Cases and Materials on Criminal Law and Procedure Martin L. Friedland,1978-01-01 Making the Modern Criminal Law

Lindsay Farmer,2016-01-21 The Criminalization series arose from an interdisciplinary investigation into criminalization focussing on the principles that might guide decisions about what kinds of conduct should be criminalized and the forms that criminalization should take Developing a normative theory of criminalization the series tackles the key questions at the heart of the issue what principles and goals should guide legislators in deciding what to criminalize How should criminal wrongs be classified and differentiated How should law enforcement officials apply the law s specifications of offences This the fifth book in the series offers a historical and conceptual account of the development of the modern criminal law in England and as it has spread to common law jurisdictions around the world The book offers a historical perspective on the development of theories of criminalization It shows how the emergence of theories of criminalization is inextricably linked to modern understandings of the criminal law as a conceptually distinct body of rules and how this in turn has been shaped by the changing functions of criminal law as an instrument of government in the modern state The book is structured in two main parts The first traces the development of the modern law as a distinct and conceptually distinct body of rules looking in particular at ideas of jurisdiction codification and responsibility The second part then engages in detailed analysis of specific areas of criminal law focusing on patterns of criminalization in relation to property the person and sexual conduct idea of torture warrants Finally related legal issues are analyzed among them the lawfulness of coercive interrogation under international law and attempts to allow torture only after the fact for instance by applying the criminal law defence of necessity A minimal absolutist view under which torture whether by private individuals or by state officials must be prohibited absolutely in law policy and practice and allowing no exceptions for ticking bomb situations is defended throughout
