The Letters Of Sarah Harriet Burney:

The Letters of Sarah Harriet Burney Sarah Harriet Burney, 1997 This scholarly edition presents for the first time all of the known surviving letters of British novelist Sarah Harriet Burney 1772 1884 The overwhelming majority of these letters more than ninety percent have never before been published Burney's accomplishments says Lorna J Clark have been unjustly overlooked She published five works of fiction between 1796 and 1839 all of which met with reasonable success including Traits of Nature 1812 which sold out within three months These letters position Burney among her fellow women writers and shed light on her relations with her publisher and her ambivalence toward her own work and her readership Her lively observation of the literary scene evinces the range and scope of her reading as well as her awareness of literary trends and developments Burney was for example remarkably prescient in recognizing and praising from the first the talent of Jane Austen and met several of the authors of her day A challenging new perspective on family matters also emerges in the letters The youngest child of the second marriage of Charles Burney and the only daughter to remain unmarried Sarah Harriet had the unenviable task of caring for her father in his later years Her letters reveal a darker side of Dr Burney and also help to round out our image of a more favored daughter Sarah Harriet's half sister and fellow novelist Frances Burney As literature Clark observes Burney's letters are arguably her best work Thoroughly versed in the epistolary arts she sought always to amuse and entertain her correspondents Burney ultimately emerges as a quiet but heroic single woman relegated to the margins of society where she struggled for independence and self respect Displaying literary qualities and a lively sense of humor the letters provide a fascinating insight into the literary political and social life of the day The Letters of Sarah Harriet Burney Sarah Harriet Burney, Lorna Joan Clark, 1989 A Celebration of Frances Burney Lorna J. Clark, 2009-10-02 On the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the birth of the writer Frances Burney 1752 1840 a window to her memory was placed in the arched recess of stained glass that graces Poets Corner Novelist playwright and diarist Frances Burney is one of the few women accorded such an honour She joins the likes of Jane Austen Charlotte Brontë and George Eliot who might in some ways be seen as her literary heirs Burney's journey to recognition on the stage of the world has been a long one crowned finally with triumph The service marked the mid point of a two day conference in which various aspects of Burney's life and achievement were canvassed Her journals and letters her novels and plays both comedies and tragedies her life family and context were all given serious scholarly treatment This volume includes the papers presented at the conference which cover the many facets of a remarkable career and represent the broad spectrum of scholarly approaches to the entire opus of Frances Burney It shows how far Burney has come from being dismissed as a minor precursor to Jane Austen to being recognized in her own right as a powerful complex and influential writer whose works had considerable impact on her own and subsequent generations First Letters in the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Centuries Alain Kerhervé, Catherine Thomas-Ripault, 2020-07-09 First letters can be understood in various ways as the first letters written by a person such as the letters of children or of drafts which were preserved amended and copied as the first letter of a particular type such as an experienced letter writer's first love letter and as the first letter to a new correspondent among many others. The idea of a first letter also suggests a link with the letters that follow: what is the connection between the first letter and those which come after it? Written by academics specializing in letter writing internationally, this volume examines the letters of various authors, philosophers and artists including Benjamin Constant, Jos Maria de Heredia, Voltaire, Diderot, Coleridge, De Quincey and others. It is structured in four sections: letters from youth; first letters in fictional works; the writer's persona; and first letters within correspondence.

Women, Gender, and Print Culture in Eighteenth-Century Britain Temma Berg, Sonia Kane, 2013-10-03. This edited collection is a tribute to the late noted eighteenth century scholar Betty Rizzo, who testified to her influence as a researcher, writer, teacher and mentor. The essays, written by a range of established and younger eighteenth century specialists, expand on the themes important to Rizzo: the importance of the archive; the contributions of women writers to the canon of eighteenth century literature; and to an emerging print culture; the sometimes fraught relations within the eighteenth century family; the relationship between life and literature; and finally the role of female companionship in women's lives. Divided into three sections: Living in the Eighteenth Century, Novel Living in the Eighteenth Century, World and Afterlives, the fourteen essays that form the body of the collection treat such topics as epistolarity; fraternal relations in novels; and in families; women and travel in Jane Austen's novels; the pleasures and challenges of searching through archives to understand the complex entanglements of eighteenth century families; the changing reception of Alexander Pope's poetry; and intersections among race, class, gender and sexuality in a famous early nineteenth century Scottish libel case. The final essay of the fourteen connects the archetypal eighteenth century figure of the seduced and abandoned woman to Sophie Calle's 2007 Venice Biennale exhibition entitled Take Care of Yourself, which the author reads as a direct descendant of the eighteenth century letter novel. The book is framed by an introduction that situates the book as part of the ongoing redefinition of the archive of eighteenth century literature and an afterword that gives a personal account of Rizzo's career and her indelible legacy as friend, mentor and professional model. The contributors use a variety of methods in their scholarship, but a common strand is archival research and close reading, inflected by feminist analysis. The book will appeal to students and scholars of eighteenth century British literature and culture, and to those interested in women's writing and women's relationships in the eighteenth century and today, and in feminist literary history. The contributors to the volume practice the kind of scholarship Rizzo was known for: painstaking archival research and attention to the nuances of relationships among eighteenth century women and men, and in so doing shed new light on a number of familiar and not so familiar eighteenth century texts.

