European Union Committee,2005 Despite a decline in traditional rail freight markets especially coal and steel and loss of market share to other modes the overall growth in freight in recent years has allowed rail freight to maintain its volume The Commission has introduced three packages of directives to stimulate further growth in this market the first should have been implemented in the 15 member states the second is to be implemented by 2005 and the third is yet to be adopted This report reviews the background to the packages and offers a provisional analysis of their effect so far The quality of service offered to customers of rail freight movement in Europe falls seriously short of standards required in a competitive environment Liberalisation of the UK market since 1994 has however resulted in better performance and a growing market share for rail freight The Committee has reservations about some parts of the third package of directives particularly the proposal to require all train drivers to hold an international rail driving licence and the proposal for compulsory compensation to rail freight customers for poor quality service The report also examines problems with the Channel Tunnel the only direct rail link between the UK and mainland Europe      High Speed Trains 2015 - Europe and North America John Mckey,2015-11-28 Welcome to the world of true high speed train or Europe and North America In this book you will find most important high speed train families both newest and some classics Of many subjects by this version the information available has become quite extensive You will also get clear definition on high speed rail and super high speed rail along with basic train formations and high speed line considerations Always at the focus is service view why the service is important to its customers how did it evolve and what the future might look like For each train type chapter starts with overview accompanied with recognition guide This is followed by detailed technical information train background and what the near future will look like Lots of quality pictures from many photographers are also provided of each train Different paint schemes
