Song Of Rita Joe Autobiography Of A Mikmaq Poet:

Song of Rita Joe Rita Joe, Lynn Henry, 1996-01-01 Here is the enlightening story of an esteemed and eloquent Mi kmaq woman whose message of gentle persuasion has enriched the life of a nation Rita Joe is celebrated as a poet an educator and an ambassador In 1989 she accepted the Order of Canada on behalf of native people across the nation In this spirit she tells her story and by her example illustrates the experiences of an entire generation of aboriginal women in Canada Song of Rita Joe is the story of Joe s remarkable life her education in an Indian residential school her turbulent marriage and the daily struggles within her family and community It is the story of how Joe s battles with racism sexism poverty and personal demons became the catalyst for her first poems and allowed her to reclaim her aboriginal heritage Today her story continues as she moves into old age Joe writes that her lifelong spiritual quest is ever deepening Song of Rita Joe Rita

Joe, 2011-10-15 Song of Rita Joe is a book of exceptional courage and insight the words of a gentle woman who fought for her family justice and her own independent voice She faced intolerance ignorance and abuse searched her inheritance for strength and wrote poems of clarity and encouragement that continue to inspire not only her people but all people Finally she was a humble woman an honoured Mi Kmaq elder poet and member of the Order of Canada Native Poetry in Canada Jeannette Armstrong, Lally Grauer, 2001-08-21 Native Poetry in Canada A Contemporary Anthology is the only collection of its kind It brings together the poetry of many authors whose work has not previously been published in book form alongside that of critically acclaimed poets thus offering a record of Native cultural revival as it emerged through poetry from the 1960s to the present The poets included here adapt English oratory and above all a sense of play Native Poetry in Canada suggests both a history of struggle to be heard and the wealth of Native cultures in Canada today From the Iron House Deena Rymhs, 2014-01-07 In From the Iron House Imprisonment in First Nations Writing Deena Rymhs identifies continuities between the residential school and the prison offering ways of reading the carceral that is the different ways that incarceration is constituted and articulated in contemporary Aboriginal literature Addressing the work of writers like Tomson Highway and Basil Johnston along with that of lesser known authors writing in prison serials and underground publications this book emphasizes the literary and political strategies these authors use to resist the containment of their institutions The first part of the book considers a diverse sample of writing from prison serials prisoners anthologies and individual autobiographies including Stolen Life by Rudy Wiebe and Yvonne Johnson to show how these works serve as second hearings for their authors an opportunity to respond to the law s authority over their personal and public identities while making a plea to a wider audience The second part looks at residential school narratives and shows how the authors construct identities for themselves in ways that defy the institution s control The interactions between these two bodies of writing residential school accounts and prison narratives invite recognition of the ways that guilt is colonially constructed and how these authors use their writing to distance themselves from that guilt Offering new ways of reading Native writing

From the Iron House is a pioneering study of prison literature in Canada and situates its readings within international criticism of prison writing Contributing to genre studies and theoretical understandings of life writing and covering a variety of social topics this work will be relevant to readers interested in indigenous studies Canadian cultural studies postcolonial studies auto biography studies law and public policy

Bitterroot Susan Devan Harness,2020-03-01 2019 High Plains Book Award Creative Nonfiction and Indigenous Writer categories 2021 Barbara Sudler Award from History Colorado In Bitterroot Susan Devan Harness traces her journey to understand the complexities and struggles of being an American Indian child adopted by a white couple and living in the rural American West When Harness was fifteen years old she questioned her adoptive father about her real parents He replied that they had died in a car accident not long after she was born except they hadn't as Harness would learn in a conversation with a social worker a few years later Harness's search for answers revolved around her need to ascertain why she was the target of racist remarks and why she seemed always to be on the outside Looking in New questions followed her through college and into her twenties when she started her own family Meeting her biological family in her early thirties generated even more questions In her forties Harness decided to get serious about finding answers when conducting oral histories she talked with other transracial adoptees In her fifties she realized that the concept of home she had attributed to the reservation existed only in her imagination Making sense of her family the American Indian history of assimilation and the very real but culturally constructed concept of race helped Harness answer the often puzzling questions of stereotypes a sense of nonbelonging the meaning of family and the importance of forgiveness and self acceptance In the process Bitterroot also provides a deep and rich context in which to experience life

