The Passage Of The Thames Holocene Environment And Settlement At Runnymede:

The Passage of the Thames Stuart Needham, 2000 Described as the anchor of the Runnymede Research series this volume forms a report on the Holocene environment and changes in the riverscape around the Runnymede site The build up of alluvial sediments molluscan and palynological evidence and the physical changes to the river and floodplain are all described and related to human activities at the site such as clearance and agricultural schemes The volume concludes with a history of the changing riverscape from the 8th millennium BC to the 2nd millennium AD and broader conclusions regarding the physical and biological setting are made The Thames Jonathan Schneer, 2005-01-01 England's great river through the ages Alluvial Archaeology in Europe Andrew J. Howard, M.G. Macklin, D.G. Passmore, 2003-01-01 This book documents and assesses over ten years of research in the field bringing together expertise and knowledge from the disciplines of archaeology and geomorphology and highlighting important recent advances discoveries and new directions Reflecting the wide scope of current research in this area the book contains over twenty papers focusing on various aspects of alluvial archaeology from the methodology of dating prospecting excavating etc to previously under analysed geographical areas such as intertidal wetlands Imperial College Sports Grounds and RMC Land, Harlington Andrew B. Powell, Alistair Barclay, Lorraine Mephram, Chris J. Stevens, 2016-02-16 This volume brings together the results from the excavations at the former Imperial College Sports Ground RMC Land and Land East of Wall Garden Farm near the villages of Harlington and Sipson in the London Borough of Hillingdon The excavations revealed parts of an archaeological landscape with a rich history of development from before 4000 BC to the post medieval period The opportunity to investigate two large areas of this landscape provided evidence for possible settlement continuity and shift over a period of 6000 years Early to Middle Neolithic occupation was represented by a rectangular ditched mortuary enclosure and a large spread of pits many containing deposits of Peterborough Ware pottery flint and charred plant remains A possible dispersed monument complex of three hengiform enclosures was associated with the rare remains of cremation burials radiocarbon dated to the Middle Neolithic Limited Late Neolithic and Early Bronze Age activity was identified which is in stark contrast to the Middle to Late Bronze Age when a formalized landscape of extensive rectangular fields enclosures wells and pits was established This major reorganized land division can be traced across the two sites and over large parts of the adjacent Heathrow terraces A small Iron Age and Romano British nucleated settlement was constructed with associated enclosures flanking a trackway There were wayside inhumations cremation burials and middens and more widely dispersed wells and quarries Two possible sunken featured buildings of early Saxon date were found There was also a small cemetery Subsequently a middle Saxon and medieval field system of small enclosures and wells was established Molluscs in Archaeology Michael J. Allen, 2017-06-30 The subject of Molluscs in Archaeology has not been dealt with collectively for several decades This new volume in Oxbow's Studying Scientific Archaeology series addresses many aspects of mollusks in archaeology It will give the reader an overview of the whole topic methods of analysis and approaches to interpretation It aims to be a broad based text book giving readers an insight of how to apply analysis to different present and past landscapes and how to interpret those landscapes It includes Marine Freshwater and land snails studies and examines topics such as diet economy climate environmental and land use isotopes and mollusks as artifacts It aims to provide archaeologists and students with the first port of call giving them a methods and principles and b the potential information mollusks can provide It concentrates on analysis and interpretation most archaeologists and students can undertake and understand and to review the heavier science in terms of potential application and interpretational value

A Tale of the Unknown Unknowns Hilary K. Murray, J. C. Murray, Caroline Fraser, 2009-10-08 The site of Warren Field in Scotland revealed two unusual and enigmatic features an alignment of pits and a large rectangular feature interpreted as a timber building Excavations confirmed that the timber structure was an early Neolithic building and that the pits had been in use from the Mesolithic This report details the excavations and reveals that the hall was associated with the storage and or consumption of cereals including bread wheat and pollen evidence suggests that the hall may have been part of a larger area of activity involving cereal cultivation and processing The pits are fully documented and environmental evidence sheds light on the surrounding landscape

Iron Age Communities in Britain Barry Cunliffe, 2004-08-02 This fully revised fourth edition maintains the qualities of the earlier editions whilst taking into account the significant developments that have moulded the discipline in recent years

Assessing Iron Age Marsh-Forts Shelagh Norton, 2021-10-07 This volume assesses marsh forts as a separate phenomenon within Iron Age society through an understanding of their landscape context and palaeoenvironmental development These substantial monuments appear to have been deliberately constructed to control areas of marginal wetland and may have played an important role in the ritual landscape

Land, Power and Prestige David T. Yates, 2007-08-01 A major phase of economic expansion occurred in southern England during the second and early first millennium BC accompanied by a fundamental shift in regional power and wealth towards the eastern lowlands This book offers a synthesis of available data on Bronze Age lowland field systems in England including a gazetteer of sites The research demonstrates the importance of large scale animal husbandry in the mixed farming regimes as evidenced in the design of the field systems which incorporate droveways stock proof fencing watering holes cow pens sheep races and gateways for stockhandling It is argued that the field systems represented a form of conspicuous production an intensification of agrarian endeavour or a statement of intent to be understood in relation to the maintenance display and promotion of hierarchical social systems involved in exchange with their counterparts across the English Channel