Women's Life Writing, 1700-1850 D. Cook, A. Culley, 2016-04-13. This collection discusses British and Irish life writings by women in the period 1700-1850. It argues for the importance of women's life writing as part of the culture and practice of eighteenth century and Romantic auto biography, exploring the complex relationships between constructions of femininity life writing forms and models of authorship The Cambridge History of European Romantic Literature Patrick Vincent, 2023-11-09 This wide ranging new history of European Romantic Literature presents a pan European phenomenon which transcended national borders and contributed to a new sense of European cultural identity across the continent Conceived in the same spirit as Madame de Sta l s cultural and political agenda at a time when her generous idea of Europe is being challenged on all sides the volume pays close attention to the period s circulation of people ideas and texts It proposes to rethink the period comparatively focusing on various forms of cultural mediation and transfer and on productive tensions synchronicities and interactions within and across borders Organized chronologically its twenty chapters address over five hundred works proposing a coherent historical narrative without completely erasing individual nations specificities By showcasing in particular the place of Britain within continental culture the volume hopes to reactivate critical examinations of Romanticism from a historicised European perspective

The Routledge Companion to Romantic Women Writers Ann R. Hawkins, Catherine S. Blackwell, E. Leigh Bonds, 2022-12-30 The Routledge Companion to Romantic Women Writers overviews critical reception for Romantic women writers from their earliest periodical reviews through the most current scholarship and directs users to avenues of future research It is divided into two parts The first section offers topical discussions on the status of provincial poets on women s engagement in children s literature the relation of women writers to their religious backgrounds the historical backgrounds to women s orientalism and their engagement in debates on slavery and abolition The second part surveys the life and careers of individual women some 47 in all with sections for biography biographical resources works modern editions archival holdings critical reception and avenues for further research The final sections of each essay offer further guidance for researchers including Signatures under which the author published and a List of Works accompanied whenever possible with contemporary prices and publishing formats To facilitate research a robust Works Cited includes all texts mentioned or quoted in the essay How to Create the Perfect Wife Wendy Moore, 2013-04-09 A captivating tale of one man s mission to groom his ideal mate Thomas Day an 18th century British writer and radical knew exactly the sort of woman he wanted to marry Pure and virginal yet tough and hardy and completely subservient to his whims But after being rejected by a number of spirited young women Day concluded that the perfect partner he envisioned simply did not exist in frivolous fashion obsessed Georgian society Rather than conceding defeat and giving up on his search for the woman of his dreams however Day set out to create her So begins the extraordinary true story at the heart of How to Create the Perfect Wife A few days after he turned twenty one and inherited a large fortune Day adopted two young orphans from the Foundling Hospital and guided by the writings of Jean Jacques Rousseau and the principles of the Enlightenment attempted to teach them to be model wives Day s peculiar experiment inevitably backfired though not before he had taken his theories about marriage education and femininity to shocking extremes Stranger than fiction blending tragedy and farce How to Create the Perfect Wife is an engrossing tale of the radicalism and deep contradictions at the heart of the enlightenment Literature and the Arts

Anna Battigelli, 2023-10-13 The ten essays in Literature and the Arts explore the intermedial plenitude of eighteenth century English culture honoring the memory of James Anderson Winn whose work demonstrated how seeing that interplay of the arts and literature was essential to a full understanding of Restoration and eighteenth century English culture Scenery machinery music dance and texts transformed one another both enriching and complicating generic distinctions Artists were alive to the power of the arts to reflect and shape reality and their audience was quick to turn to the arts as performative pleasures and critical lenses through which to understand a changing world This collection's eminent authors discuss estate design musicalized theater the visual spectacle of musical performance stage machinery and set designs the social uses of painting and singing drama's reflection of a transformed military infrastructure and the arts of memory and of laughter

