

Scene 1

[KANGAROO, WOMBAT and KOOKABURRA are sitting on stage in different places. A plain-looking LIZARD sits towards the front of the stage. PLATYPUS skips onto the stage, pirouetting and stopping every now and then to preen himself and admire his reflection in the water.]

NARRATOR: Long, long ago, when the earth was new and animals newly made, there lived a handsome creature called Platypus. He was half bird, half mammal. He had the beak of a bird and the feet of a graceful bird.

His face was exquisite, with large soft eyes. He had long soft fur that shimmered and shone with all the colours of the rainbow. His body was roly-poly round and his tail long and exceedingly bushy.

PLATYPUS: [Looking at LIZARD pitifully] No other animal has my rainbow fur, my delicate beak, my dainty feet. Oh, and my beautiful eyes! How handsome am I! I'm so cool.

NARRATOR: Some days, he craved the company of other animals. Not because he was lonely, oh no, but because he wanted to hear them tell how good looking he was – and to criticise them.

PLATYPUS: [Looking at WOMBAT] Wombat, don't you wish you had my gorgeous tail?

WOMBAT: Well, Platypus, if I had your tail, which is indeed gorgeous, I would have to dig a much longer entrance to my burrow to accommodate it.

PLATYPUS: [Turning to face KANGAROO] Kangaroo, your legs are far too large for your body. Wouldn't you look better with my fine limbs?

KANGAROO: Your legs are indeed the envy of all, but don't you see that I need big legs to jump the way I do? [Jumps away, angrily]

Economies of Early Modern Drama Anne Enderwitz, 2023-09-29 This book provides new insights into how theatre responded to changing economic practices and structures It reviews discourses on household management and commerce to create a rich context for the discussion of socio economic actions and transactions in Macbeth Othello and Timon of Athens as well as in city comedies by Ben Jonson and Thomas Middleton By approaching discourses on economy and commerce as complementary the book opens up a diverse field of socio economic practices including the gendered division of duties in the household new modes of valuation and evolving credit instruments Theatre provides unique access to this field In contrast to practical and policy oriented discourses it addresses socio economic change and its vicissitudes in a spirit of experimentation testing the ethical limits of socio economic action and accustoming audiences to the demands of a changing socio economic reality Theatre thus offers a vital contribution to the prehistory of political economy On the London stages self interest emerges as a key motive of socio economic action and theatre playfully explores its ambiguous status as a partly rational and partly excessive force that has a new ordering function but also creates social conflict At the same time by staging the contradictory demands of ethics and efficiency in economic decision making early modern plays offer access to a changing understanding of prudence that has a Machiavellian touch by aligning with the pursuit of private interest prudence sheds some of its ethical content and becomes foremost an instrumental faculty

Towards a Poetics of the Mental Health Play Anja Drautzburg, 2020 This study traces key developments in theatre's engagement with mental health since the 1970s. It introduces and applies the concept of the mental health play as accurate and timely in addressing the way mental distress and mental illness have been brought to the stage. The study argues that the theatre is a central calibrator for reflecting developments and tensions in as well as attitudes towards mental health care and thus opens up a domain that still has stereotypes and myths attached to it. Theatre's representations of mental distress inform and shape cultural production and vice versa. Mental health plays are central in encouraging and fostering conversations about mental health and they thus intervene in ongoing debates. Due to its interdisciplinary approach, this study contributes to and extends existing research in multiple fields including theatre and science performance studies and the medical humanities.

The Arts of the Prima Donna in the Long Nineteenth Century
 Rachel Cowgill, Hilary Poriss, 2012-06-01
 Female characters assumed increasing prominence in the narratives of nineteenth and early twentieth century opera. And for contemporary audiences many of these characters and the celebrated women who played them still define opera at its finest and most searingly affective even if storylines leave them swooning and faded by the end of the drama. The presence and representation of women in opera has been addressed in a range of recent studies that offer valuable insights into the operatic stage as cultural space focusing a critical lens at the text and the position and signification of female characters. Moving that lens onto the historical The Arts of the Prima Donna in the Long Nineteenth Century sheds light on the singers who created and inhabited these roles: the flesh and blood women who embodied these fabled doomed women onstage before an audience. Editors Rachel Cowgill and Hilary Poriss lead a cast of renowned contributors in an impressive display of current approaches to the lives, careers and performances of female opera singers. Essential theoretical perspectives reflect several broad themes woven through the volume: cultures of celebrity surrounding the female singer; the emergence of the quasi-mythical figure of the diva; explorations of the intricate and sundry arts associated with the prima donna; and with her representation in other media and the diversity and complexity of contemporary responses to her. The prima donna influenced compositional practices, determined musical and dramatic interpretation and affected management decisions about the running of the opera house: content of the season and employment of other artists. A clear demonstration that her position as first woman extended well beyond the boards of the operatic stage itself. The Arts of the Prima Donna in the Long Nineteenth Century is an important addition to the collections of students and researchers in opera studies, nineteenth century music performance and gender sexuality studies and cultural studies as well as to the shelves of opera singers and enthusiasts.

"Mouths on Fire with Songs". Caroline De Wager, 2013
 This book is the first cross-cultural study of post-1970s Anglophone Canadian and American multi-ethnic drama. It invites assessment of the thematic and aesthetic contributions of this theater in today's globalized culture. A growing number of playwrights of African, South and East Asian and First Nations heritage have engaged with manifold socio-political and aesthetic issues in experimental works combining formal features of more classical European dramatic traditions with such elements of ethnic culture as ancestral music and dance to interrogate the very concepts of theatricality and canonicity Their mouths on fire August Wilson these playwrights contest stereotyped notions of authenticity Inspired by songs of anger passion experience survival and regeneration the plays analyzed bespeak a burning desire to break the silence to heal and empower Foregrounding questions of hybridity diaspora cultural memory and nation this comparative study includes discussion of some twenty five case studies of plays by such authors as M J Kang August Wilson Suzan Lori Parks Djanet Sears Chay Yew Padma Viswanathan Rana Bose Diane Glancy and Drew Hayden Taylor Through its cross cultural and cross national prism Mouths on Fire with Songs shows that multi ethnic drama is one of the most diverse and dynamic sites of cultural production in North America today
