British Cinema of the 1950s Sue Harper, Vincent Porter, 2003. In this definitive and long awaited history of 1950s British cinema Sue Harper and Vincent Porter draw extensively on previously unknown archive material to chart the growing rejection of post war deference by both film makers and cinema audiences. Competition from television and successive changes in government policy all forced the production industry to become more market sensitive. The films produced by Rank and Ealing many of which harked back to wartime structures of feeling were challenged by those backed by Anglo Amalgamated and Hammer. The latter knew how to address the rebellious feelings and growing sexual discontents of a new generation of consumers. Even the British Board of Film Censors had to adopt a more liberal attitude. The collapse of the studio system also meant that the screenwriters and the art directors had to cede creative control to a new generation of independent producers and film directors. Harper and Porter explore the effects of these social cultural industrial and economic changes on 1950s British cinema. Chicorel Index to Film Literature Marietta Chicorel, 1975.

Subjects covered include Cinema and emotion Attitudes towards mental illness Socio economic factors and cinema in India Indian personality villainy and history Psychoanalysis in the films of the 60s. Mad Tales from Bollywood will be of interest to psychiatrists mental health professionals students of media and cultural studies and anyone with an interest in Indian culture.
