Song Full Of Tears Nine Centuries Of Chinese Life Around Xiang Lake:

Song Full Of Tears R. Keith Schoppa, Keith Schoppa, 2009-09-09 Combining evocative historical description and cogent analysis Song Full of Tears is a chronicle of nine hundred years of life in southeast China It reveals the workings of Chinese society in times of environmental and military crises how the Chinese reacted to changes threats and opportunities and how they dealt with one another and the world of nature and the environment Until the 18th century Xiang Lake in the province of Zhejiang was the stage for morality battles between loyalty and betrayal chastity and impurity civic virtue and private greed After the 18th century concerns about ecology public rights and technology emerged as elements in the struggle and in the 20th century the fate of the lake became linked to national political developments and then to technological and ecological realities Song Full of Tears shows how Chinese views of life society and nature both changed and remained constant through the centuries The paperback will include a new epilogue by the author Yangzi Waters: Transforming the Water Regime of the Jiangnan Plain in Late Imperial China Yan Gao, 2022-01-17 This book centers on the changes of polders and investigates the complex hydro social relationships of the Jiangnan Plain in late imperial China Once a hydraulic frontier where local communities managed the polders the Jiangnan Plain became a state led hydro electric powerhouse by the mid twentieth century Through meticulous historical analysis this book shows how water politics cultural practice and ecology interplayed and transformed the landscape and waterscape of the plain from a long term perspective By touching on topics such as religious beliefs ethnic tension and militarization the author reveals a plain in between nature and culture that has never been fully examined before A Companion to Chinese History Michael Szonyi, 2017-02-06 A Companion to Chinese History presents a collection of essays offering a comprehensive overview of the latest intellectual developments in the study of China's history from the ancient past up until the present day Covers the major trends in the study of Chinese history from antiquity to the present day Considers the latest scholarship of historians working in China and around the world Explores a variety of long range questions and themes which serves to bridge the conventional divide between China's traditional and modern eras Addresses China's connections with other nations and regions and enables non specialists to make comparisons with their own fields Features discussion of traditional topics and chronological approaches as well as newer themes such as Chinese history in relation to sexuality national identity and the environment Fir and Empire Ian M. Miller, 2020-06-30 A CHOICE OUTSTANDING ACADEMIC TITLE Restores China's place in forest history The disappearance of China's naturally occurring forests is one of the most significant environmental shifts in the country's history one often blamed on imperial demand for lumber China's early modern forest history is typically viewed as a centuries long process of environmental decline culminating in a nineteenth century social and ecological crisis Pushing back against this narrative of deforestation Ian Miller charts the rise of timber plantations between about 1000 and 1700 when natural forests were replaced with anthropogenic ones Miller demonstrates that this form of forest management generally rested on private ownership under relatively distant state oversight and taxation He further draws on in depth case studies of shipbuilding and imperial logging to argue that this novel landscape was not created through simple extractive pressures but by attempts to incorporate institutional and ecological complexity into a unified imperial state Miller uses the emergence of anthropogenic forests in south China to rethink both temporal and spatial frameworks for Chinese history and the nature of Chinese empire Because dominant European forestry models do not neatly overlap with the non Western world China s history is often left out of global conversations about them Miller s work rectifies this omission and suggests that in some ways China s forest system may have worked better than the more familiar European institutions The open access publication of this book was made possible by a grant from the James P Geiss and Margaret Y Hsu Foundation

Food and Environment in Early and Medieval China E. N. Anderson, 2014-11-04 Chinese food is one of the most recognizable and widely consumed cuisines in the world Almost no town on earth is without a Chinese restaurant of some kind and Chinese canned frozen and preserved foods are available in shops from Nairobi to Quito But the particulars of Chinese cuisine vary widely from place to place as its major ingredients and techniques have been adapted to local agriculture and taste profiles To trace the roots of Chinese foodways one must look back to traditional food systems before the early days of globalization Food and Environment in Early and Medieval China traces the development of the food systems that coincided with China s emergence as an empire Before extensive trade and cultural exchange with Europe was established Chinese farmers and agriculturalists developed systems that used resources in sustainable and efficient ways permitting intensive and productive techniques to survive over millennia Fields gardens semiwild lands managed forests and specialized agricultural landscapes all became part of an integrated network that produced maximum nutrients with minimal input though not without some environmental cost E N Anderson examines premodern China s vast active network of trade and contact such as the routes from Central Asia to Eurasia and the slow introduction of Western foods and medicines under the Mongol Empire Bringing together a number of new findings from archaeology history and field studies of environmental management Food and Environment in Early and Medieval China provides an updated picture of language relationships cultural innovations and intercultural exchanges

