Slope Morphology:

Slope Morphology Stanley Alfred Schumm, M. Paul Mosley, 1973 Slope movements of the earthflow type - engineering-geological investigation, geotechnical assessment and modelling of the source areas on the basis of case studies from the Alps and Apennines Winfried Schädler, 2011 This thesis deals with natural slope movements of the earthflow type. The main thematic focus of the work is on the investigation of the so called source areas located in the upper parts of the affected slopes. On the basis of two present day and socio economically relevant case studies in Northern Italy selected aspects of the source areas were investigated. This was done mainly by means of numerical modelling. In one case study the numerical modelling concept was combined with an inverse modelling strategy. Generally the results obtained in both case studies demonstrate the importance of detailed field investigations as basis for numerical models. The determinateness of the modelled problem depends on the availability of such data which is limited by the large dimensions of the investigated phenomena and by the heterogeneity of the involved materials as well as the uncertainties underlying the determination of the geometry of these problems.

Mountain Rivers Ellen E. Wohl, 2013-04 A comprehensive synthesis of current knowledge on mountain rivers. Discussions on fluvial geomorphology and physical processes from the scale of drainage network development to bedload movement complement summaries of mountain river chemistry and ecology. Contains chapters on drainage basins, channel processes, channel biota and human impact. Includes bandw photos. Of interest to hydrologists, geomorphologists, civil and environmental engineers and resource planners. Wohl has a Ph D in geology and has done extensive fieldwork in North America, Asia and Australia. Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc, Portland, OR.

Geology and Geophysics Program Summary for FY ..., 1994 Submarine Slope Systems David Mark Hodgson, Stephen S. Flint, 2005 Submarine slopes provide the critical link between shallow water and deep water sedimentary environments. They accumulate a sensitive record of sediment supply, accommodation, creation, destruction and tectonic processes during basin filling. There is a complex stratigraphic response to the interplay between parameters that control the evolution of submarine slope systems, e.g. slope gradient, topographic complexity, sediment flux and calibre, base level change, tectonic setting and post depositional sediment remobilization processes. The increased understanding of submarine slope systems has been driven partly by the discovery of large hydrocarbon fields in morphologically complex slope settings such as the Gulf of Mexico and offshore West Africa and has led to detailed case studies and improved generic models for their evolution. This volume brings together research papers from modern outcrop and subsurface settings to highlight these recent advances in understanding of the stratigraphic evolution of submarine slope systems. Slope Morphology Schumm, 1973-07-01 Slope Engineering for Mountain Roads Gareth J. Hearn, 2011 Provides a complete guide to the study, design, construction and management of landslide and slope engineering measures for mountain roads with emphasis on low cost. The geographical focus is on the tropics and sub tropics but is also highly relevant to other regions.

where heavy rain steep slopes and weak soils and rocks combine to create slope instability The causes and mechanisms of landslides are described and the hazards they pose to mountain roads are illustrated Methods of desk study field mapping and ground investigation are reviewed and illustrated with emphasis on geomorphological and engineering geological techniques The design and construction of alignments earthworks drainage retaining structures the stabilization of soil slopes and rock slopes and the control of erosion on slopes and in streams covered Slope management as part of road maintenance and operation is reviewed and procedures for risk assessment and works prioritization are described

Land Surface Evaluation for Engineering Practice Dr. James S. Griffiths, 2001 This volume presents a collection of papers on techniques and case studies in land surface evaluation for engineering practice written by specialist practitioners in the field The volume arose out of deliberations by the Second Working Party on Land Surface Evaluation set up by the engineering group of the Geological Society in January 1997 and chaired by Dr J S Griffiths The book provides examples of cost effective methods for collecting land surface and near surface data prior to carrying further detailed ground investigations of engineering sites

Weathering as a Predisposing Factor to Slope Movements Domenico Calcaterra, Mario Parise, 2010 This volume is intended to provide an up to date overview of the approaches methodologies and techniques devoted to better understanding of the weathering conditions of rock masses on slopes According to the local conditions a variety of slope movements may take place and involve weathered rock masses Shallow and rapid soil slips evolving to debris flows are probably the most common type of slope movement At the same time deep seated intermittent landslides can also affect large volumes of weathered rocks and soils Despite the high frequency of landslides in weathered materials and the damage and casualties they repeatedly cause little is known about the relationship between weathering and slope movements This book presents worldwide case studies where a variety of geological and geomorphological settings are discussed The content is divided into three sections the first is devoted to broad aspects of the weathering landslide processes the second and third sections include papers dealing with igneous metamorphic and sedimentary weathered rocks respectively
