The Song Beneath the Ice Joe Fiorito, 2002 A year after concert pianist Dominic Amoroso's mysterious disappearance during a private recital in Toronto his friend the journalist Joe Serafina receives a package of Dom's tapes and notebooks from a place called Wolf Cove on Baffin Island By transcribing the tapes and matching them with entries in the notebooks Joe slowly pieces together the story of what happened to his friend Dom has grown up in the deep shadow of Glenn Gould and in the shadow of expectations that he carry on Gould's heritage It is a heavy load one he struggles and argues with constantly challenging Gould's decisions even as his own identity as a musician disintegrates Freely popping a variety of pills to ward off migraines and other more existential pains Dom confides only in his tape recorder When Joe starts nosing around he finds that Dom's friends such as the music store owner Buddy Keane the photographer Carol Paterson and his lover Claire Weller are either as perplexed as he is by Dom's sudden disappearance or annoyed by the journalist's interest Fiorito has woven his novel from the separate strands of Dom's tapes and notebooks and from Joe's investigation into the pianist's story Brilliantly conceived and expressed and with an exquisite sense of place the story takes us from downtown Toronto's Vietnamese restaurants and homeless shelters to seal skinning contests on Baffin Island The Song Beneath the Ice is a dazzling novel of extraordinary ambition and accomplishment

The World and the Parish Willa Cather, 1970-01-01 One of the few really helpful words I ever heard from an older writer Willa Cather declared in 1922 I had from Sarah Orne Jewett when she said to me Of course one day you will write about your own country In the meantime get all you can One must know the world so well before one can know the parish Although Cather's first novel about her own country O Pioneers did not appear until 1913 the process of knowing the world and of mastering her craft so far as it can be traced in her published writing already had been going on for some twenty years The World and the Parish Willa Cather's Articles and Reviews 1893-1902 is the fourth in a series collecting the work of these years of experiment and discovery More specifically it offers a representative collection of Cather's nonfiction writing for newspapers and periodicals during her first decade as a professional writer Selected from 520 articles and columns the text is divided into three parts corresponding to major developments in Cather's career the period from 1893 to 1896 when she first began to write regularly for Lincoln newspapers the years in Pittsburgh when she was working for the Home Monthly and the Leader and sending her famous Passing Show column back to Nebraska and the period from the spring of 1900 to 1903 when she freelanced in Pittsburgh and Washington taught in a Pittsburgh high school and made her first trip abroad The text has been edited with three main objectives 1 to enable the reader to trace Cather's development as a writer 2 to group the material so that the reader interested in a particular subject the theatre or music or literature for example can readily locate pertinent selections and 3 to provide a context sufficient to relate these pieces to Willa Cather's life and to the times and to suggest some of their connections with the body of her work Chronologies have been included for each of the three parts and the Bibliography is the most complete yet available for the nonfiction writing up to 1903 Not the least remarkable feature of this collection is the range and variety of forms and subject matter reviews of books plays operas concerts art exhibits lectures feature stories interviews straight reportage columns of miscellaneous comment and travel letters Seemingly with no apparent effort Willa Cather could adjust her sights to any assignment and any audience And if it is astonishing that she could write so much about so many matters at so many levels it is perhaps even more astonishing that so much of it was so good Undeniably however the chief interest to the general reader and the peculiar value to the scholar of these journalistic writings reside in their manifold and crucial connections with Cather's later work and in the unparalleled insights they afford into the process by which a gifted writer becomes a great artist
