Alasuutari, 2025-01-10 Countries all over the world make decisions of national and international importance in a national parliament Today for a country to have a national parliament is a global norm but this has only been the case for the last few hundred years The development of this remarkable uniformity has seen national parliaments become a global institution National Parliaments as a Global Institution scrutinizes how the current world order comprising national legislatures evolved how parliaments work and how they form a global network or field for the transfer of ideas and information It highlights the remarkably similar structures and practices of national parliaments all around the world with even the opening words of a session replicating those of other parliaments and the four sacred principles that define national parliaments as an institution national sovereignty parliamentary immunity the national interest or common good and the sanctity of fellow parliamentarians By considering national parliaments as a global institution Pertti Alasuutari explores how legislatures symbolize sanctify and naturalize the nation state as the component part of world society The Emergence of International

International Law and History Ignacio de la Rasilla, 2021-01-21 This interdisciplinary exploration of the modern historiography of international law invites a diverse assessment of the indissoluble unity of the old and the new in the most global of all legal disciplines The study of the history of international law does not only serve a better understanding of how international law has evolved to become what it is and what it is not Its histories which rethink the past in the present also influence our perception of contemporary matters in international law and our understandings of how they may potentially unfold This multi perspectival enquiry into the dominant modes of international legal history and its fundamental debates may also help students of both international law and history to identify the historical approaches that best suit their international legal historical perspectives and best address their historical and legal research questions Inter-parliamentary Bulletin ,1993 A New World Order

Anne-Marie Slaughter,2009-02-09 Global governance is here but not where most people think This book presents the far reaching argument that not only should we have a new world order but that we already do Anne Marie Slaughter asks us to completely rethink how we view the political world It s not a collection of nation states that communicate through presidents prime ministers foreign ministers and the United Nations Nor is it a clique of NGOs It is governance through a complex global web of government networks Slaughter provides the most compelling and authoritative description to date of a world in which government officials police investigators financial regulators even judges and legislators exchange information and coordinate activity across national borders to tackle crime terrorism and the routine daily grind of international interactions National and international judges and regulators can also work closely together to enforce international agreements more effectively than ever before These networks which can range from a group of constitutional judges exchanging opinions across borders to more established organizations such as the G8 or the International Association of Insurance Supervisors make things happen and they frequently make good things happen But they are underappreciated and worse underused to address the challenges facing the world today The modern political world then consists of states whose component parts are fast becoming as important as their central leadership Slaughter not only describes these networks but also sets forth a blueprint for how they can better the world Despite questions of democratic accountability this new world order is not one in which some world government enforces global dictates The governments we already have at home are our best hope for tackling the problems we face abroad in a networked world order Parliamentary Institutions in Regional and International Governance Andrea Cofelice,2018-09-25 This volume offers an original and theoretically grounded conceptualization and measurement of international parliamentary institutions and their role in ensuring the accountability of regional international organizations Through a comparative analysis of the establishment evolution institutional organization oversight and policymaking functions of 22 parliamentary institutions mainly from European African and Latin American regional international organizations the book serves a twofold purpose First it allows assessment of the extent to which parliamentary institutions have measurable influence on the outcome of regional organizations decision making processes Second drawing on the literature on new institutionalism and comparative regionalism the volume investigates the conditions under which the influence of parliamentary institutions is expected to grow thus advancing the understanding of the variation and development of this poorly explored type of international institution The book is aimed at scholars of global governance international organization and comparative regionalism and will also be of interest to parliamentarians and parliamentary practitioners from national and international institutions Parliamentary Diplomacy in European and
