Sociomedia Multimedia Hypermedia And The Social Construction Of Digital Communication

George P. Landow

Sociomedia Multimedia Hypermedia And The Social Construction Of Digital Communication:

Sociomedia Edward Barrett, 1992 Sociomedia continues the assessment of hypertext and hypermedia systems begun in Text ConText and HyperText and The Society of Text. It examines the use of integrated multimedia to support social or collaborative research learning and instruction in the university, one of the best environments for developing and analyzing the effects of computing technologies on our understanding of complex sets of information. The twenty-five contributions discuss critical design issues in the creation of advanced multimedia computing technologies, describe the systems now in use, and assess the effectiveness of this emerging technology. Barrett's opening essay further explores his original and thought-provoking application of social construction theories of knowledge to the development and analysis of multimedia systems. Some of the chapters that follow look at the effectiveness of particular multimedia systems across the curriculum, from medicine, sociology, and management to language learning, writing, literature, and intergenerational studies. Other chapters examine the implied pedagogy within these systems or the effects of using multimedia and hypermedia in the classroom. Readers should come away from this collection with a critical stance toward the use of integrated media for information retrieval and creation, as well as an informed knowledge of the kinds of multimedia systems in development or use. Developers will be able to use this collection to gain insight into the kinds of design choices others have made and their effectiveness in practice. Edward Barrett is Senior Lecturer in the Writing Program at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Peter Ludlow, 2001-05-25 A wide-ranging collection of writings on emerging political structures in cyberspace. In Crypto Anarchy, Cyberstates, and Pirate Utopias, Peter Ludlow extends the approach he used so successfully in High Noon on the Electronic Frontier, offering a collection of writings that reflects the eclectic nature of the online world as well as its tremendous energy and creativity. This time the subject is the emergence of governance structures within online communities and the visions of political sovereignty shaping some of those communities. Ludlow views virtual communities as laboratories for conducting experiments in the construction of new societies and governance structures. While many online experiments will fail, Ludlow argues that given the synergy of the online world, new and superior governance structures may emerge. Indeed, utopian visions are not out of place provided that we understand the new utopias to be fleeting, localized islands in the Net, and not permanent institutions. The book is organized in five sections. The first section considers the sovereignty of the Internet. The second section asks how widespread access to resources such as Pretty Good Privacy and anonymous remailers allows the possibility of Crypto Anarchy, essentially carving out space for activities that lie outside the purview of nation states and other traditional powers. The third section shows how the growth of e commerce is raising questions of legal jurisdiction and taxation for which the geographic boundaries of nation states are obsolete The fourth section looks at specific experimental governance structures evolved by online communities The fifth section considers utopian and anti utopian visions for cyberspace Contributors Richard Barbrook John Perry Barlow William E Baugh Jr David S Benaum Hakim Bey David Brin Andy Cameron Dorothy E Denning Mark Dery Kevin Doyle Duncan Frissell Eric Hughes Karrie Jacobs David Johnson Peter Ludlow Timothy C May Jennifer L Mnookin Nathan Newman David G Post Jediah S Purdy Charles J Stivale The MIT Guide to Teaching Web Site Design Edward Barrett, Deborah A.