The SAGE Handbook of Contemporary China Weiping Wu, Mark Frazier, 2018-07-09 The study of contemporary China constitutes a fascinating yet challenging area of scholarly inquiry Recent decades have brought dramatic changes to China s economy society and governance Analyzing such changes in the context of multiple disciplinary perspectives offers opportunities as well as challenges for scholars in the field known as contemporary China Studies The SAGE Handbook of Contemporary China is a two volume exploration of the transformations of contemporary China firmly grounded in the both disciplinary and China specific contexts Drawing on a range of scholarly approaches found in the social sciences and history an international team of contributors engage with the question of what a rapidly changing China means for the broader field of contemporary China studies and identify areas of promising future research Part 1 Context History Economy and the 21st century A historically Tibetan region on the eastern edge of the Tibetan Plateau with significant Han and Muslim Chinese populations Songpan played important roles in the development of western and modern China's ethnic relations policies forestry sector grasslands and environmental conservation and recent developments in eco and ethnic tourism as part of various Chinese states However in spite of close associations with various Tibetan and Chinese regimes the region also has a rich history of local independence and resilient nomadic semi nomadic and agricultural populations and identities The Sino Tibetan diversity in Songpan partly formed by unique ecological conditions conditioned all attempts to incorporate the region into larger and more centralized state homogenizing structures This historical study analyzes the social force of markets and nature in the Songpan region in concert with the political and social conflicts and compromise at the heart of changing political regimes and the area's ethnic groups It presents new perspectives on the social transformation and economies of Tibetans and Han Chinese from the late Qing Dynasty to Mao era and contemporary western China It not only allows for a new understanding of how the natural environment and landscapes fit into the imagination of the Sino Tibetan borderlands it also figures in the challenges of negotiating ethnic and market relations among societies The mix of complicated relations over natural environment resources politics and markets was at the heart of the region's social and political infrastructures with far reaching implications for both historical and contemporary China

Men of Letters within the Passes Chang Woei Ong, 2020-03-17 The main theme of this book is the interaction between two places China and Guanzhong the capital area of several dynasties It addresses such questions as What do we mean by local Did the inhabitants of a locality believe that being local required them to assume a certain identity If so how did they talk and write about it Were there spatial and temporal differences in the representation of locales This work examines how Guanzhong literati conceptualized three sets of relations central regional official unofficial and national local It further traces the formation over the last millennium of the imperial state of a critical communal self consciousness the role of this consciousness in constructing a local identity and promoting an unofficial space for unofficial elite activism and the effect of the presence or absence of this consciousness on literati views of central regional relationships The issue here is not whether there can be a shared national culture but whether this culture can be perceived as having regional variations and therefore contributing to the formation of a local identity

