The Inner Eye Marina Warner, 1996 The Inner Eye Marina Warner, Hayward Gallery, 1996 Exhibition held at various locations 14 September 1996 1 June 1997 Beyond the Body Elizabeth Hallam, Jenny Hockey, Glennys Howarth, 2005-08-16 The authors challenge theories that put the body at the centre of identity going beyond the body to highlight the persistence of self identity even when the body itself has been disposed of or is missing Phantasmagoria Marina Warner, 2006 With over thirty illustrations in color and black and white Phantasmagoria takes readers on an intellectually exhilarating tour of ideas of spirit and soul in the modern world illuminating key questions of imagination and cognition Warner tells the unexpected and often disturbing story about shifts in thought about consciousness and the individual person from the first public waxworks portraits at the end of the eighteenth century to stories of hauntings possession and loss of self in modern times She probes the perceived distinctions between fantasy and deception and uncovers a host of spirit forms angels ghosts fairies revenants and zombies that are still actively present in contemporary culture The Melancholy Android Eric G. Wilson, 2012-02-01 The Melancholy Android is a psychological study of the impulses behind the creation of androids Exploring three imaginative figures the mummy the golem and the automaton and their appearances in myth religion literature and film Eric G Wilson tracks the development of android building and examines the lure of artificial doubles untroubled by awareness of self Drawing from the works of philosophers Ficino Kleist Freud and Jung writers Goethe Coleridge Shelley and Poe and movies such as Metropolis The Mummy and Blade Runner this book not only offers a range of sites from which to analyze the relationship between mind and machine but also considers a pressing paradoxical dilemma loving machines we want to hate Structure Wendy Pullan, Harshad Bhadesia, 2000-10-12 Bridges and buildings DNA the periodic table flora and fauna machines circuits human beings and the societies of which they are part even thoughts and ideas all can be understood as particular structures which are part of our world and our experience of it Yet the notion of structure whether organic or inorganic natural or artificial is far more intangible Too often the implication is of something rigid and complete yet structure and the process of structuring can be both open and dynamic These eight essays consider structure as an inclusive open ended theme offering itself to interpretation within many disciplines of the sciences arts and humanities Each essay represents an attempt to ponder and assess the role of structure in a particular discipline by an author eminent in that field In doing so the essays become acts of structuring structure true to the rich dynamic nature of the topic The Romare Bearden Reader Robert G. O'Meally, 2019-06-14 The Romare Bearden Reader brings together a collection of new essays and canonical writings by novelists poets historians critics and playwrights The contributors who include Toni Morrison Ralph Ellison August Wilson Farah Jasmine Griffin and Kobena Mercer contextualize Bearden's life and career within the history of modern art examine the influence of jazz and literature on his work trace his impact on twentieth century African American culture and outline his art's political dimensions Others focus on specific

Fantastic Metamorphoses, Other Worlds Marina Warner, 2004-02-05 Metamorphosis is a dynamic principle of creation vital to natural processes of generation and evolution, growth and decay, yet it also threatens personal identity if human beings are subject to a continual process of bodily transformation. Shape-shifting also belongs in the landscape of magic, witchcraft, and wonder and enlivens classical mythology, early modern fairy tales, and uncanny fictions of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. This collection of essays, given as the Clarendon Lectures in English 2001, takes four dominant processes of metamorphosis: Mutating, Hatching, Splitting, and Doubling, and explores their metaphorical power in the evocation of human personality. Marina Warner traces this story against a background of historical encounters with different cultures, especially with the Caribbean. Beginning with Ovid's great poem The Metamorphoses as the founding text of the metamorphic tradition, she takes us on a journey of exploration into the fantastic art of Hieronymus Bosch, the legends of the Taino people, the life cycle of the butterfly, the myth of Leda and the Swan, the genealogy of the Zombie, the pantomime of Aladdin, the haunting of doppelgangers, the coming of photography, and the late fiction of Lewis Carroll.

Death, Memory and Material Culture Elizabeth Hallam, Jenny Hockey, 2020-05-26 How do the living maintain ongoing relationships with the dead in Western societies? How have the residual belongings of the dead been used to evoke memories? Why has the body and its material environment remained so important in memory-making? Objects, images, practices, and places remind us of the deaths of others and of our own mortality. At the time of death, embodied persons disappear from view; their relationships with others come under threat, and their influence may cease. Emotionally, socially, politically, much is at stake at the time of death. In this context, memories and memory-making can be highly charged and often provide the dead with a social presence amongst the living. Memories of the dead are a bulwark against the terror of forgetting, as well as an inescapable outcome of a life's ending. Objects in attics, gardens, museums, streets, and cemeteries can tell us much about the processes of remembering. This unusual and absorbing book develops perspectives in anthropology and cultural history to reveal the importance of material objects in experiences of grief, mourning, and memorializing. Far from being invisible, the authors show how past generations' dead friends and lovers remain manifest through well-worn garments, letters, photographs, flowers, residual drops of perfume, funerary sculpture. Tracing the rituals, gestures, and materials that have been used to shape and preserve memories of personal loss, Hallam and

Hockey show how material culture provides the deceased with a powerful presence within the here and now The Arts Therapies Phil Jones, 2020-07-28 The separate arts therapies drama art music and dance are becoming available to increasing numbers of clients as mental health professionals discover their potential to reach and help people But what are the arts therapies and what do they offer clients This fully updated new edition of The Arts Therapies provides in one volume a guide to the different disciplines and their current practice and thinking in different parts of the world Each chapter draws on a variety of perspectives and accounts to develop understandings of the relations between theory research and practice offering perspectives on areas such as the client therapist art form relationship or on outcomes and efficacy to help articulate and understand what the arts therapies can offer specific client groups This new edition features Focus on Research highlights from music therapy art therapy dramatherapy and dance movement therapy which offer interviews with researchers in China Africa South America Australia Europe and North America exploring significant pieces of enquiry undertaken within recent years This comprehensive overview will be an essential text for students and practitioners of the arts therapies It is international in scope fully up to date with innovations in the field and will be relevant to new practitioners and those looking to deepen their understanding