Viet Cong at Wounded Knee Woody Kipp,2004-01-01 It was at Wounded Knee huddled under a night sky lit by military flares and the searchlights of armored carriers seeking him out that Vietnam vet Woody Kipp realized that he as an American Indian had become the enemy the Viet Cong to a country that he had defended with his life With candor bitter humor and biting insight this book tells the story of the long and tortuous trail that led Kipp from the Blackfeet Reservation of his birth to a terrible moment of reckoning on the plains of South Dakota Kipp's is a story of Native values and practices uneasily crossed with cowboy culture teenage angst and quintessentially American temptations and excesses As a boy Kipp was a passionate reader and basketball player always ready to brawl and already struggling with discrimination and alcoholism in his teens From his tour of Vietnam as a Marine to his troubled return from his hell raising as a violent womanizing hard drinking horse breaker to his consciousness raising as a college student and foot soldier in the American Indian Movement Kipp's memoir offers a unique firsthand view of the enduring power and the vulnerability of Blackfeet culture of the difficulties inherent in cross cultural understanding and of the urgent necessity of overcoming these difficulties if the essential heritage of Native America is to survive

I Tell You Now Brian Swann,Arnold Krupat,2005-01-01 I Tell You Now is an anthology of autobiographical accounts by eighteen notable Native writers of different ages tribes and areas This second edition features a new introduction by the editors and updated biographical sketches for each writer No One Ever Asked Me Hollis Dorion Stabler, 2005-01-01 As a young adolescent Hollis Dorion Stabler underwent a Native ceremony in which he was given the new name Na zhin thia Slow to Rise It was a name that no white person asked to know during Hollis's tour of duty in Anzio his unacknowledged difference as an Omaha Indian adding to the poignancy of his uneasy fellowship with foreign and American soldiers alike Stabler's story coming of age on the American plains going to war facing new estrangement upon coming home is a universal one rendered wonderfully strange and personal by Stabler's uncommon perspective which embraces two worlds and by his unique voice Stabler's experiences during World War II tours of duty in Tunisia and Morocco as well as Italy and France and the loss of his brother in battle are at the center of this powerful memoir which tells of growing up as an Omaha Indian in the small town Midwest of Nebraska Iowa Kansas and Oklahoma in the 1920s and 1930s A descendant of the Indians who negotiated with Lewis and Clark on the Missouri River Stabler describes a childhood that was a curious mixture of progressivism and Indian tradition and that culminated in his enlisting in the old horse cavalry when war broke out a path not so very different from that walked by his ancestors Victoria Smith of Cherokee Delaware descent interweaves historical insight with Stabler's vivid reminiscences providing a rich context for this singular life Life, Letters and

