

The background of the cover features a close-up, slightly blurred photograph of several old, thick books stacked on a surface. In the foreground, a sepia-toned photograph with a white border is partially visible, showing a dark, indistinct subject. The overall lighting is soft and warm, emphasizing the textures of the paper and the aged appearance of the items.

Since 1898 I have been in the habit of taking notes of passages about Place in the writings of his contemporaries On going through those notes I do not find much that would add to or modify the picture of him which I have given in the biography
