Something In Common Contemporary Louisiana Stories:

Something in Common Ann Brewster Dobie, 1991-03-01 The nineteen stories that this memorable collection comprises are a powerful testament to the continuing vitality of the literary tradition in Louisiana. Something in Common includes work by such well known Louisiana writers as Walker Percy, Ernest Gaines, Shirley Ann Grau and Andr  Dubus, as well as stories by younger writers whose reputations are still being established. Together the stories provide a remarkable record of the vigor of fiction in Louisiana as the twentieth century draws to a close. Though contemporary, these stories are a result of the habit of telling tales that goes back to the earliest days of the state's history. They come from writers who may now live in Maine or California but who remember that our stories become a mirror in which we can see ourselves and know who we are and where we have come from. The stories have in common a fundamental belief in the power of the written word to define a particular place and time. They testify to the rich culture of the past when Louisiana's ways set it apart and to present that is pulling the state to be part of social forces once foreign to its ways. They reveal a society of several races and many histories with fading definitions of traditional roles and changing family patterns. Additionally, these stories depict the changes brought on by merging the old with the new. They rehearse the familiar themes of good, evil, freedom and reality with a voice not heard in the Louisiana of the past. To establish tradition, they bring a fresh point of view. Something in Common remembers the past, shows us the present and points the way to the future.

Although the short story has existed in various forms for centuries, it has particularly flourished during the last hundred years. Reader's Companion to the Short Story in English includes alphabetically arranged entries for 50 English language short story writers from around the world. Most of these writers have been active since 1960 and they reflect a wide range of experiences and perspectives in their works.
