Worlds at War Anthony Pagden, 2009-07-16 The differences that divide West from East go deeper than politics deeper than religion argues Anthony Pagden To understand this volatile relationship and how it has played out over the centuries we need to go back before the Crusades before the birth of Islam before the birth of Christianity to the fifth century BCE Europe was born out of Asia and for centuries the two shared a single history But when the Persian emperor Xerxes tried to conquer Greece a struggle began which has never ceased This book tells the story of that long conflict First Alexander the Great and then the Romans tried to unite Europe and Asia into a single civilization With the conversion of the West to Christianity and much of the East to Islam a bitter war broke out between two universal religions each claiming world dominance By the seventeenth century with the decline of the Church the contest had shifted from religion to philosophy the West's scientific rationality in contrast to those sought ultimate guidance in the words of God The eighteenth and nineteenth centuries witnessed the disintegration of the great Muslim empires the Ottoman the Mughal and the Safavid in Iran and the increasing Western domination of the whole of Asia The resultant attempt to mix Islam and Western modernism sparked off a struggle in the Islamic world between reformers and traditionalists which persists to this day The wars between East and West have not only been the longest and most costly in human history they have also formed the West's vision of itself as independent free secular and now democratic They have shaped and continue to shape the nature of the modern world

The Making of the First World War Ian F. W. Beckett, 2012-11-15 Nearly a century has passed since the assassination of Austria Hungary's Archduke Ferdinand yet the repercussions of the devastating global conflict that followed echo still In this provocative book historian Ian Beckett turns the spotlight on twelve particular events of the First World War that continue to shape the world today Focusing on episodes both well known and scarcely remembered Beckett tells the story of the Great War from a new perspective stressing accident as much as strategy the small as well as the great the social as well as the military and the long term as much as the short term The Making of the First World War is global in scope The book travels from the deliberately flooded fields of Belgium to the picture palaces of Britain's cinema from the idealism of Wilson's Washington to the catastrophic German Lys offensive of 1918 While war is itself an agent of change Beckett shows the most significant developments occur not only on the battlefields or in the corridors of power but also in hearts and minds Nor may the decisive turning points during years of conflict be those that were thought to be so at the time With its wide reach and unexpected conclusions this book revises and expands our understanding of the legacy of the First World War The Contest and Control of Jerusalem's Holy Sites Marshall J. Breger, Leonard M. Hammer, 2023-08-17 The Holy Places of Jerusalem's Old City are among the most contested sites in the world and the ground zero of the Israeli Palestinian conflict. Tensions regarding control are rooted in misperceptions over the status of the sites, the role of external bodies such as religious organizations and civil society, and misunderstanding regarding the political roles of the many actors associated with the sites. In this volume, Marshall J. Breger and Leonard M. Hammer clarify a complex and fraught situation by providing insight into the laws and rules pertaining to Jerusalem's holy sites. Providing a compendium of important legal sources and broad form policy analysis, they show how laws pertaining to Holy Places have been implemented and engaged. The book weaves aspects of history, politics, and religion that have played a role in creation and identification of the law. It also offers solutions for solving some of the central challenges related to the creation, control, and use of Holy Places in Jerusalem.

An Arabian Diary Gilbert Clayton, 2022-04-29 This personal diary of six months of diplomacy and travel in Arabia represents an impressive document to the quiet ability and resourcefulness of one of Great Britain's leading officials in the Middle East in the 1920s. The sudden expansion of the Arabian Sultanate of Najd under the leadership of Abd al Aziz ibn Saud after the First World War presented a clear danger to British interests in the Middle East and threatened the strategically important Arabian corridor to India. To resolve this project, the British government selected Sir Gilbert Clayton as their envoy to negotiate a settlement of differences and to determine the frontier between Saudi Arabia and the British Mandates of Trans Jordan and Iraq. Sir Gilbert Falkingham Clayton (1875-1929) was a quiet, able soldier, administrator, and diplomat who had come out to the Middle East during the reconquest of the Sudan and remained as a political officer in the Sudan, service secretary to the Governor General of the Sudan, Sir Reginald Wingate, and finally the Sudan agent at Cairo. At the outbreak of the First World War, Clayton served as the director of Military Intelligence and forged that remarkable intelligence team which included among others Leonard Woolley, George Lloyd, and T. E. Lawrence. Experience and resourceful Clayton was an obvious choice to travel to the tents of Ibn Saud where, in the autumn of 1925, he negotiated the Bahra and Hadda Agreements fixing the frontiers of Saudi Arabia with Trans Jordan and Iraq and cementing friendship between Britain and Ibn Saud. These results represent a brilliant triumph of personal diplomacy which protected British interests and inaugurated the lifelong friendship between Sir Gilbert and Ibn Saud. The story of these negotiations and Sir Gilbert's subsequent mission to the Imam of Yemen as the first official representative of the British government to visit San'a are told in this valuable historical diary.
