The Peace Palace Arthur Eyffinger,1992     Japan in the World Klaus Schlichtmann,2009-06-16 The twentieth century is as remarkable for its world wars as it is for its efforts to outlaw war in international and constitutional law and politics Japan in the World examines some of these efforts through the life and work of Shidehara Kijuro who was active as diplomat and statesman between 1896 until his death in 1951 Shidehara is seen as a guiding thread running through the first five decades of the twentieth century Through the 1920s until the beginning of the 1930s his foreign policy shaped Japan's place within the community of nations The positive role Japan played in international relations and the high esteem in which it was held at that time goes largely to his credit As Prime Minister and man of the hour after the Second World War he had a hand in shaping the new beginning for post war Japan instituting policies that would start his country on a path to peace and prosperity Accessing previously unpublished archival materials Schlichtmann examines the work of this pacifist statesman situating Shidehara within the context of twentieth century statecraft and international politics While it was an age of devastating total wars that took a vast toll of civilian lives the politics and diplomatic history between 1899 and 1949 also saw the light of new developments in international and constitutional law to curtail state sovereignty and reach a peaceful order of international affairs Japan in the World is an essential resource for understanding that nation's contributions to these world changing developments     The Law and Practice of the International Court, 1920-1996 Shabtai

International Law's Objects Jessie Hohmann, Daniel Joyce, 2018-12-20 International law's rich existence in the world can be illuminated by its objects International law is often developed conveyed and authorized through its objects and/or their representation From the symbolic the regalia of the head of state and the symbols of sovereignty to the mundane a can of dolphin safe tuna certified as complying with international trade standards international legal authority can be found in the objects around us Similarly the practice of international law often relies on material objects or their image both as evidence satellite images bones of the victims of mass atrocities and to found authority for instance maps and charts This volume considers these questions firstly what might the study of international law through objects reveal What might objects rather than texts tell us about sources recognition of states construction of territory law of the sea or international human rights law

Secondly what might this scholarly undertaking reveal about the objects as aims or projects of international law How do objects reveal or perhaps mask these aims and what does this tell us about the reasons some physical or material objects are foregrounded and others hidden or ignored Thirdly what objects icons and symbols preoccupy the profession and academy The personal selection of these objects by leading and emerging scholars worldwide will illuminate the contemporary and historical fascinations of international lawyers As a result the volume will be an important artefact itself an object in its own right capturing the mood of international law in a given moment and providing opportunity for reflection on these preoccupations By considering international law in the context of its material culture the authors offer a new theoretical perspective on the subject
