Lewis, 2006-01-01 When we were children we made our own fun is a frequent comment from those who were children in pre television times But what games activities and amusements did children enjoy prior to the mid 1950s Recollections of older Canadians selections from writings by Canadian authors and letters written to the children's pages of agricultural publications indicate that for most children play was then as now an essential part of childhood Through play youngsters developed the physical mental and emotional skills that helped them cope with life and taught them to get along with other children In both rural and urban settings children were generally free to explore their environment They were sent outdoors to play by both parents and teachers Their games were generally self organized and physically active with domestic animals acting as important companions and playmates Children frequently made their own toys and equipment and since playing rather than winning was important most children were included in games Special days holidays and organizations for children and youth provided welcome breaks from daily routines Their lives were busy but

In this regard the study confirmed that the 62% of the ODA that could not be accounted for according to existing literature was either held up in the pipeline or evaporates mostly from the supply side This finding brought clarity on the weak impact of ODA and corroborated with existing literature on the mystery of unaccounted ODA While the notion of aid evaporation emerged as an attribution and part of a reflection on the problem of ODA dissipation at the preliminary stage of the literature review it became the central issue of focus throughout the research investigation which involved substantive field work to bring clarity on the problem The study has made theoretical and practical contributions to the existing concepts on ODA governance and proposed a new concept namely the Supply Baggage Concept The new concept should inform the Post Paris era in achieving Aid effectiveness by weding out Evaporation using the Aid Evaporation Detection Framework proposed in this book The Films of Alain Robbe-Grillet Roy Armes, 1981-01-01 Alain Robbe Grillet 1922 2008 was a French writer and filmmaker His first involvement with the cinema was in the early 1960 s scripting one of the most controversial films of the decade L Ann e derni re Marienbad directed by Alain Resnais In this study the focus lies on the cinema of Robbe Grillet Each chapters deals with a specific film and a specific aspect of his work