Speeches George Copway, 2006-04-01 George Copway Kahgegagahbowh 1818-69 an Ojibwe writer and lecturer rose to prominence in American literary political and social circles during the mid nineteenth century His colorful kaleidoscopic life took him from the tiny Ojibwe village of his youth to the halls of state legislatures throughout the eastern United States and eventually overseas Copway converted to Methodism as a teenager and traveled throughout the Midwest as a missionary becoming a forceful and energetic spokesperson for temperance and the rights and sovereignty of Indians lecturing to large crowds in the United States and Europe and founding a newspaper devoted to Native issues One of the first Native American autobiographies Life Letters and Speeches chronicles Copway's unique and often difficult cultural journey vividly portraying the freedom of his early childhood the dramatic moment of his spiritual awakening to Methodism the rewards and frustrations of missionary work his desperate race home to warn of a pending Sioux attack and the harrowing rescue of his son from drowning Rock, Ghost, Willow, Deer Allison Hedge Coke, 2004-01-01 A name creates life patterns Allison Adelle Hedge Coke writes which form and shape a life my life like my name must have been formed many times over then handed to me to realize Rock Ghost Willow Deer is Hedge Coke's narrative of that realization the award winning poet and writer's searching account of her life as a mixed blood woman coming of age off reservation yet deeply immersed in her Cherokee and Huron heritage In a style at once elliptical and achingly clear Hedge Coke describes her schizophrenic mother and the abuse that often overshadowed her childhood the torments visited upon her the rape and physical violence and those she inflicted on herself the alcohol and drug abuse Yet she managed to survive with her dreams and her will her sense of wonder and promise undiminished The title Rock Ghost Willow Deer refers to the life revelations that brought Hedge Coke through her trials the melding of language and experience that has brought order to her life In this book Hedge Coke shares the insights she has gathered along the way insights that touch on broader Native issues such as modern life in the diaspora the threat of alcohol drug abuse and violence and the ongoing onslaught on self amid a complex mixed heritage Magic Weapons Sam McKegney, 2007-11-30 The legacy of the residential school system ripples throughout Native Canada its fingerprints on the domestic violence poverty alcoholism drug abuse and suicide rates that continue to cripple many Native communities Magic Weapons is the first major survey of Indigenous writings on the residential school system and provides groundbreaking readings of life writings by Rita Joe Mi kmaq and Anthony Apakark Thrasher Inuit as well as in depth critical studies of better known life writings by Basil Johnston Ojibway and Tomson Highway Cree Magic Weapons examines the ways in which Indigenous survivors of residential school mobilize narrative in their struggles for personal and communal empowerment in the shadow of attempted cultural genocide By treating Indigenous life writings as carefully crafted aesthetic creations and interrogating their relationship to more overtly politicized historical discourses Sam McKegney argues that Indigenous life writings are culturally generative in ways that go beyond disclosure and recompense re envisioning what it means to live and write as Indigenous individuals in post residential school Canada Restoring the Balance Gail Guthrie Valaskakis, Eric Guimond, Madeleine Dion Stout, 2011-07-15 First Nations peoples believe the eagle flies with a female wing and a male wing showing the importance of balance between the feminine and the masculine in all aspects of individual and community experiences Centuries of colonization however have devalued the traditional roles of First Nations women causing a great gender imbalance that limits the abilities of men women and their communities in achieving self actualization Restoring the Balance brings to light the work First Nations women have performed and continue to perform in cultural continuity and community development It illustrates the challenges and successes they have had in the areas of law politics education community healing language and art while suggesting significant options for sustained improvement of individual family and community well being Written by fifteen Aboriginal scholars activists and community leaders Restoring the Balance combines life histories and biographical accounts with historical and critical analyses grounded in traditional thought and approaches It is a powerful and important book Writing the Everyday Danielle Fuller, 2004 In Writing the Everyday Danielle Fuller analyses writing by Atlantic Canadian women from diverse backgrounds Drawing extensively on original interviews with writers editors and publishers Fuller investigates how and why communities form around texts that record women s everyday realities histories and traditions showing that prose writing and poetry performances combine oral storytelling family history and other aspects of local cultures with popular literary genres to address issues of racism sexism and poverty Readings In American Indian Law Jo Carrillo, 1998 This selection of works many by Native American scholars introduces selected topics in federal Indian law Readings in American Indian Law covers contemporary issues of identity and tribal recognition reparations for historic harms the valuation of land in land claims the return to tribal owners of human remains sacred items and cultural property tribal governance and issues of gender democracy informed by cultural awareness and religious freedom Courses in federal Indian law are often aimed at understanding rules not cultural conflicts This book expands doctrinal discussions into understandings of culture strategy history identity and hopes for the future Contributions from law history anthropology ethnohistory biography sociology socio legal studies and fiction offer an array of alternative paradigms as strong antidotes to our usual conceptions of federal Indian law Each selection reveals an aspect of how federal Indian law is made interpreted implemented or experienced Throughout the book centers on the ever present and contentious issue of identity At the point where identity and law intersect lies an important new way to contextualize the legal concerns of Native Americans

Autobiography as Indigenous Intellectual Tradition Deanna Reder, 2022-05-03 Autobiography as Indigenous Intellectual Tradition critiques ways of approaching Indigenous texts that are informed by the Western academic tradition and offers instead a new way of theorizing Indigenous literature based on the Indigenous practice of life writing Since the 1970s non Indigenous scholars have perpetrated the notion that Indigenous people were disinclined to talk about their lives and underscored the assumption that autobiography is a European invention Deanna Reder challenges such long held assumptions by calling attention to longstanding autobiographical practices that are engrained in Cree and M t s or n hiyawak culture and examining a series of examples of Indigenous life writing Blended with family stories and drawing on original historical research Reder examines censored and suppressed writing by n hiyawak intellectuals such as Maria Campbell Edward Ahenakew and James Brady Grounded in n hiyawak ontologies and epistemologies that consider life stories to be an intergenerational conduit to pass on knowledge about a shared world this study encourages a widespread re evaluation of past and present engagement with Indigenous storytelling forms across scholarly disciplines

