emergence of a market culture With an overarching introduction providing a background to European manufacturing this title will be of particular interest to students of social and economic history researching early industrial Europe and the concurrent emergence of a material consumer culture A Social History of France 1780-1914 Peter McPhee, 2017-03-03 This volume provides a lively and authoritative synthesis of recent work on the social history of France and is now thoroughly updated to cover the long nineteenth century from 1789-1914 Peter McPhee offers both a readable narrative and a distinctive coherent argument about this remarkable century and explores key themes such as Peasant interaction with the environment The changing experience of work and leisure The nature of crime and protest Changing demographic patterns and family structures The religious practices of workers and peasants The ideology and internal repercussions of colonisation At the core of this social history is the exercise and experience of social relations of power not only because in these years there were four periods of protracted upheaval but also because the history of the workplace of relations between women and men adults and children is all about human interaction Stimulating and enjoyable to read this indispensable introduction to nineteenth century France will help readers to make sense of the often bewildering story of these years while giving them a better understanding of what it meant to be an inhabitant of France during that turbulent time Structure and Mobility William Hamilton Sewell, 1985-04-26 This book is a sociological portrait of Marseille during the epochal changes of the nineteenth century Sewell establishes a systematic quantitative description of some of the most important social structures of nineteenth century Marseille Although deeply influenced by sociological methods and theories

the volume is written on the basis of readability and simplicity and therefore has much to offer to the historian as well as the sociologist

Logics of History William H. Sewell Jr.,2009-07-27 While social scientists and historians have been exchanging ideas for a long time they have never developed a proper dialogue about social theory William H Sewell Jr observes that on questions of theory the communication has been mostly one way from social science to history Logics of History argues that both history and the social sciences have something crucial to offer each other While historians do not think of themselves as theorists they know something social scientists do not how to think about the temporalities of social life On the other hand while social scientists treatments of temporality are usually clumsy their theoretical sophistication and penchant for structural accounts of social life could offer much to historians Renowned for his work at the crossroads of history sociology political science and anthropology Sewell argues that only by combining a more sophisticated understanding of historical time with a concern for larger theoretical questions can a satisfying social theory emerge In Logics of History he reveals the shape such an engagement could take some of the topics it could illuminate and how it might affect both sides of the disciplinary divide

A History of European Women's Work Deborah Simonton,2002-09-11 The work patterns of European women from 1700 onwards fluctuate in relation to ideological demographic economic and familial changes In A History of European Women's Work Deborah Simonton draws together recent research and methodological developments to take an overview of trends in women's work across Europe from the so called pre industrial period to the present Taking the role of gender and class in defining women's labour as a central theme Deborah Simonton compares and contrasts the pace of change between European countries distinguishing between Europe wide issues and local developments

Decisive Years in France, 1840-1847 David H. Pinkney,2014-07-14 David Pinkney challenges accepted views of the timing of France's Industrial Revolution and the accompanying transformation of French society Originally published in 1986 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905
