The Creative Process in the Individual T. Troward, 2019-11-25 In The Creative Process in the Individual T. Troward presents a thought provoking exploration of creativity as not merely an artistic endeavor but as a fundamental aspect of human existence. Written in the early 20th century during a period of significant intellectual transformation, Troward's work reflects the evolving landscape of psychology, spirituality, and philosophy. Employing a fluid literary style that combines philosophical discourse with practical insights, he delves into the mechanics of individual creativity, arguing that innate potential can be harnessed through understanding and mastery of mental processes. Troward uses rich metaphors and a systematic approach to illuminate the interconnections between the mind and the external world, specifically how thoughts shape reality. T. Troward, a British judge and metaphysical writer, was instrumental in bringing Eastern philosophies, particularly those of Hindu and Buddhist traditions, into Western thought. His extensive studies and experience in law and spirituality provided a unique lens through which he viewed the world. Inspired by the New Thought movement and his interest in mental science, Troward wrote this text to empower individuals to recognize their creative capabilities, aiming to elevate human consciousness and foster personal growth. For those seeking to unlock their creative potential or understand the deeper mechanics of thought and manifestation, The Creative Process in the Individual is a compelling read. Troward's insights are timeless, resonating with contemporary discussions on creativity and self-actualization. This book invites readers to engage with their inner creativity and is highly recommended for both creative practitioners and anyone interested in the interplay between thought and reality. The Decline of the Individual Mark D. White, 2017-09-18 This book explores the steady decline in the status of the individual in recent years and addresses common misunderstandings about the concept of individuality. Drawing from psychology, neuroscience, technology, economics, philosophy, politics, and law, White explains how and why the individual has been devalued in the eyes of scholars, government leaders, and the public. He notes that developments in science have led to doubts about our cognitive competence, while assumptions made in the humanities have led to questions about our moral competence. In this book, White goes on to argue that both of these views are mistaken and that they stem from overly simplistic ideas about how individuals make choices, however imperfectly, in their interests, which are multifaceted and complex. In response, he proposes a new way to look at individuals that preserves their essential autonomy while emphasizing their responsibility to others inspired by the moral philosophy of Immanuel Kant and the legal and political philosophy reflected in the Bill of Rights to the U S Constitution This book explains how individuality combines both rights and responsibilities reconciles the popular yet false dichotomy between individual and society and provides the basis for a humane and respectful civil society and government This book is part of White s trilogy on the individual and society which includes The Manipulation of Choice and The Illusion of Well Being

Tilak of Tibet Reveals Life's Purpose Ann Hackett, THERE is a school of philosophy still in existence of which modern culture has lost sight In these words Mr A P Sinnett began his book The Occult World the first popular exposition of Theosophy published thirty years ago 1 During the years that have passed since then many thousands have learned wisdom in that school yet to the majority its teachings are still unknown and they can give only the vaguest of replies to the query What is Theosophy Two books already exist which answer that question Mr Sinnett s Esoteric Buddhism and Dr Besant s The Ancient Wisdom I have no thought of entering into competition with those standard works what I desire is to present a statement as clear and simple as I can make it which may be regarded as introductory to them We often speak of Theosophy as not in itself a religion but the truth which lies behind all religions alike That is so yet from another point of view we may surely say that it is at once a philosophy a religion and a science It is a philosophy because it puts plainly before us an explanation of the scheme of evolution of both the souls and the bodies contained in our solar system It is a religion in so far as having shown us the course of ordinary evolution it also puts before us and advises a method of shortening that course so that by conscious effort we may progress more directly towards the goal It is a science because it treats both these subjects as matters not of theological belief but of direct knowledge obtainable by study and investigation It asserts that man has no need to trust to blind faith because he has within him latent powers which when aroused enable him to see and examine for himself and it proceeds to prove its case by showing how those powers may be awakened It is itself a result of the awakening of such powers by men for the teachings which it puts before us are founded upon direct observations made in the past and rendered possible only by such development As a philosophy it explains to us that the solar system is a carefully ordered mechanism a manifestation of a magnificent life of which man is but a small part Nevertheless it takes up that small part which immediately concerns us and treats it exhaustively under three heads present past and future It deals with the present by describing what man really is as seen by means of developed faculties It is customary to speak of man as having a soul Theosophy as the result of direct investigation reverses that dictum and states that man is a soul and has a body in fact several bodies which are his vehicles and instruments in various worlds These worlds are not separate in space they are simultaneously present with us here and now and can be examined they are the divisions of the material side of Nature different degrees of density in the aggregation of matter as will presently be explained in detail Man has an existence in several of these but is normally conscious only of the lowest though sometimes in dreams and trances he has glimpses of some of the others What is called death is the laying aside of the vehicle belonging to this lowest world but the soul or real man in a higher world is no more changed or affected by this than the physical man is changed or affected when he removes his over coat All this is a matter not of speculation but of observation and experiment Theosophy has much to tell us of the past history of man of how in the course of evolution he has come to be what he now is This also is a matter of observation because of the fact that there exists an indelible record of all that has taken place a sort of memory of Nature by examining which the scenes of earlier evolution may be made to pass before the eyes of the investigator as though they were happening at this moment By thus studying the past we learn that man is divine in origin and that he has a long evolution behind him a double evolution that of the life or soul within and that of the outer form We learn too that the life of man as a soul is of what to us seems enormous length and that what we have been in the habit of calling his life is in reality only one day of his real existence He has already lived through many such days and has many more of them yet before him and if we wish to understand the real life and its object we must consider it in relation not only to this one day of it which begins with birth and ends with death but also to the days which have gone before and those which are yet to come Of those that are yet to come there is also much to be said and on this subject too a great deal of definite information is available Such information is obtainable first from men who have already passed much further along the road of evolution than we and have consequently direct experience of it and secondly from inferences drawn from the obvious direction of the steps which we see to have been previously taken The goal of this particular cycle is in sight though still far above us but it would seem that even when that has been attained an infinity of progress still lies before everyone who is willing to undertake it One of the most striking advantages of Theosophy is that the light which it brings to us at once solves many of our problems clears away many difficulties accounts for the apparent injustices of life and in all directions brings order out of seeming chaos Thus while some of its teaching is based upon the observation of forces whose direct working is somewhat beyond the ken of the ordinary man of the world if the latter will accept as a hypothesis he will very soon come to see that it must be a correct one because it and it alone furnishes a coherent and reasonable explanation of the drama of life which is being played before him The existence of Perfected Men and the possibility of coming into touch with Them and being taught by Them are prominent among the great new truths which Theosophy brings to the western world Another of them is the stupendous fact that the world is not drifting blindly into anarchy but that its progress is under the control of a perfectly organized Hierarchy so that final failure even for the tiniest of its units is of all impossibilities the most impossible A glimpse of the working of that Hierarchy inevitably engenders the desire to co operate with it to serve under it in however humble a capacity and some time in the far distant future to be worthy to join the outer fringes of its ranks This brings us to that aspect of Theosophy which we have called religious Those who come to know and to understand these things are dissatisfied with the slow ons of evolution they yearn to become more immediately useful and so they demand and obtain knowledge of the shorter but steeper Path There is no possibility of escaping the amount of work that has to be done It is like carrying a load up a mountain whether one carries it straight up a steep path or more gradually by a road of gentle slope precisely the same number of foot pounds must be exerted Therefore to do the same work in a small fraction of the time means determined effort It can be done however for it has been done and those who have done it agree that it far more than repays the trouble The limitations of the various vehicles are thereby gradually transcended and the liberated man becomes an intelligent co worker in the mighty plan for the evolution of all beings