The Wobbling Pivot, China since 1800 Pamela Kyle Crossley, 2010-01-28 This comprehensive but concise narrative of China since the eighteenth century builds its story around the delicate relationship between central government and local communities Rejects the traditional view of China as a wholly harmonious society based on principles of stability the Unwobbling Pivot of Ezra Pound's translation of the Chinese classic Zhongyong Provides an original interpretation arguing that developments can be explained through an understanding of China's surprising swings between centralization and decentralization between local initiative and central authoritarianism Serves as an introduction to the subject while readers with a background in Chinese history will find the book offers a personal perspective and addresses long standing interpretive issues Supported by a variety of timelines maps illustrations and extensive notes for further reading Places China s history within the context of global change      Cherishing Antiquity Olivia Milburn,2020-10-26 Cherishing Antiquity describes the commemoration within Chinese literature and culture of the southern kingdom of Wu which collapsed in 473 BCE The sudden rise and tragic fall of Wu within the space of just over one century would inspire numerous memorials in and around the city of Suzhou once the capital of this ancient kingdom A variety of physical structures including temples shrines steles and other monuments were erected in memory of key figures in the kingdom s history These sites inspired further literary representations in poetry and prose musings on the exoticism glamour great wealth and hideous end of the last king of Wu Through an analysis first of the history of Wu as recorded in ancient Chinese texts and then of its literary legacy Olivia Milburn illuminates the remarkable cultural endurance of this powerful but short lived kingdom      The Profits of Nature Peter B. Lavelle,2020-03-03 In the nineteenth century the Qing empire experienced a period of profound turmoil caused by an unprecedented conjunction of natural disasters domestic rebellions and foreign incursions The imperial government responded to these calamities by introducing an array of new policies and institutions to bolster its power across its massive territories In the process Qing officials launched campaigns for natural resource development seeking to take advantage of the unexploited lands waters and minerals of the empire s vast hinterlands and borderlands In this book Peter B Lavelle uses the life and career of Chinese statesman Zuo Zongtang 1812 1885 as a lens to explore the environmental history of this era Although known for his pacification campaigns against rebel movements Zuo was at the forefront of the nineteenth century quest for natural resources Influenced by his knowledge of nature geography and technology he created government bureaus and oversaw state funded projects to improve agriculture sericulture and other industries in territories across the empire His work forged new patterns of colonial development in the Qing empire s northwest borderlands including Xinjiang at a time when other empires were scrambling to secure access to resources around the globe Weaving a narrative across the span of Zuo s lifetime The Profits of Nature offers a unique approach to understanding the dynamic relationship among social crises colonialism and the natural world during a critical juncture in Chinese history between the high tide of imperial power in the eighteenth century and the challenges of modern state building in the twentieth century      The Glory of Yue Olivia Milburn,2010-01-28 The Glory of Yue is the first translation into any Western language of the Yuejue shu a collection of essays on history literature religion architecture economic thought military science and philosophy related to the ancient kingdoms of Wu and Yue in present day eastern China This book consists of sixteen chapters together with three additional chapters of explanation written by the compilers in approximately 25 CE This translation is presented with copious annotations and explanations linking the concepts discussed with the development of the mainstream Chinese cultural tradition and draws on both modern Western and Chinese exegesis as well as archeological discoveries to elucidate this highly complex and unjustly neglected text

Environmental Law in China Charles R. McElwee, 2011 Environmental Law in China Managing Risk and Ensuring Compliance is the most comprehensive up to date account of China's environmental laws and regulations This book is a practical guide for foreign invested businesses aiming to maintain compliance throughout their various areas of operation It is also useful to academics and organizations attempting to understand China's complex system of law on the environment

Fishing Wars and Environmental Change in Late Imperial and Modern China Micah S. Muscolino, 2020-03-17 Among the environmental challenges facing us is alleviating the damage to marine ecosystems caused by pollution and overfishing Coming to grips with contemporary problems this book argues depends on understanding how people have historically generated perceived and responded to environmental change This work explores interactions between society and environment in China's most important marine fishery the Zhoushan Archipelago off the coast of Zhejiang and Jiangsu from its nineteenth century expansion to the exhaustion of the most important fish species in the 1970s This history of Zhoushan's fisheries illuminates long term environmental processes and analyzes the intersections of local regional and transnational ecological trends and the array of private and state interests that shaped struggles for the control of these common pool natural resources What institutions did private and state actors use to regulate the use of the fishery How did relationships between social organizations and the state change over time What types of problems could these arrangements solve and which not What does the fate of these institutions tell us about environmental change in late imperial and modern China Answering these questions will give us a better understanding of the relationship between past ecological changes and present environmental challenges

Questioning Collapse Patricia A. McAnany, Norman Yoffee, 2009-09-28 Questioning Collapse challenges those scholars and popular writers who advance the thesis that societies past and present collapse because of behavior that destroyed their environments or because of overpopulation In a series of highly accessible and closely argued essays a team of internationally recognized scholars bring history and context to bear in their radically different analyses of iconic events such as the deforestation of Easter Island the cessation of the Norse colony in Greenland the faltering of nineteenth century China the migration of ancestral peoples away from Chaco Canyon in the American southwest the crisis and resilience of Lowland Maya kingship and other societies that purportedly collapsed Collectively these essays demonstrate that resilience in the face of societal crises rather than collapse is the leitmotif of the human story from the earliest civilizations to the present Scrutinizing the notion that Euro American colonial triumphs were an accident of geography Questioning Collapse also critically examines the complex historical relationship between race and political labels of societal success and failure
