

A surreal landscape painting. In the foreground, there are green hills with small pink and white flowers. A row of tall, dark green cypress trees stands in the middle ground. In the background, a small town with red-roofed buildings is visible on a hill. The sky is a vibrant mix of pink, purple, and blue, with a large, swirling face of a person with closed eyes and a slight smile. The overall style is dreamlike and expressive.

Introduction to Criminology Pamela J. Schram, Stephen G. Tibbetts, 2017-02-13

Introduction to Criminology: Why Do They Do It Second Edition by Pamela J. Schram, Stephen G. Tibbetts offers a contemporary and integrated discussion of the key theories that help us understand crime in the 21st century. With a focus on why offenders commit crimes, this bestseller skillfully engages students with real-world cases and examples to help students explore the fundamentals of criminology. To better align with how instructors actually teach this course, coverage of violent and property crimes has been integrated into the theory chapters so students can clearly understand the application of theory to criminal behavior. Unlike other introductory criminology textbooks, the Second Edition discusses issues of diversity in each chapter and covers many contemporary topics that are not well represented in other texts, such as feminist criminology, cybercrime, hate crimes, white-collar crime, homeland security, and identity theft. Transnational comparisons regarding crime rates and the methods other countries use to deal with crime make this edition the most universal to date and a perfect companion for those wanting to learn about criminology in context. United States. Congress. House. Committee on Science and Technology (2007). Subcommittee on Technology and Innovation, 2007. Historiographies of Philosophy 1800-1950 Mogens Lærke, Leo Catana, 2023-09-12. This volume discusses ways in which the history of philosophy has been written from 1800 to 1950 and how it has been informed and guided by institutional, cultural, political, philosophical, and non-philosophical factors. Since its inception as a discipline, histories of philosophy have been written in different ways depending on author, place, and time; they have varied according to institutional frameworks, cultural settings, and philosophical and non-philosophical contexts. At each stage of the discipline's development and evolution, philosophy has constantly used the history of philosophy for its own purposes by adapting it, transforming it, rejecting it, embracing it, and rewriting it at every step of the way. The chapters in this book examine the methods deployed by historians of philosophy, epistemological foundations laid down for those methods, and the philosophical or non-philosophical aims pursued using those methods. This book will be a great resource for academics, researchers, and advanced students of philosophy and related fields, including political philosophy and history of philosophy. It was originally published as a special issue of the British Journal for the History of Philosophy.
