The Mexican Urban Household Organizing For Self Defense:

The Mexican Urban Household Henry A. Selby, Arthur D. Murphy, Stephen A. Lorenzen, 2014-05-23 The sufferings of ordinary people under harsh economic conditions can eventually lead to the fall of governments Given this fact it becomes important to know how ordinary people live what privations they suffer and what strategies they use to survive in times of economic crisis The Mexican Urban Household provides this information for Mexico near the end of the twentieth century Mexico is now a predominantly urban nation and this study is the definitive work on the strategies of self defense of its urban households It is based on surveys of nearly 10 000 households conducted during twenty years of field work in five very different cities with the help of a staff of more than twenty Mexican social scientists engineers architects and social workers Far from being a compilation of undigested statistics however The Mexican Urban Household uses its rich data to vividly reveal how Mexican families use their every resource to defend themselves against a political and economic system that overwhelms and exploits them It describes how families band together sometimes with three generations in one small house to minimize expenses and pool resources It explores the limited range of available jobs from secure but scarce bureaucratic positions to more common and less reliable jobs in blue collar industries and the informal economy And most important it traces the high cost to families particularly to women of the endless struggle to make ends meet These important findings outline the dimensions of the economic crisis for ordinary Mexicans It will be crucial reading not only for everyone interested in the future of Mexico but also for students of development throughout the Third World
