

The background of the cover is a painting depicting a large group of people gathered around a massive, dark, cylindrical pot or vat, likely for boiling maple syrup. The scene is set outdoors in a wooded area, with trees visible in the background. The people are dressed in traditional or historical clothing, suggesting a past era of maple sugaring. A red maple leaf graphic is positioned over the word 'OFF' in the title.

Sugaring Off The Maple Sugar Paintings Of Eastman Johnson:

Sugaring Off Brian T. Allen, Sterling and Francine Clark Art Institute, 2004-01-01 This lovely book provides the first comprehensive examination of Eastman Johnson's vivid paintings of a quintessential New England theme: the making of maple sugar. This series of pictures executed during the 1860s is perhaps the most ambitious project in the artist's career. Brian Allen discusses the ways in which Johnson's maple sugar paintings reflect a New England on the edge of vast changes both in the technology of farming and in the social structures of small communities. He notes how Johnson conveys the tense, shifting relationship that existed between industrial innovation and New England's distinctive brand of community spirit evident through maple sugar's close association with free labour as opposed to cane sugar's connection with slavery. Presented here in full colour, Johnson's maple sugar paintings are both a celebration of New England and a commentary on a bygone era. This book is the catalogue for an exhibition organized by the Sterling and Francine Clark Art Institute, Williamstown, Massachusetts, January 18 to April 18, 2004, and traveling to The Huntington Library Art Collections and Botanical Gardens, San Marino, California, May 11 to August 1, 2004. The Civil War and American Art Eleanor Jones Harvey, Smithsonian American Art Museum, 2012-12-03 Collects the best artwork created before, during, and following the Civil War in the years between 1859 and 1876 along with extensive quotations from men and women alive during the war years and text by literary figures including Emily Dickinson, Mark Twain, and Walt Whitman. 15,000 first printing. The Genre Painting of Eastman Johnson Patricia Hills, 1977 We Gather Together Charles C. Eldredge, 2022-01-18 The mutual history of art, agriculture, and American identity as told through the theme of the harvest. The harvest has traditionally been a productive season both on American farms and in its artists' studios. Before the early nineteenth century, the ideal of the Jeffersonian yeoman, singly cultivating a subsistence plot for family use, dominated the American imagination. After World War II, the advent of big agribusiness proved less immediately attractive for artists. In We Gather Together, Charles C. Eldredge examines the period in between when many Americans were farmers and much of America was farmland. Organized in a series of case studies, each devoted to a single crop, We Gather Together initially focuses on familiar commodity crops such as corn, wheat, and potatoes and then expands to other yields by Native American harvesters and California floriculturists as well as winter ice cutters and coastal seaweed gatherers. This novel history of agriculture and art traces parallel developments on land and canvas, highlighting breakthroughs in each field. Artists such as Winslow Homer, Doris Lee, and Georgia O'Keeffe are joined by innovators in agriculture, whether mechanical inventors such as Eli Whitney, John Deere, and Cyrus McCormick, or genetic hybridizers such as Luther Burbank, W. Atlee Burpee, and Theodosia Shepherd. Surveying an astonishing amount of material and a wide range of paintings, prints, and other artworks from the nineteenth century to the mid-twentieth century, We Gather Together gorgeously demonstrates how the use of agricultural metaphors permeated American visual culture. The harvest we see here came to signify and dominate politics, poetry, and popular culture, ultimately representing a primary facet of American identity and nationhood Speculative Landscapes Ross Barrett, 2022-08-23

Speculative Landscapes offers the first comprehensive account of American artists' financial involvements in and creative responses to the nineteenth-century real estate economy. Examining the dealings of five painters who participated actively in this economy—Daniel Huntington, John Quidor, Eastman Johnson, Martin Johnson Heade, and Winslow Homer—Ross Barrett argues that the experience of property investment exposed artists to new ways of seeing and representing land, inspiring them to develop innovative figural landscape and marine paintings that radically reworked visual conventions. This approach moved beyond just aesthetics, however, and the book traces how artists creatively interrogated the economic, environmental, and cultural dynamics of American real estate capitalism. In doing so, Speculative Landscapes reveals how the provocative experience of land investment spurred painters to produce uniquely insightful critiques of the emerging real estate economy, critiques that uncovered its fiscal perils and social costs and imagined spaces outside the regime of private property.

American Stories Helene Barbara Weinberg, Carrie Rebora Barratt, 2009 They also consider the artists' responses to foreign prototypes, travel and training, changing exhibition venues, and audience expectations. The persistence of certain themes—childhood, marriage, the family, and the community, the attainment and reinforcement of citizenship, attitudes toward race, the frontier as reality and myth, and the process and meaning of making art—underscores evolving styles and standards of storytelling. Divided into four chronological sections, the book begins with the years surrounding the American Revolution and the birth of the new republic, when painters such as Copley, Peale, and Samuel F. B. Morse incorporated stories within the expressive bounds of portraiture. During the Jacksonian and pre-Civil War decades, from about 1830 to 1860, Mount Bingham, Lilly Martin Spencer, and others painted genre scenes featuring lighthearted narratives that growing audiences for art could easily read and understand. Humanities, 2002 The Art Bulletin, 2004 Includes section Notes and reviews