Rights Remembered Pauline R. Hillaire, 2016-05 Rights Remembered is a remarkable historical narrative and autobiography written by esteemed Lummi elder and culture bearer Pauline R Hillaire Sc lla Of the Killer Whale A direct descendant of the immediate postcontact generation of Coast Salish in Washington State Hillaire combines in her narrative life experiences Lummi oral traditions preserved and passed on to her and the written record of relationships between the United States and the indigenous peoples of the Northwest Coast to tell the story of settlers government officials treaties reservations and the colonial relationship between Coast Salish and the white newcomers Hillaire s autobiography although written out of frustration with the status of Native peoples in America is not an expression of anger but rather represents in her own words her hope for greater justice for Indian people in America and for reconciliation between Indian and non Indian Americans based on recognition of the truths of history Addressed to indigenous and non Native peoples alike this is a thoughtful call for understanding and mutual respect between cultures

William W. Warren Theresa M. Schenck, 2007-01-01 This is the first full length biography of William W Warren 1825-1893 an Ojibwe interpreter historian and legislator in the Minnesota Territory Devoted to the interests of the Ojibwe at a time of government attempts at removal Warren lives on in his influential book History of the Ojibway still the most widely read and cited source on the Ojibwe people The son of a Yankee fur trader and an Ojibwe French mother Warren grew up in a frontier community of mixed cultures Warren s loyalty to government Indian policies was challenged but never his loyalty to the Ojibwe people In his short life the issues with which he was concerned included land rights treaties Indian removal mixed blood politics and state and federal Indian policy Theresa M Schenck has assembled a remarkable collection of newly discovered documents Dozens of letters and other writings illuminate not only Warren s heart and mind but also a time of radical change in American Indian history These documents combined with Schenck s commentary provide historical and contextual perspective on Warren s life on the breadth of his activities and on the complexity of the man himself as such they offer a useful and long awaited companion to Warren s History of the Ojibway

Alanis Obomsawin Randolph Lewis, 2006-01-01 In more than twenty powerful films Abenaki filmmaker Alanis Obomsawin has waged a brilliant battle against the ignorance and stereotypes that Native Americans have long endured in cinema and television In this book the first devoted to any Native filmmaker Obomsawin receives her due as the central figure in the development of indigenous media in North America Incorporating history politics and film theory into a compelling narrative Randolph Lewis explores the life and work of a multifaceted woman whose career was flourishing long before Native films such as Smoke Signals reached the screen He traces Obomsawin s path from an impoverished Abenaki reserve in the 1930s to bohemian Montreal in the 1960s where she first found fame as a traditional storyteller and singer Lewis follows her career as a celebrated documentary filmmaker citing her courage in covering at great personal risk the 1991 Oka Crisis between Mohawk warriors and Canadian soldiers We see how since the late 1960s Obomsawin has transformed documentary film reshaping it for the first time into a crucial forum for sharing indigenous perspectives Through a careful examination of her work Lewis proposes a new vision for indigenous media around the globe a cinema of sovereignty based on what Obomsawin has accomplished

The Turtle's Beating Heart Denise Low, 2017 Grandchildren meet their grandparents at the end Denise Low says as tragic figures We remember their decline and deaths The story we see as grandchildren is like a garden covered by snow just outlines visible Low brings to light deeply held secrets of Native ancestry as she recovers the life story of her Kansas grandfather Frank Bruner 1889-1963 She remembers her childhood in Kansas where her grandparents remained at a distance personally and physically from their grandchildren despite living only a few miles away As an adult she comes to understand her grandfather's Delaware Lenape legacy of persecution and heroic survival in the southern plains of the early 1900s where the Ku Klux Klan attacked Native people along with other ethnic minorities. As a result of such experiences, the Bruner family fled to Kansas City and suppressed their non-European ancestry as completely as possible. As Low unravels this hidden family history of the Lenape diaspora, she discovers the lasting impact of trauma and substance abuse, the deep sense of loss and shame related to suppressed family emotions, and the power of collective memory. Low traveled extensively around Kansas tracking family history until she understood her grandfather's political activism and his healing heritage of connections to the land. In this moving exploration of her grandfather's life, the former poet laureate of Kansas evokes the beauty of the Flint Hills grasslands, the hardships her grandfather endured, and the continued discovery of his teachings.