Dream and Literary Creation in Womens Writings in the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Centuries Isabelle Hervouet, Anne Rouhette, 2021-06-15 This edited collection deals with dream as a literary trope and as a source of creativity in women's writings It gathers essays spanning a time period from the end of the seventeenth century to the mid nineteenth century with a strong focus on the Romantic period and particularly on Mary Shelley's Frankenstein in which dreams are at the heart of the writing process but also constitute the diegetic substance of the narrative The contributions re-examine the oneiric facets of the novel and develop fresh perspectives on dreams and dreaming in Mary Shelley's fiction and on other female authors Anne Finch Ann Radcliffe Emily and Charlotte Bront and a few others re-appraising the textuality of dreams and their link to women's creativity and creation as a whole

Visions of Science James A. Secord, 2015-04-03 The first half of the nineteenth century witnessed an extraordinary transformation in British political literary and intellectual life There was widespread social unrest and debates raged regarding education the lives of the working class and the new industrial machine governed world At the same time modern science emerged in Europe in more or less its current form as new disciplines and revolutionary concepts including evolution and the vastness of geologic time began to take shape In Visions of Science James A Secord offers a new way to capture this unique moment of change He explores seven key books among them Charles Babbage's Reflections on the Decline of Science Charles Lyell's Principles of Geology Mary Somerville's Connexion of the Physical Sciences and Thomas Carlyle's Sartor Resartus and shows how literature that reflects on the wider meaning of science can be revelatory when granted the kind of close reading usually reserved for fiction and poetry These books considered the meanings of science and its place in modern life looking to the future coordinating and connecting the sciences and forging knowledge that would be appropriate for the new age Their aim was often philosophical but Secord shows it was just as often imaginative projective and practical to suggest not only how to think about the natural world but also to indicate modes of action and potential consequences in an era of unparalleled change Visions of Science opens our eyes to how genteel ladies working men and the literary elite responded to these remarkable works It reveals the importance of understanding the physical qualities of books and the key role of printers and publishers from factories pouring out cheap compendia to fashionable publishing houses in London's West End. Secord's vivid account takes us to the heart of an information revolution that was to have profound consequences for the making of the modern world. The Letters of Dr Charles Burney, 2025-04-29 This second volume of the letters of Dr Charles Burney follows directly from the first published in 1991 and contains roughly two hundred letters written between 1785 and 1793. In these years Burney consolidated his reputation as a musicologist publishing his account of the Commemoration of Handel 1785 and completing A General History of Music 1789. Continuing to teach he had a busy schedule filled with dinners, assemblies and concerts. During these years Burney moved from St Martin's Street to the Royal Hospital Chelsea where he held the post of organist. He remained active in musical circles helping to promote foreign musicians and young performers. He welcomed Josef Haydn to London in 1791. As a proprietor of the Pantheon which burned down in 1792, Burney noted competing efforts to establish a new opera house. He helped organize the musical band taken on Lord Macartney's embassy to China in 1792. Seeking materials for his research, Burney borrowed manuscripts from George III and corresponded with colleagues in England and abroad. Burney also discussed literary subjects and contributed to the Monthly Review. A friend of Horace Walpole, he socialized with the Bluestockings. He was a frequent attendee at the Literary Club and supplied Boswell with anecdotes of Johnson. Burney writes movingly of the passing of the artist Sir Joshua Reynolds. Having married twice, Burney kept in touch with a large family and visited his daughters in Mickleham, Surrey and Aylmer, Norfolk. He tried to help his son Charles Burney Jr restore his reputation after the disgrace of expulsion from Cambridge and supported his daughter Frances on accepting and then resigning from a position in the Queen's Household. Initially alarmed when she married a penniless French migrant, he soon began to lobby on behalf of French migrant priests and enlisted Frances to pen a pamphlet for the cause. While holding strong views himself, Burney kept friends on both sides of the political divide. Burney was closely engaged with the musical, literary, scientific and political circles of his day. Informative and entertaining, his letters add considerably to our knowledge of the man and the age. The Reception of Jane Austen and Walter Scott, Annika Bautz, 2007-06-09

Of all the great novelists of the Romantic period, only two, Jane Austen and Walter Scott, have been continuously reprinted, admired, argued about and read from the moment their works first appeared until the present day. In a pioneering study, Annika Bautz traces how Scott's nineteenth-century success among all classes of readers made him the most admired and most widely read novelist in history, only for his readership to plummet sharply downwards in the twentieth century. Austen's popularity, by contrast, has risen inexorably, overtaking Scott's and bringing about a reversal in reputation that would have been unthinkable in the author's own time. To assess the reactions of readers belonging to diverse interpretative communities, Bautz draws on a wide range of indicators, including editions, publisher's relaunchees, sales, reviews, library catalogues and lending figures, private comments in diaries and letters, popularisations. She maps out the long-run changes in the reception of each author over two centuries.
